Act in Spite of the Mayor's Warning.

Huge Tax Default

Default of more than one-third of Cook county realty for taxes was disclosed yesterday when judgment was ordered against 467,000 parcels of property for failure to pay the 1929 levy. Details on page 6.

All employés and creditors of the board of education who wish to accept scrip in lieu of salaries and payments of bills long over two months past due may do so today. The school board yesterday voted to issue certificates of participation in a tax anticipation warrant fund in the face of a warning from Mayor Cermak issued when the board adopted the tax warrants on which the scrip is based.

LEWIS E. MYERS.

At the same time the board adopted an economy measure in the bureau of architecture, proposed by John Christensen, architect, amounting to $1,212,000, in consideration of the proposed $1,000,000 cut in educational expenditures already approved by the committee of the whole, was postponed to a recessed meeting tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. At tomorrow's meeting the board also will consider a cut in office help, proposed by President Lewis E. Myers, which would effect the saving of $30,400 by the elimination of 12 positions.

Discuss Mayor's Warning.

The announcement that applications for scrip payment would be accepted today was made by President Myers following a star chamber session at which the trustees were said to have discussed the mayor's warning that there was no legal warrant for issuing the proposed certificates. No vote was taken in the open meeting and there was no discussion.

"I wish to emphasize the fact that no one has been asked to accept these certificates," President Myers said in making the announcement. "No one will be asked to take them. The plan is not perfect but was devised for the convenience of those who wished to accept."

An office on the first floor of the Loop building at Randolph and Wells streets was prepared last night to accommodate employés who apply for the scrip. Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board, announced that all was in readiness and awaiting word from the president. Printed application blanks will be supplied at the office. The blank will then be compared with the pay roll and the signature on the application blank will enable cancellation of the pay check. Employés may call for the scrip later in the day or tomorrow.

Based on Tax Warrants.

The certificates are based on three tax anticipation warrants, one for $2,000,000 on the educational fund, for paying employés and teachers; one for $2,000,000 on the building fund for paying contractors and employés of the bureau of architecture, and one for $250,000 on the playground fund for the paying of instructors. All certificates bear 6 per cent interest.

The schools' unpaid debts total $13,277,000. They are divided as follows: Five teachers' pay rolls, $7,720,000; two substitute teachers' pay rolls, $332,000; five civil service pay rolls, $2,000,000; five playground pay rolls, $125,000; five pay rolls in the architect's office, $500,000, and contractors' bills, $2,500,000.

Teachers to Meet.

A special meeting of the joint council of the five teacher unions will be held at 64 South Wabash avenue at 4 o'clock this afternoon to discuss the economy program of the board. There will be no discussion of the scrip payment as the teachers remain unmoved in their decision not to accept scrip.

Mrs. Helen S. Heffernan, recently reinstated as a school trustee by Mayor Cermak, pointed out that the $2,000,000 which the board voted yesterday to save in the bureau of architecture included almost $500,000 already saved since Jan. 1 and that the latter item should not be construed as a saving effected during the recent wave of economy. Another $500,000 in the same places would have been effected during the remainder of the year.

PARIS TO TOKIO FLYERS FORCED DOWN; ONE HURT

SHANGHAI, July 14.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Joseph Lebrix and Marcel Doret, French flyers attempting a 6,000 mile nonstop flight from Paris to Tokio, were forced down near Nizhneudinsk, Siberia, 310 miles from Irkutsk, it was reported today by aviation authorities of Irkutsk.

The plane was damaged and one of the flyers suffered an injury to his knee. Doret and Lebrix are accompanied by a mechanic, and the report did not say which of the flyers was hurt.

The cause of the forced landing was not known here, but the message said the flyers had asked that they be returned to Moscow by airplane.

The flyers had last been heard from when they passed Moscow at 11 p. m. [Chicago time] yesterday on the flight to Tokio.

Hungarians Start Ocean Hop.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., July 13.—(AP)—Alexander Magyar and George Endres tonight completed the first leg of their projected flight from New York to Hungary, bringing their low winged Lockheed monoplane to earth here at 5:22 p. m. [Chicago time] after a flight of more than seven hours from Roosevelt Field, N. Y.

Despite the fact that they waited almost two years for ideal conditions, they said they encountered considerable fog on the trip here in their plane, which they have named Justice to Hungary.

Late tonight prospects of bad weather prompted them to postpone their take-off across the Atlantic until after tomorrow.

Large Crowd Greets Flyers.

Although they got away from New York with little ado, because of the suddenness of their decision to start, the flyers were greeted by a large crowd when they landed here. Their only comment as they posed for movie cameras was, "We are very cold."

Both Magyar and Endres are reserve officers in the Hungarian army. They planned the flight to call public attention to wrongs they believe have been inflicted on Hungary as a result of the treaty of Trianon.

Flyers Care for Plane.

Both aviators stayed at the flying field for an hour and a half before leaving for their hotel. They attended to the storing of the plane and the unloading of their clothing and other accessories.

They made it clear they would not hop off until weather reports were most favorable, and expect to negotiate the 3,600 mile trip to Budapest without stopping. They hope to do it in 26 hours.

The Justice to Hungary has a range of 28 flying hours and a 420 horse power engine.

Another Tokio Flyer Lands.

NILA, July 13.—(AP)—C. C. Chichester landed at Ormoo, Leyte island, this afternoon on a flight from Mati, Davao province. He is flying from Sydney, Australia, to Tokio.

Mexico City Flyers Crash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, July 13.—Within 250 miles of the goal of their projected nonstop flight from New York to Mexico City, Seth Terrington and Edward Maloney crashed their plane, Captain Emilio Carranza, on a lonely beach 60 miles north of Soto la Marina in the state of Tamaulipas, at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Neither of the flyers was hurt.

CRIES "MY SON IS NOT GUILTY" AND DROWNS HERSELF

With a wild cry in German of "My son is not guilty" an unidentified woman about 40 years old and well dressed, leaped to her death in the waters of the Lincoln park lagoon near Belden avenue shortly after daylight this morning. Police and coast guardsmen recovered the body after a half hour's grappling and took it to Scanlon's mortuary at 2335 North Clark street.

The suicide leap was seen by Frank Hess, 1651 Burling street. He said he had noticed the woman walking about the lagoon for some time before she uttered the cry in German, and made the plunge. He reported what he had seen to Policemen David Barrett and Arthur Adams of the Lincoln park police force, who called the coast guard. An inhalator squad worked in vain to resuscitate the woman. A handkerchief with the initial "S" was found near where she leaped.

BOAT CAPSIZES OFF OAK STREET; 2 DROWN; 2 SAVED

Two men were drowned yesterday when the small flat bottomed boat in which they were riding overturned in the lake a half mile off the Oak street beach, in sight of thousands of bathers. Two others in the craft with them were saved.

The dead were Thomas Hines, 23 years old, and Oswald Palm, 23 years old, a cripple. Those rescued are Fred Tausch, 35 years old, owner of the boat, and Arthur Twell, 34 years old. Palm lived at 2448 Warner avenue and the others lived in a houseboat tied up at 4004 North Rockwell street, in the north branch of the Chicago river.

Hines sank immediately after the little boat, which was powered with an outboard motor, filled with water. Palm after clinging to the craft for a short time, tried to swim ashore but was drowned after making a few strokes. Twell was taken from the boat by coast guards and Tausch saved himself by swimming to the breakwater a few hundred feet away. The four men had started a trip from the river to Wilmette.

Capone Crew Now Out One Truck of Beer

A breeze flapped the loose end of a tarpaulin on a motor truck as it rolled down an alley under the elevated structure at 18th street last evening. It revealed just enough to whet the curiosity of Patrol Sergeant John T. Coughlin.

Sergt. Coughlin is new in the district. He was transferred only a month ago to the South State street station from Des Plaines street. He lifted the tarpaulin and discovered twenty-one barrels of beer, worth $1,155 on the retail market. "You're under arrest," he informed the drivers, Joe Bue, 29 years old, of 3336 Wentworth avenue, and John Radia, 26 years old, of 4236 Ellis avenue.

"But listen," began one of the men, pleadingly. Sergt. Coughlin raised his hand like a traffic cop ordering stop. He gave the drivers a ride to the station in the police patrol. Policeman Sylvester Stock next drove the truck to the rear yard of the station. The event was notable, because, it was said, it was the first truckload of beer confiscated by police to be brought to the station.

Capone Aid on the Job.

The arrest was made at 7:30. Five minutes later a sport car halted in front of the station with a squeal of brakes and Joe Fusco, Al Capone's beer syndicate lieutenant, hopped out. Fusco strode into the station. "I want to see the lieutenant," he demanded. He was directed to Lieut. Thomas Geary. "Your men pinched a truck load of near beer," he asserted, according to reports.

Lieut. Geary indicated annoyance and referred Fusco to the arresting officer, Sergt. Coughlin. Coughlin turned a deaf ear to whatever pleas Fusco made and turned him back to Geary. The latter, declining still to listen, sent him back to Sergt. Coughlin, and Coughlin, also obdurate, again directed him to the lieutenant. Fusco, apparently tired of the run around, finally departed.

Dennis Cooney Puts in a Word.

A little later Dennis Cooney appeared. Dennis Cooney of the Rex hotel, who is known as Al Capone's south side vice lord. He sought the officer in charge, but Lieut. Geary was out. He approached Sergt. Coughlin. Coughlin gave him no encouragement. He rapped on various office doors without response.

Soon Fusco reappeared with two strange men. With Cooney they held a conference. They circulated around the station. "It was only near beer," they said. "Put the case on ice and turn the load loose."

But policemen shook their heads. It was too late, the Capone emissaries were given to understand. The government had been notified. Besides, the truck, a five ton vehicle, bore a license issued to a Ford. There was a fake commission company's name painted on the truck and two telephone numbers, which also turned out to be fakes.

Cooney, obviously downcast, went upstairs to chat with Radia and Bue. Fusco, also apparently downhearted, walked out of the station and stood in front. As he waited a prohibition agent arrived and drove the beer truck and its load from the police yard in front of the station. He halted the vehicle and honked the horn.

It was a derisive honk, and as the truck disappeared in the direction of the federal warehouse, Fusco stepped into his machine and drove slowly away.

DRY ENFORCER QUITS; CALLS JOB IMPOSSIBLE, AND MAY TELL WHY

"Present prohibition enforcement conditions in this state are such that it would be impossible for me to further participate conscientiously," Mr. Kress said, adding: "The public is entitled to truthful and complete information. It is, therefore, quite likely that I may be able a little later to assist in the more accurate information of public opinion."

He refused to comment further on the suggestion that he "may tell what he knows."

TWO DAY MORATORIUM DECREED TO END RUNS

Story of War Debts

Since the news from the several European capitals is becoming increasingly technical and each day's news likely to confuse the average reader, the following is presented as a simple narrative explanation of the debt situation.

When President Hoover, on June 19, announced his plan for a one year moratorium of reparation payments by Germany and of war debts by the other nations of the world, he was striving to repair temporarily a condition which had grown up as a result of the treaty of peace following the world war.

Germany, in the last few months, has been moving toward a financial abyss. The nation was loaded with debt, had been loaded with debt since the war ended. Other European nations, France and Great Britain foremost among them, have been since the war obtaining huge slices of the annual German revenues.

Germany Has Complained.

To some extent these creditor nations of Germany were in turn transferring what they got in reparations to their own creditors, largest of which was the United States. Germany has complained that the burden has been unbearably heavy and twice since the war there have been revisions in the amount and the manner of paying the annual reparations.

First was the Dawes plan. Next was the Young plan, adopted about two years ago. Without going into its technical details, it required that Germany in the fiscal year beginning on July 1, 1931, pay out $394,400,000.

President Hoover contended that the recovery of the world's prosperity would be greatly aided if a holiday of one year in all transfers of money growing out of the world war were granted. Nobody was to collect and nobody was to pay for a year.

It was pointed out that this meant a heavy sacrifice on the part of the United States, heavier, in fact, than for any other nation. This country under the Hoover moratorium plan would defer collection of $248,000,000, all except $62,000,000 of which was interest due from the fifteen nations. In the year France would be allowed to keep $50,000,000 due America and Great Britain $159,000,000.

Who Would Lose.

The United States and France, however, were the only countries that would stand to lose much in the net balance of deferred collections and payments. This country had no offset for its uncollected millions; it owed no international balances for the war. France would have lost $194,000,000 in reparations and would have been permitted to withhold payments of $105,000,000, a net loss in revenue for the year of $89,000,000. Italy and Belgium would have had smaller losses on the balance.

Mussolini, dictator of Italy, readily acceded to the Hoover program and announced that his government, after July 1, would neither pay nor collect war debts or reparations. The Italian loss in the fund juggling was something less than $9,000,000.

Great Britain's delayed collections from France and from Germany and other European nations overbalanced the remission it was to receive from the United States only by about $16,-

BY HENRY WALES.

BERLIN, July 13.—The German government tonight issued a decree announcing a 48 hour moratorium throughout the country. Following a day of bank runs, in which millions of dollars were withdrawn from nearly every financial institution in the country, the decree ordered that no banks be opened during the next two days.

Nobody will be required to pay any bills maturing during that period. Any legal obligations falling due will be legally delayed pending the life of the moratorium and any obligations outstanding must be postponed during that time.

The closing of the banks also automatically throttles the exodus of capital and prevents the transfer of marks into foreign currencies or securities.

Halts Drain on Reserve.

Thus, German citizens are barred from exchanging local money into outside vaults and buying dollars, pounds sterling, francs, and florins in order to protect themselves against depreciation of the mark.

The government's action, which under the decree can be extended as long as necessary, ends or delays the drain on the meager gold reserves of the state treasury, which are already at a danger point. There is less than $400,000,000 in gold guarantees for paper currency exceeding a billion dollars. The legal coverage requires 40 per cent.

The text of the government's decree follows:

"By authority of article 48, paragraph 2, it is decreed:

"Section 1.—The government is empowered to declare bank holidays. It will be the government's function to decide what public and private credit concerns and institutions are to be affected and what legal consequences are to be drawn.

Appeals to People.

The government today also issued a manifesto, signed by President von Hindenburg, in which the venerable president reiterated the summons made to the nation in 1916, a war time defi, when he called on the population not to lose nerve but to maintain confidence in the fatherland and all would be well.

A single incident marked the financial stringency today when crowds of people awaiting the payment of the dole outside the government labor office, refused to accept a decrease averaging 8 per cent. They began to riot and mounted police were called to disperse them.

The only act of terrorism was that of an unidentified person who tossed a hand grenade into a movie theater in Frankfort, where "All Quiet on the Western Front" was being shown. A panic was averted because most of the spectators thought the detonation of the bomb was part of the film's sound effects.

U. S. Tourists Embarrassed.

Thousands of American tourists here experienced difficulties today in obtaining necessary funds to continue their travels because of a shortage of currency at the banks, and long lines

Foreigners found it impossible to exchange surplus marks into valuta —foreign currencies, such as dollars, pounds and francs—in view of the government's decree prohibiting the transfer of local money into any foreign securities.

It is estimated that more than two billion marks [about $500,000,000] has been withdrawn from the country or utilized for the purchase of foreign currency or securities within the last few weeks, since the acute situation in German finance was revealed through the Hoover moratorium scheme and public attention was focused on the desperate straits of Germany.

Public Is Calm.

Despite the financial crisis, general conditions among the people are undisturbed. The principal cities reported severe runs on all banks, but generally throughout the country no serious apprehension was manifested. The rural elements seemed indifferent, with bumper crops apparently assured.

Despite the chaotic conditions in the Berlin money market, financiers and important government officials generally maintain a note of optimism, basing their hopes on the fact that Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy, and other countries cannot afford to permit Germany to wallow into another state of bankruptcy like that of 1923.

The attitude of the leading state and fiscal authorities is largely influenced by the fact that America has between two and two and a half billion dollars invested in Germany.

Say U. S. Must Act.

They take the viewpoint that America cannot stand passive while Germany sinks again into insolvency through depreciation of the mark, which would automatically imperil all obligations toward the United States.

The government decree today stressed the fact that the present crisis is largely metaphysical instead of material and is dictated by a lack of public confidence. It said the inherent resources of the country will remain untouched if only sufficient breathing space is granted for reorganization and consolidation.

Another thing which caused optimism today was the action of the government in issuing a blanket guarantee for the obligations of the $30,000,000 Darmgaedter und Nationalbank, which closed its doors today. This action was taken to protect depositors' rights.

Bitter Against France.

Much bitter comment is being directed by the Germans against France. The press makes frequent allusions to how Nero fiddled while Rome burned.

Regardless of France's swollen gold reserves and general wealth and no reparations, it is considered inevitable here that the neighbors across the Rhine must suffer a repercussion from the impending insolvency of Germany unless the Bank of France contributes materially toward averting the disaster.

President von Hindenburg is remaining at his East Prussian home at Neudeck, which the nation gave him in honor of his war victories. He will return at the end of the week when Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain come to pay him a formal visit.

Millions Face Loss of Jobs.

Loss of jobs by additional millions of workers in German industry depends upon developments in the next few days. Unless emergency are assured credits to meet pay rolls, shutdowns must occur everywhere, affecting hundreds of factories and other economic units.

Industry everywhere is working on a final remnant of shoestring capital, and is insistently demanding financial support from the bankers to meet its requirements.

Prices have not yet fluctuated following the weakening of the mark for the simple reason that most banks are not handling foreign money transfers and private money changers, like hotels and tourist agencies, are giving the pre-crisis rate of 416 marks for $100, although the official figure has been to 423 marks.

World Financiers Promise to Seek More Aid.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, July 13.—Dr. Hans Luther, fighting little Reichsbank president, who has been jumping about Europe by airplane in a desperate attempt to secure a long term loan to save Germany from bankruptcy, jumped again today without pocketing any big money. Arriving by plane from Berlin this afternoon for the meeting of the board of directors of the Bank for International Settlements, he harangued nineteen cold international bankers for two hours. He acquired the comparatively small sum of $100,000,000—an extension for a maximum of three months of the $100,000,000 credit extended by the world bank, the American reserve bank, the Bank of England, and the Bank of France, which falls due on July 15.

The world bank extended only its share of one-fourth of this sum, but the rest is practically assured, since the Bank of France has already given its consent.

He failed to secure more because the world bank decided it could not do more than recommend to its member banks what ought to be done. To that end it gave Germany a splendid bill of health insofar as the fundamental soundness of the nation is concerned.

Board Issues Statement.

"The board of directors of the world bank took note of the statement of Dr. Luther on the situation in Germany and on the satisfactory character of her economic and budgetary position, in spite of the crisis brought about by withdrawals of short term capital from Germany," a communique issued by the board said. "The German government having approached various governments with a view of obtaining financial assistance on their respective markets, the board, being convinced of the necessity of assistance under present circumstances, declares it is prepared to collaborate therein and to strengthen such assistance by all means at the disposal of the central banks."

Following the conference Dr. Luther, in veiled terms, expressed disappointment at the lack of concrete results. He said:

Approve French Debt Plan.

It is predicted unofficially in world bank circles that Germany, as a result of the bank's decision, will find itself compelled to extend the present two or three day postponement of bourse activities to several weeks in a desperate hope of bringing the panic stricken people to their senses.

One of the most significant things the bank directors did today was to approve France's plan for monthly payment of the $125,000,000 guarantee fund which France must deposit in case Germany, at the expiration of the Hoover moratorium, declares a moratorium under the Young plan.

The reason for this fund is this: France gets the bulk of the unconditional reparation payments made by Germany. In event of a moratorium, she is expected to guarantee the partition of the unconditional reparations among the other nations in the same proportion as other nations would normally receive conditional reparations.

France Posts Troops Along Rhine; Fears German Riots

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 13.—The French war department today planned steps to protect the Franco-German border in case disorders accompany the German financial crisis. It is rumored in Paris tonight that some leaves usually granted soldiers in frontier garrisons on July 14, Bastille day, have been withdrawn.

Premier Laval today gave the French press strict orders to print nothing of this report to avoid arousing public opinion. Foreign correspondents were not invited to the conference, but THE TRIBUNE reporter was present. One Nationalist evening paper, La Liberte, had already printed a short bulletin, as follows: "Measures for protection have been taken at the frontier to meet all eventualities in case of disorders in Germany."

Clamp On Lid.

Premier Laval prepared to issue a denial. A French reporter objected:

"You cannot deny it if it is true and denial will attract public opinion."

Then Premier Laval decided to clamp down the lid and asked the French scribes to say nothing.

This morning Premier Laval had a long talk with War Minister Maginot. It is believed they considered what steps are to be taken in case things turn worse in Germany. Customary Bastille day parades will give an opportunity for a plentiful display of bayonets along the border without arousing undue attention, and the garrisons at Metz, Strasbourg, Toul, Luneville and Nancy tomorrow will bristle with uniforms.

Germany Renews Appeal.

Meanwhile a long string of conferences continued in Paris. The German ambassador, Von Hoesch, called on Foreign Minister Briand—who momentarily abandoned his fishing pole to rush back to Paris—at the Quai D'Orsay and repeated the request for financial aid he made when he saw Premier Laval last night. He got the same answer: "Nothing doing without political guarantees."

Finance Minister Flandin and Budget Minister Pietri spent all day conferring at the finance ministry. They kept in close touch with Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, at Basel by telephone. Late in the day Flandin reported to Premier Laval the results of the negotiations at Basel and the latest developments in Berlin.

Talk of Relief Measures.

During their half hour conference, Flandin and Laval discussed the advisability of extending France's share of the $100,000,000 credit which Germany must repay on Wednesday, and adding an international loan of $200,000,000, which they believe sufficient to allow Germany to carry on two or three weeks more, giving the powers time to draft a comprehensive international scheme to save the Reich from bankruptcy.

The French are marking time, watching developments in Germany and awaiting the results of the internal measures taken by the Berlin government before intervening. The general impression in Paris tonight is that even if the Bank of France should grant a loan to Germany, it would be insufficient to put her back on her feet.

It is further pointed out that it would only ease the situation for a couple of weeks. The only measure to save Germany, it is declared, would be to raise a huge international loan backed up by the central banks. Anyhow, the French government is not willing to take the initiative and is waiting for the United States to take action.

Continue Study of Malady Which Hit County Nurses

Several days will be required to investigate the strange malady resembling ptomaine poisoning that affected a number of nurses of the Cook County School for Nurses last Saturday, it was learned yesterday from Warden Michael Zimmer's office. "Cultures are being made of water and food used at the time the nurses were stricken by Dr. Paul Rhoads who is in charge of the nurses," Warden Zimmer said, "and it will be a few days before we can draw conclusions from these results."

Pecus, the Posing Goat, Feared Taken for Ride

A. M. Davison, 1160 North La Salle street, has lost his goat, Pecus, and with the animal the bulk of his business as a street photographer, he told police yesterday. Pecus was last seen nibbling at the fender of an automobile, and Davison suspects that the car owner, incensed at the goat's gustatory advances, took the animal for a ride. Pecus followed his master about the streets and was always ready to pose in photographs with children, Davison said, and without his pet his business is ruined.

ENGLAND ACTS AS MEDIATOR; CALM REGARDING CRISIS

Believes France Will Aid Stricken Germany.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 13.—Although Great Britain is not taking part officially in the drama on Europe's political stage, which today centers around Germany's frantic effort to obtain credits to avert collapse, she has assumed the rôle of mediator between France and Germany, seeking concessions from both sides in regard to France's political demands as a condition to granting credits to Germany.

London does not fear the outcome of Germany's efforts to obtain credits, believing that Europe realizes that the situation is even worse than it was thought last week and will force political considerations into the background and induce France to go to the rescue. On the other hand, Germany is expected to make an eleventh hour agreement to at least part of France's demands, and also take further steps to increase internal stability and stem the outflow of currency.

Suggests German Concession.

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson is understood to have advised the German ambassador to make concessions to France's demand that Germany cease building pocket battleships. It is denied in official quarters that Mr. Henderson has demanded that Germany take such a step, but it is not denied that he said it would be a good idea. Great Britain tends to discount the importance of the battleship, anyway, holding that it is not useful for war purposes, hence the stopping of construction is not regarded as a great loss for Germany, while the money saved would help the nation in her crisis, the British believe.

Regarding the closing of the Darmstaedter and National bank of Berlin and the resultant panic among depositors, Great Britain again refuses to be disturbed. It admits that the situation is serious, but points out that since the assets of the bank are guaranteed by the government, the closing of the bank must be regarded as merely a part of the German program to avert large withdrawals.

The European stock markets today reflected the German situation. In London prices took an all around slump. Amsterdam and Brussels also showed drops. Even the Tokio markets suffered heavy losses. The Paris bourse was closed for the Bastille day holidays.

England Looks to Nations.

It is confidently expected that other German creditors will follow Great Britain's example and renounce reparations payments before the deadline on Wednesday. But if all the creditors, France excepted, fail to notify the bank for international settlements of their refusal to accept payments before the deadline, then the matter will be cleared up by the experts meeting here Friday morning, whose decisions are to be retroactive. Furthermore, Great Britain does not expect that France will fail to act and cause Germany to default, which would amount to a declaration of bankruptcy.

Foreign Secretary Henderson is going to Paris tomorrow to represent Great Britain at the opening of British week at the Colonial exposition, and will probably confer with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand. He will leave for Berlin on Thursday night to return the recent visit of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius to London. Prime Minister MacDonald, accompanied by his private secretary, will fly to Berlin on Friday morning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, July 13.—The Danish legation at The Hague today filed application with the world court, instituting proceedings by the Danish government against Norway in connection with the East Greenland question.

The application referred to a proclamation by the Norwegian government published on July 10, in which Norway announced occupation of certain territory in East Greenland which has long been claimed by the crown of Denmark.

The Danish government charged that the declaration of occupation constituted unjustifiable encroachment and violated treaties in force between the two nations. It asked the court to investigate and settle the matter. It reserved the right to apply to the court, should circumstances require, for interim measures for the protection of its right, and to ask the court to decide the nature of reparation due for the alleged violations.

SAINT JEAN, Cap Ferrat, July 13. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon hasn't allowed Germany's financial plight to interfere with enjoyment of his vacation, he indicated today.

"I am taking a rest down here," he said, "and I can make no statement on the financial position of Germany or any other country. I will return to America some time next week, but I have not decided yet whether I will leave from a channel port or go via Italy.

"I am completely out of touch with the situation as it exists today. I have had no conversation or exchange of cables with Washington. I haven't even talked with the American embassy in Paris."

Closing of German Bank Starts Run in Warsaw

BERLIN, July 13.—(AP)—A dispatch from Warsaw today said the suspension of the Darmstaedter und National bank here had slowed up all stock exchange business there today and caused withdrawals of funds from banks and savings banks.

CANADA SENATOR MAKES $1,000,000 ON CANAL, CLAIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13.—President Robert O. Sweezey of the Beauharnois Power corporation, tonight coolly told the parliamentary committee probing the corporation's St. Lawrence river power canal project, that Senator Wilfrid Laurier McDougald's profits from the sale of a phantom company and other stock deals in connection with the Beauharnois promotion exceeded $1,000,000. Senator McDougald, along with Senators Raymond of Montreal and Haydon of Ottawa, were formally invited by the committee to give evidence. Sweezey explained an apparently mysterious transfer of 3,200 shares from the late Winfield Sifton to Senator McDougald who, in the senate, had publicly denied any finahcial interest. Sifton, it appeared, was holding the shares for McDougald, who did not want his name mentioned.

HOOVER AWAITS LEAD BY EUROPE TO AID GERMANY

Feels He Has Done All He Properly Can.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—As official Washington views it, the time has come for Germany to help herself by strong measures to preserve her credit. When it comes to outside help, Europe must take the lead, with America banking groups coöperating.

R. M. SACKETT.

With the air filled with alarming rumors that Germany is on the brink of financial collapse, if not of subversion of the government, the Hoover administration worked time today while the European nations discussed measures of financial assistance to the reich at their meeting with the Bank for International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland.

The state department was in receipt of a long cablegram from Frederick M. Sackett, American ambassador to Germany, describing the plight of the reich and stating that immediate help in the shape of an extension of credit is imperative if a crash is to be averted.

Has Done His Part.

President Hoover was kept informed of developments by Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. and Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, but it was stated at the White House that he contemplated taking no further steps in connection with the German crisis at this time.

The President takes the position that he has done all that he legitimately and properly could do when he brought about a one year moratorium on reparations and war debt payments. The American government cannot properly involve itself in the negotiation of an extension of credit to Germany into which enters the question of political guarantees exacted of the reich and other considerations shot through with purely European interest.

So far as American interest is concerned, the proposition of aiding Germany now is entirely a banking matter. And being a banking matter, the administration is not directly concerned. Whatever action may be taken is for the federal reserve banks to initiate and the federal reserve board to approve. To suggest to the federal reserve board what it should or should not do is beyond the province of the President.

Reserve Bank Likely to Aid.

If the bankers at Basel undertake to arrange an international consortium for the extension of a credit of several hundred millions of dollars to Germany, the American reserve banks will be asked to participate. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York would take the initiative and would ask the approval of the reserve board. The board met today, but did not consider the matter, as it had no proposal before it.

If the reserve bank should decide against participation, the board would be unlikely to dictate to it to do otherwise. The board got its fill of dictation when it forced the Chicago Reserve bank to lower its rediscount rate in 1927 and suffered a shakeup in the executive in consequence.

There is a noticeable tendency in official quarters to blame the German government for not having taken more forceful measures up to date to safeguard the credit structure of the reich. The establishment of the moratorium had the effect of halting the flight of capital from Germany for several days, but measures by the German government to prevent capital from leaving the country were widely wanting.

German Bankers Lack Confidence.

There is a good deal of comment on the apparent lack of confidence in the stability of their government on the part of German capitalists who apparently are fearful that the present conservative Hindenburg régime is doomed and that the Hitlerites or other more radical elements are destined to gain control at no distant date.

According to information from banking sources, fully 50 per cent of the capital withdrawn from Germany in the last few weeks has been withdrawn by Germans purchasing foreign exchange. It is stated that American investors have withdrawn but a comparatively small amount of short term credits.

Germany, it is pointed out, could have stopped the flight of capital entirely at any time by imposing an embargo upon the purchase of foreign exchanges, or at least a strict regulation of such purchase by the government. Also necessary would be a vigilant guarding of the frontier to prevent the clandestine export of capital in various forms.

Until Germany does take forceful measures to safeguard her credit, the American and other foreign banking groups, it is surmised, will be loath to advance any considerable loans on what might otherwise prove to be worthless security, particularly in the event of an overthrow of the government.

RUDY FLIES FROM HONEYMOON TO DYING MOTHER

Police Escort Him

Westbrook, Me., July 13.—(AP)—By plane and automobile Rudy Vallee tonight reached the bedside of his mother, Mrs. Charles Vallee, who physicians believed might not live many hours.

Accompanied by his brother, William, in planes from New York and Boston, the radio crooner was rushed by automobile from Portland to the Vallee home here, behind a squad of motorcycle police. He met his father on the porch, gripped his hand and asked:

"How is mother?"

Mrs. Vallee had regained consciousness after a spinal operation only five minutes before her sons arrived. They went immediately to her room where physicians were in constant attendance.

"Do you know them, mother?" the senior Vallee asked.

"Yes, it's Hubert and William," Mrs. Vallee answered slowly.

To newspapermen who asked Rudy about his bride of a week whom he left in New York he answered that the condition of his mother wholly occupied his attention at the moment.

Later tonight he said that in deference to his mother's request he had suspended his radio and other engagements, including rehearsals for a new revue in New York, to remain home for the present. He said the health of his wife, the former Fay Webb, prevented her making the trip either by plane or train.

DRUGGIST GETS YEAR FOR SALE OF HALF PINT

Misha L. Leon, a druggist at 3161 West Roosevelt road, charged with selling half a pint of alcohol, was sentenced to one year in jail by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday.

Prohibition Agent George Krieger testified during the trial that he purchased the half pint of alcohol from Leon on one day and bought another half pint from Philip Horowitz, the landlord, the next day.

Leon's 15 year old daughter, Helen, testified that her father was not at the drug store on the date of his alleged sale, and two other defense witnesses testified that he was visiting at the Mount Sinai hospital.

In instructing the jury, Judge Barnes declared that perjury had been committed either by the agent or by Leon, who also denied being at the store, and told the jurors that to convict Leon they must first find that he perjured himself. Horowitz also was convicted and was sentenced to six months.

The machine which killed him was driven by Edward F. Griesz, 43 years old, of 1426 Latrobe avenue.

May Solve Franco-Italian Naval Question.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 13.—Decisive measures for Europe's peace were given their final welding in Premier Mussolini's motor boat off Nettuna yesterday, in a conversation between Il duce and Secretary of State Stimson. The American secretary will leave for Paris tomorrow with proposals which may lead to a solution of the Franco-Italian naval controversy, it is reported in Rome tonight.

Secretary Stimson looked over the sites of several ancient battlefields this morning, and returned to Rome this afternoon from his week-end trip.

Confers With Envoys.

He had a conference later this afternoon at the American embassy, at tea with the British, French and German ambassadors to Rome. At this conference it is presumed that Germany's urgent financial plight was discussed.

The newspaper Lavora Fascista tonight asserts that the Nettuna visit of Secretary Stimson was more profitable than had been expected, as disarmament plans were discussed anew. The idea is plainly conveyed that Mussolini, in exchange for the support he is giving the Hoover moratorium plan, has obtained a certain amount of Stimson backing for his contention that the Italian navy must be equal to that of any other European navy.

Deny Italy Wants Loan.

Other press articles tonight convey the impression that something very important was settled at Nettuno yesterday, and it has been suggested in some circles that Mr. Stimson prolonged his visit in Rome from Saturday until tomorrow after receipt of important communications from Washington. Denial is made here that Italy might want to borrow American money following Mr. Stimson's cordial visit here, and Mussolini's demonstration of his peaceful intentions.

2 CAPTAINS HEARD BY JURY IN INQUIRY INTO POLICE WEALTH

From unofficial sources, it was learned that the grand jurors were satisfied with Capt. Harding's testimony. He answered all questions fully, it was reported. Capt. Goldberg likewise was said to have responded fully to the examination. The jury, reports intimated, expects to study his testimony further, however.

Another police captain scheduled to appear last night was Capt. Michael Grady of the Kensington station. He was granted a continuance on his plea that his son was ill.

Broker Kills Himself as Exchange Suspends Firm

Toronto, July 13.—[Special.]—Lieut. Col. G. F. Morrison died in the General hospital today, a few hours after being admitted with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his right breast. Trading privileges on the floor of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange had been denied to the brokerage firm of which Col. Morrison was a partner earlier in the day.

BANKER SENT TO PRISON.

Belleville, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Willard J. Stalder, former secretary-treasurer of the Southern Illinois Trust company of East St. Louis, was sentenced to one to ten years in prison by Circuit Judge Bernreuter today. Stalder pleaded guilty two months ago to embezzling $9,134.

9 MOSLEMS DIE, SCORES WOUNDED IN JAIL ATTACK

SERINAGUR, Kashmir, India, July 13.—(AP)—Nine Mohammedans were killed and scores wounded today in an attempt to rescue one of their number from jail. The prisoner was charged with delivering an inflammatory speech against Hindus alleged to have desecrated the Koran.

Armed with sticks, stones, hatchets, and other weapons, the infuriated Moslems invaded the prison and overpowered the guard. Police reserves fired upon them, but the Moslems refused to retreat. Nine Moslems fell dead of buckshot wounds in their heads and chests, while scores of others were wounded.

The cry, "The Hindus are murdering the Moslems!" spread through the city, whereupon the inhabitants, most of whom were peaceful Moslems, barricaded themselves in their homes. Bolder spirits, however, sought vengeance on the Hindus, burning their homes, attacking pedestrians, and wrecking money lenders' stalls. The maharajah appeared on the scene, summoned troops, and restored order.

GERMANS LACK CUSTOMERS FOR FLOOD OF GOODS

Efficiency Takes Role of Frankenstein's Pet.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 13.—Efficient organization raising the productivity of German plants to the highest possible degree turned them into "white elephants," eating up interest, capital, dragging the market with goods it needs, but cannot pay for, German industrialists complain as they view business in their country.

"Our crisis is not one of inadequate possibilities—we have an overflowing sufficiency of equipment, we have the technic—everything except the customers." It was an official of the Reichsverband der Deutschen Industrie [National Association of German Industries] speaking to a TRIBUNE representative on the subject that is nearest to every German industrialist today.

Machinery, New and Idle.

Wherever one looks, big stores standing empty on business streets, houses to let; factories fitted with machinery so new that the paint still glistens—and the wheels of that machinery not turning; big blast furnaces going cool; fancy coal cutting and transporting machinery languidly taking out of the earth a minimum of "black gold" that will only increase the unsold surplus—"all a lot of big white elephants." Germany's industrialists say, "just irritating reminders of days not so long ago, days of favorable 'Konjunktur'" as Germans call trade balance.

Right after the war, its stock depleted, its machinery run down, Germany determined to make sacrifices day and night to create perfect plants inspired by the example of America's practical plants. Rationalisation was the slogan—mass protection the aim. Then hard times came—the world which was to be provided with goods en masse canceled its orders. It was found that rationalization is not always rational.

"In many cases the loans German firms had to take up to finance their rationalisation cost more—at the high rate of interest prevalent here—than the rationalisation could have.

Labor Saving and Doles.

Ultra-labor saving machinery threw many thousands of men out of jobs, and to save them from starvation the government paid them doles. They were to be paid out of unemployment insurance funds, which again were to be collected from workers and employers. The result was that besides paying a high price for the labor saving machinery German industrialists have been compelled to pay doles to the labor they were trying to discard.

"Another reason why manufacturers eagerly adopted labor saving equipment was given by Dr. Friedrich Ramhorst, official of the German Industries association, was:

"'Machines don't strike; they don't get together and hold meetings and raise trouble,' he said. 'Manufacturers felt that they were more pleasant and amiable to use as workers than men. . . . This was especially true, for example, in the coal industries. There are machine cutters, one of which will do the work of 30 men, and so on. . . .'

"'But,' he reflected, 'they overdid it. They forgot that increased population has to be met by increased sales possibilities to be worth anything. Now many of the machines are just costing interest and taxes. As one authority here has said, 'The crisis here is a result of the degree to which the technician has outstripped the salesman.' One big industrialist has remarked, 'High speed production on the assembling line [as in the Ford system] is all right, if there is a buyer waiting at the end of the line.'"

Expensive Cost Cutting Methods.

Actually grotesque are some of the instances of rationalisation and its effects. One of the smaller German bicycle factories in western Germany with three hundred workers turned out a hundred "wheels" at a cost of 2 to 4 dollars a piece. It was decided to introduce "speed-up" work. Result: Two hundred workers were discharged and the remainder turned out a thousand bicycles at a cost per piece of only $1.25. But no one had calculated that it would be possible to sell no more than the usual hundred. So the effective cost per machine rose to $20 apiece. The firm couldn't compete at this rate (anyway, the bicycle industry in Germany is practically at a standstill now because the worker and "little" man who ride bicycles as a means of transportation are hardest hit by the depression).

Bankruptcy followed, and the firm passed into other hands. The chiefs decided to take out the new machinery and go back to the old three hundred worker system. Handwork or no handwork, it was better in tune with the realities of the business situation.

It Sounds So Plausible.

More striking still is the case of a firm in Dresden, one of whose officials decided it would be a fine "rational" idea to install a tube system for delivering messages from one part of their building to another—instead of having them carried by some one of eight messengers, who lost their jobs of course after the new machine system was installed. The added tragedy was that after it was too late some one figured out that the cost of the tube system was such that the interest on the money alone would have sufficed to pay the salaries of the now unemployed messengers.

THREE IN PRISON BRIBE CASE GO BACK TO CELLS

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—Three prisoners whose transfer from Atlanta penitentiary, where they had been serving time for smuggling Swiss watch movements into the United States, to Fort Wadsworth, S. I., has been under investigation by the department of justice, were transferred today back to Atlanta.

At the same time 187 inmates of the army's reservation prison camp, presumably as a result of the investigation, found that life in this reputed "soft spot" was not as easy as they may have been induced to believe by racketeers, who are said to have accepted bribes for engineering their transfer.

The prisoners who were sent back to Atlanta were Paul Rubkin, who is said to have admitted paying $1,000 for his transfer from that institution, and Solomon Rubman and Joseph Y. Pearlman, who were convicted with him on the smuggling charges.

South Bend Girl Kidnaped, Raped by Two Gun Bandit

South Bend, Ind., July 14 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—Mary Hamlin, 25, waitress in the Radio restaurant here, was kidnaped early today by a two gun bandit, taken into the country and raped. The bandit then drove back within a short distance of the restaurant and threw the girl from the car.

The bandit entered the restaurant and ordered a cup of coffee. When he had finished drinking it he drew two guns and ordered the proprietor, Jessie Womiak, to a corner. The bandit then grabbed the girl and forced her into his roadster.

HERE IS RESUME OF REASONS FOR GERMANY'S WOE

France Signs with U. S.

The United States, a heavy loser, and Great Britain and Italy, small losers if the plan was adopted, favored the year's debt holiday. France, still sore from war wounds and standing proportionately to lose nearly as heavily as America, argued over details of the Hoover proposal and not until a week ago Monday did President Hoover announce that France had agreed to accept the moratorium.

French spokesmen in their arguments on the Hoover proposal pointed out that the Young payments were of two kinds. One part could be deferred by Germany to a later date by fulfilling certain conditions. The other kind had to be paid annually regardless of conditions. France did not want to set a precedent by allowing Germany to halt the unconditional payments even for one year.

After much debate the French agreed to a form of compromise under which the Germans would pay the unconditional part of the Young plan payments into the Bank for International Settlements, which it in turn could lend the same sums back to Germany or to other distressed countries, as the directors willed.

The French demanded that the Germans give guarantees that they would not arm themselves and would discontinue the building of small battleships. A compromise was reached and the moratorium, somewhat changed from the original plan, is on.

The matter rests now with Germany, the United States, Great Britain, and Italy all heartily favoring the moratorium and the French having consented to it with reservations. The failure to put it through immediately may be blamed by Germany for the financial panic.

Flight of Capital.

Observers say that there has been a steady flight of capital from Germany in the past month. The bank runs of Saturday and yesterday created a situation which impelled the director of the German central bank to fly to Basel to ask assistance of the Bank for International Settlements.

Germany's flight of capital has taken two forms. Large purchases of foreign currencies have been made by Germans fearing a collapse of their own currency, and many thousands of them had been drawing out their savings and hoarding them. President Hindenburg met these situations by forbidding trading in foreign currencies and by closing the banks.

President Hoover's plan, on its announcement, immediately caused a wave of hope to go through the world's marts of trade. Price rises were noted in the securities markets and in the commodity markets. Some of the enthusiasm cooled as the details were being worked out, but except in Germany some of the gains have been held.

The President's Warning.

At one stage of the argument over the moratorium's form President Hoover warned the French that unless they agreed to come in they would "take less later." Just now Germany, which was to have paid out to almost the whole world, is beseeching the world bank for money to pour into her own dominions.

It needs this money because the slow movement toward the perfection of the agreement caused intense anxiety among both the people and the financiers.

The latter were worried about the $100,000,000 which the German republic was to pay tomorrow to the bank for international settlements. It was uncertain until last night whether this payment was to be made.

2 BANDITS GET LIFE; CONVICTED IN TEN MINUTES

Found Guilty by Jury as Crime Repeaters

After only ten minutes of deliberation a jury in Judge Joseph David's Criminal court yesterday found two ex-convicts, John Bartz, 34 years old, and Louis Casper, 31 years old, guilty of robbery under the habitual criminal act and they were sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

The judge overruled all motions for new trial, imposed sentence immediately and complimented the jury for its quick acting in enforcing the law.

A jury conviction was considered unusual under the habitual criminal code, which may be applied to defendants formerly convicted for robbery, burglary, grand larceny or horse thieving.

The pair were tried for holding up the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings bank last Jan. 17 when they obtained $3,488. Casper and Bartz, with another bandit, were surprised as they were fleeing from the bank by Policeman Martin O'Brien of Oak Lawn, whom they shot and wounded.

The trio were seen to toss the money into a hollow tree as they fled. Bartz and Casper were seized by police when they returned several hours later to recover the loot. The third bandit escaped. Bartz had been out of the penitentiary five years and Casper 30 days when they attempted the bank robbery.

"There must be a stop to this business of making alibis for criminals," Judge David declared in commenting on alibi witnesses introduced by the defense. "There will be perjury warrants in the future."

Stabbed When He Resists Holdup, He Tells Police

Stabbed below the heart, Andrew McDonough, 29 years old, of 5522 Throop street, an automobile painter, was found early this morning at 51st and Ada streets. He was taken to the Englewood hospital, where it was said the wound probably would not prove fatal. McDonough told police he was stabbed when he resisted a man who tried to rob him. His story is being investigated.

BOY WILL HEAR VERDICT TODAY IN POLICE KILLING

Varner Corry Calm Through Three Hour Trial.

By KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

After a trial which lasted a little more than three hours yesterday Varner Corry 15 year old murder defendant, will appear before Judge Joseph Sabath this morning to hear the verdict in his case. The boy was tried for shooting Policeman Edward Smith to death in John Marshall High school on Memorial day.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday that the jurist nodded to the attorneys, "You may proceed." It was 12:15 when he looked up and said, "Gentlemen, does that complete your case?" It did.

The jury had followed the swift presentation of evidence in the fatal shooting of the policeman at the swimming pool of the high school. Ransom Walker and Samuel Antonow, defense attorneys, had agreed to waive a jury trial. Neither that fact nor anything else that happened in the courtroom seemed to make much difference to the person most concerned, the accused 15 year old boy.

He Quietly Through Trial.

Phlegmatic as always, from the moment he was confronted with the revolver he fired four times before the policeman staggered away from him, fatally wounded; through all the interviews with alienists and welfare workers, behavior experts and educators, the boy sat quietly throughout the proceedings, not speaking, hardly moving. His dark blue suit was neatly brushed, his straight auburn hair a bit rebellious but bearing marks of the comb.

"This boy is an introvert. He is not home, but has always been markedly self-centered and secretive, bashful and diffident," read Assistant State's Attorney Elmer Holmgren, from the report of the behavior clinic at the county jail. "He frequently refused to answer questions of which he undoubtedly knew the answers. On the emotional side, he is almost completely lacking, seeming not to have realized what death is, or that it causes widows and orphans and broken homes."

Varner neither looked up nor squirmed, nor displayed the remotest interest either in this analysis of his personality, nor in the confession made by him to Capt. Patrick J. Collins at the Fillmore station following the shooting, read into the record by Assistant State's Attorney Harry J. Busch. This evidence, with the establishing of the corpus delicti by Mrs. Helen Smith, widow of the victim, and the confirmation of police who witnessed Corry's confession, constituted most of the state's case.

Calls Character Witnesses.

Refusing to place his client on the stand, Defense Attorney Walker called a succession of character witnesses, including two relatives of Varner, to establish that prior to the shooting the boy's reputation had been good in his own neighborhood. He then indicated that he would rest his case there.

Final arguments, which are expected to emphasize the youth of the defendant and his peculiar, aloof personality, will occupy a little more than two hours this morning. Prosecutor Busch declared he would waive his argument, depending for conviction upon the rebuttal following summary by the defense.

Divided allegiance was apparent in the crowd that filled the courtroom. Relatives of the dead patrolman expressed bitterness at the efforts made to secure trial for Varner in the Juvenile court, declaring they want to see him given the utmost in punishment. His parents, on the other hand, were surrounded at the court sessions by groups of friends tendering condolences and encouragement that the boy's youth would mitigate his sentence.

One more report, summing up an examination made by Dr. Alex S. Herschfield, former state alienist, will be received this morning by Judge Sabath.

John Noonan, 50 years old, a clerk, committed suicide yesterday by turning on the gas in the basement of his home at 1339 South 58th court, Cicero. His widow told police she knew no reason for his act.

FATHER AGREES TO PAY GIRL'S COLLEGE BILLS

After failing to visit his 17 year old daughter for seven years and failing $8,050 in arrears on child support payments, Carl F. Meier, 7303 Oglesby avenue, secretary of the Adler-Jones window trimming company, yesterday agreed to send his daughter through college and to establish a $10,000 trust fund to be paid on her twenty-seventh birthday, when he was arraigned in the court of Superior Judge John J. Sullivan.

Meier was brought into court on contempt proceedings instituted by his former wife, Mrs. Zula Meier, 1429 Belmoral avenue, who charged that he had failed to comply with the court order at the time of their divorce in 1924 when she was allowed $25 a week for support of her daughter, Kathleen.

Meier agreed to pay his daughter's college expenses, including $20 a week spending money, plus sorority fees. Mrs. Meier, represented yesterday by Attorney Lloyd Faxon, was given a settlement of $15,000 in lieu of alimony when she obtained her divorce.

WOMAN'S DEATH PLUNGE LAID TO SEER'S PROPHECY

Hunt Fortune Teller Who Preyed on Mind.

A fortune teller whose black prophecies are alleged to have driven Mrs. Sarah Koestner, 26 year old mother of two children, to plunge to her death from a ninth floor window of the Saranac hotel, 5541 Everett avenue, yesterday was hunted by police last night.

A note in the dead woman's handwriting evinced fear that her 7 year old son, Harold, would lose his sight and that her husband would desert her. The husband, Louis Koestner, 2853 South Wallace street, told police these fears dated back to a call on an unidentified seer.

"Take care of the children very good," her note to her husband read in part. "Have Harold's eyes tested twice a year. He might get cold if he sits on wet ground. Have Edward's tonsils out and he will be all right. I love you with all my heart."

Koestner told police that his wife left home Sunday evening and failed to return. At 7 a. m. yesterday she took a room at the Saranac hotel and an hour later her body hurtled to the ground from the ninth floor window. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Inability to find work is believed by police to have caused Miss Dorothy Larson, 28 years old, to shoot herself in her room at 1252 North State street yesterday afternoon. Her body was found a few minutes later by her landlady, Mrs. Almira Simpson, a bullet wound in the head and a .32 caliber revolver on the floor at her hand. She had been employed as an interior decorator. She came to Chicago recently from Beloit, Wis.

Because she was "tired of living" a woman known only as Grace Franklin died in a gas filled room at 1411 Washington boulevard yesterday. In her early thirties, with brown eyes and brown bobbed hair, Miss Franklin came to the rooming house Thursday night. Yesterday she was found dead, the gas burner in her room open. A note on the dresser read: I, Grace Franklin, kill myself because I am tired of living. Do not blame any one for this. I did it myself.

SOLDIER SWALLOWS HIS BRIDGEWORK WITH BANANAS AND IS DEAD

Washington, July 14.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Private Olaf Nelson of Fort Bliss, Texas, died at Walter Reed hospital early today after five unsuccessful attempts to extract from his esophagus artificial teeth he swallowed last Saturday. He was rushed here in an air race for his life from El Paso, Texas.

Nelson was conscious at the end of the twenty-four hour flight in an ambulance plane. He asked for water as he was borne into the hospital.

Maj. Daniel Franklin of William Beaumont General hospital, who accompanied Nelson, told the story thus:

"Saturday morning Nelson was eating bananas for breakfast. He swallowed the bridge and tried to remove it with his fingers, but only pushed it farther down."

CERMAK TO MAKE MORE COPS DO A COP'S WORK

Opposes Use of Police in Unnecessary Jobs.

Chicago has an appropriation of $15,847,560 to police the city this year. Apparently, Mayor Cermak declared yesterday after examining reports which showed what every policeman in the city is doing, the department is doing everything except police the city.

He mentioned more than 200 assignments which he considers nonessential and promised that the men on such assignments will be assigned to patrol duty. Then he turned his attention to the street department, where he ordered further economy moves.

Attacks Street Expenditures.

"In the street department," said the mayor, "the previous administration spent five months' appropriations in the first three months of this year. In the first six months of the year street department expenditures were $1,471,000 out of an appropriation of $2,688,000. This leaves us only $1,197,000 for the second half of the year.

"The money we save now will only make up for the waste and extravagance in the first three months of this year."

The mayor ordered a reduction in the number of street section foremen, of whom there are now 240, for whom an appropriation of $504,000 was made. Half of them are not needed, he said.

Insists on Street Duty.

"I'm surprised at the small number of men doing police work in the police department," the mayor declared. "Under the previous administration, the acting commissioner put all the men on the street he could, but he was subjected to pressure. There's no pressure now, and we are going to have more policemen on the street. I don't feel that we should give special police service to any one.

"Here's a policeman assigned to regulate parking on Walton place. If we have a man there, why not on every other street in the city? I find that there is a man assigned in every station in the city to find work for unemployed boys. The captain's secretary could take applications for jobs.

"We have about fifty men watching old buildings which have been condemned by the building commissioner. At that rate, it costs the city more to watch such a structure for a year than it would the owner to tear it down. There are a number of men assigned to buildings in the loop. Those buildings can hire special policemen if they want special protection."

Police Guarding Stores.

Mayor Cermak mentioned that a number of policemen are assigned to guard a chain of candy stores in the loop, and others to watch in telegraph offices. It was pointed out that those places were held up some time ago, and the police were probably assigned in the hope that robbers would return.

"What will we do after we have 5,000 robberies?" he asked. "We wouldn't have any policemen left under such a system."

The mayor was asked about reports that he is contemplating a trip to Europe for his health.

"I don't know," he replied. "I'd like to go. I've got to take a rest some place, not necessarily in Europe, but some place where I can get away from daily worries for a while."

DIES IN GAS FILLED HOME.

John Sullivan, 40 years old, 4016 West Van Buren street, a street car conductor, was asphyxiated at his home yesterday when coffee he was preparing boiled over and his home became filled with gas.

Saves $9,000,000

[Acme Photo.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—In a decision handed down today, the board of tax appeals denied the right of the government to levy an additional tax of $9,000,000 on the estate of the late James B. Duke, tobacco king, who died in October, 1925. The board ruled that two trust funds totaling more than $30,000,000 set up by Duke in 1917 in favor of his daughter, Doris, had not been made in anticipation of death and were therefore not subject to tax.

Under the terms of the trusts, Duke made himself trustee during his lifetime. The board declared that this did not alter the case, since the trusts were irrevocable and under their terms ownership of the property could not have reverted to Duke, except through the prior death of his daughter.

ALLEGED CHURCH SQUATTER LOSES ROUND IN COURT

Clarence Spiering lost another round in the courts yesterday in his fight to make his permanent home in the Hickory Corners Methodist church, 3 miles east of Antioch. Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Circuit court at Waukegan denied his motion for a new trial, sustaining a directed jury verdict which ordered Spiering and his family evicted.

Attorneys for the alleged squatter obtained thirty days in which to file an appeal with the Appellate court. They announced that the case would be carried to the state Supreme court if necessary.

Seven months ago Spiering and his family moved into the church following the burning of their home nearby. Trustees of the church charged him with trespassing, but Spiering claimed the right to the abode on the ground the title of the land, once held by his mother, reverted to her, and to him, because the church had not met the requirements of holding regular services as had been established in the original grant to the church. Pending settlement of the court case the Spierings occupy the church.

$75 Only Irritates Bandit; He Takes the Rest, $1,235

Norman Rubin, manager of the Springer Produce company, 169 South Water market, and Jacob Cohen, 1508 South Karlov avenue, were on their way to a bank when two men held them up yesterday at Roosevelt road and Peoria street. Rubin surrendered a cigar box containing $75 in change.

The bandit turned to join his companion, looked in the box, and whirled on Rubin. "Gimme the rest of the dough," he demanded, waving his revolver. He searched Rubin and found $1,235.

THIRD OF COUNTY REALTY TIED UP IN TAX MUDDLE

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

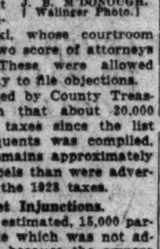
More than a third of the real estate in Cook county, both in number of parcels and in values, is now in default or in litigation on taxes for the tax years of 1927, 1928, and 1929.



J. B. M'DONOUGH.
[Wallinger Photo.]

This was disclosed yesterday when County Treasurer McDonough filed a bill to obtain judgment for delinquent 1929 taxes, due May 15, last, on 467,000 parcels of land. This suit was before County Judge Jarecki, whose courtroom held, probably, two score of attorneys for objectors. These were allowed until next Monday to file objections.

It was estimated by County Treasurer McDonough that about 20,000 have paid their taxes since the list of 467,000 delinquents was compiled, but there still remains approximately 150,000 more parcels than were advertised for sale of the 1928 taxes.

Owners Get Injunctions.

There are, it is estimated, 15,000 parcels of real estate which was not advertised for sale, because the owners had obtained injunctions preventing such advertisement. They contend that the taxes are not only excessive, but are so inequitable as to be void.

On the 1928 taxes, there were originally about 82,000 objectors in the County court, and perhaps 10,000 of these have been finally disposed of. The others are said to be about ready for decision. In addition there are still pending 1,300 cases dealing with the 1927 taxes.

The proportion of the delinquent and protested taxes is best indicated by the fact that the county sent out a total of 1,100,899 bills—532,647 in the city and 568,952 in the country towns.

Complaints against the 1930 taxes are now being filed in large volume before the board of review. More than 11,000 protests have been made to date, and many more are expected. The board received 40,000 complaints against the 1929 taxes, 68,000 protests against those for 1928, and 89,000 against those for 1927.

The city and county and the school and sanitary district boards received a questionnaire yesterday from Gov. Emmerson's revenue committee headed by Joseph K. Brittain. Its purpose is to ascertain the present financial status of each of these four major governments and to determine how they are to be financed until Oct. 1.

Szymczak Replies for City.

In his reply for the city, Controller Szymczak said that the corporate fund on July 1—the date for which the financial data was asked—was short $373,000, the bond fund had $123,979 on hand, the Library fund $47,244, the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium $159, the firemen's pension fund $34,312, the police pension fund $990,686, and the municipal employés fund $1,178,523.

In reply to the question asking the expected revenue of the city in the next three months, the controller estimated that the corporate fund will obtain $550,000 in July, $525,000 in August, and $510,000 in September.

The controller fixed the amount of the bills the city now owes at $7,635,000, and the additional bills which will probably be received in the next three months was estimated at $1,850,000 additional.

The pay rolls which will come due during this period were placed by the controller at $3,950,000 a month, or a total of $11,850,000. Thus, the city has bills overdue, others in prospect and pay rolls for the three months which will total $21,335,000. The questionnaire did not ask how the city expects to meet these obligations, but it is expected that it will sell 1931 tax anticipation warrants to the city's idle and trust funds. An official statement will probably be made by a representative of the city at the meeting of the Brittain committee this evening.

Representatives of the other three local governments will also be called upon for their plans for financing in the next three months. Each government's representative will tell how many tax anticipation warrants are outstanding for 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931, the tax collections for each of those years to date, and how much more in taxes each government expects to obtain for each year. The committee also will inquire as to when the officials expect to get these taxes.

COUNTY EMPLOYES TO BE PAID MONDAY OUT OF COLLECTION FEES

County employés will be paid next Monday. Funds sufficient to meet one of the two overdue bimonthly pay rolls were found yesterday by county officials. The money, approximately $400,000, consists of fees belonging to the county which were earned by County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough for collecting 1929 taxes. The announcement was made by County Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the county board's finance committee. Approximately 4,000 employés will benefit. Another pay roll is due on Friday.

Treasurer McDonough said tax collections of the last few weeks will permit the taking up of $2,000,000 in outstanding 1929 tax anticipation warrants, $1,500,000 in corporate warrants, and $500,000 in highway warrants.

The finance committee of the board yesterday discussed the selling of $2,000,000 in poor relief bonds and $2,150,000 in bonds for the nurses' home. These could be sold advantageously and a portion used to meet overdue salaries, Commissioner Kavanagh said. The commissioners opposed the plan when it was pointed out if the funds were used for salaries there might be no relief for the poor next winter and the nursing service might be crippled.

Rejected Suitor Held as Slayer of Girl's Brother

Peter Vasilenko, 24 years old, was held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday on the charge of murdering John Demko, 24 years old, 3040 South Maplewood avenue. Demko was shot to death by Vasilenko in a quarrel Friday evening over Anna Demko, sister of John, who had rejected Vasilenko as a suitor. A letter which threatened death to members of the Demko family was read at the inquest at the county morgue.

DEMAND THEATER CHAIN BOOKS IN RACKET INQUIRY

Prosecutors Get Subpœna to Call Officers.

Aside from the state's attorney's office entered the offices of the Publix-Balaban & Katz Theater corporation, 175 North State street, and the Motion Picture Exhibitors' association, 910 South Michigan avenue, late yesterday, seeking documentary evidence of racketeering in the Motion Picture Operators' union.

SAM KATZ.

The squads bore subpoenas duces tecum, issued earlier in the day by Acting Chief Justice Joseph Sabath of the criminal court, on request of Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Lenherry and Charles Bellows. These prosecutors have been making an investigation of the union's affairs for the last two months.

Subpoena Names Officials.

The subpoenas named Sam Katz, president of Publix-Balaban and Katz; Elias Immerman, vice president; Barney Balaban, treasurer; and Morris Kirk, secretary. The subpoenas commanded these officers to produce forthwith all records, canceled checks and vouchers of the corporation indicating payments to any union or union official.

Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union, has been accused of czaristic tactics in conducting its affairs and was questioned at length three weeks ago concerning the murder of Jacob B. Kaufman, insurgent union member, who was reputed to have opposed Maloy's rule.

Speaking for Publix-Balaban and Katz, Barney Balaban declared he had instructed members of the organization to cooperate fully with the state's attorney's office and afford the investigators access to all records. Records covering the years from 1927 to 1929, he said, were stored in a warehouse at 401 North Asland avenue, and those of subsequent years to the present were now in the corporation's main office in New York.

Writes to New York for Records.

Mr. Balaban added that he had telegraphed the New York office to ship the 1930 and 1931 records to Chicago immediately. All officers of the corporation excepting Sam Katz are Chicago residents.

RENO EASY DIVORCES SHOCK CONVENTION OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

San Francisco, Cal., July 13.—(AP)—Leaders of the International Christian Endeavor society in convention here today labeled Reno, Nev., "a blot on civilization" and discussed a formal resolution on the subject.

The Rev. Mark Matthews of Seattle, attacking the "wide open" Nevada metropolis, declared "Nevada has repudiated its states' rights in the American commonwealth. The state is a disgrace to the nation, both in its divorce and gambling phases."

President Daniel A. Poling of the society said a formal resolution against Reno's "wide openness" would be considered, although, he declared, "we ordinarily confine our stands to principles only."

Dr. Harry N. Holmes, field secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship and president of the New York State Christian Endeavor union, said:

"Reno and what it is doing presents a distinct menace to the ideals and concepts for which this country has always stood. Anything such as is being done in Nevada tends to undermine the permanence and strength of the home and is a disintegrating force in the corporate life of the country."

SELF-APPOINTED REFORMER HITS WOMAN SMOKER

Jail and $25 Fine Cool His Zeal.

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—Men whose animus is aroused by the self-expression of the modern age had better learn a lesson from the experience of Michael Kelleher, 40 years old, of the Bronx.

After spending four sweltering days in jail Mr. Kelleher today was forced to part with a $25 fine in West Farms Police court and listen to a severe reprimand from Magistrate George De Luca, who vigorously upheld the rights of women to smoke when and where they please, unmolested by the irate male.

Mrs. Pearl Barton charged she was assaulted by Mr. Kelleher, a perfect stranger, when she lit a cigaret.

According to the story told in court today by George Hobbs, 14 years old, of the Bronx, who was carrying her groceries, Kelleher, on seeing Mrs. Barton light her cigaret, called her names and struck her, knocking her down. The boy said he ran for a policeman. Mrs. Barton exhibited the dress she wore at the time, torn almost to shreds.

Judge De Luca listened to the boy's story, checked it with corroborative statements from other witnesses made last week, when the case first came up for hearing, and because of the good past record of Kelleher, who for twenty-five years has been in the employ of the same meat packing concern, imposed only a $25 fine.

DEMAND RATES FOR NEW GAS BE JUSTIFIED

At the close of a hearing before the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday, attorneys for the Amalgamated Improvement association announced that today they will demand that the various companies associated with the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company in a plan to furnish natural gas to Chicago from Texas, justify the rates they intend to charge.

The hearing will probably proceed throughout the week. It eventuated from the request of the Peoples company for permission to change the content of its gas to a mixture of natural and artificial gas. If the change is made, according to H. R. Booth, representing the improvement association, the source of Chicago's gas supply will be 1,000 miles from the city and the gas will pass through the hands of various companies in reaching here—companies entirely out of the control of the Illinois commerce commission. Hence, he stated, unless the commission safeguards the Illinois public at this time, it will never be able to do so.

This morning the commission will hold an informal conference with interested parties to set a date for the filing of the new rate schedules. Yesterday afternoon George F. Mitchell, president of the Peoples company, was on the stand and it was indicated the new schedule would be ready within two or three weeks.

Divorce Trial Date Set for Katherine MacDonald

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 13.—[Special.]—The sensational divorce trial of Katherine MacDonald, film actress, against Chris H. Holmes, millionaire, today was set for July 29 here. Miss MacDonald is still guarded by armed men at the secluded quarters where she is recuperating from shoulder wounds which, her divorce papers state, were caused by jumping from a window while her husband fired at her.

WARDEN WIRES HE'S READY TO TAKE A. B. FALL

Santa Fé, N. M., July 13.—(AP)—Warden Ed Swope of the New Mexico penitentiary today telegraphed A. B. Bennett at the department of justice in Washington, that he is willing to accept Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, as a prisoner.

"Will you be willing to accept A. B. Fall as prisoner? Usual terms. Reply at once," read an earlier telegram to Warden Swope from Bennett.

The "usual terms" referred to consist of $1 a day paid by the government for keep of federal prisoners. The money includes clothing, food, and lodging.

Mr. Swope's answer said the New Mexico penitentiary had a prison physician who would take care of Fall if necessary, but added that if additional physicians are desired by the Fall family they will have to be paid for by the family or the government.

DEAD GANGSTER'S CLUTCHING HAND AVENGES KILLING

Two Shots in Heart End "Little Goat's" Career.

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—The "clutching hand" of the slain Giuseppe Pisano, whose withered left hand was hated and feared throughout Brooklyn, reached out in death today to claim the life of his asserted slayer, Vergo Pisano, ex-convict racketeer.

Pisano, father of four children and, according to police, involved in several blackmail and racketeering rings in the Italian colony, was known as "The Little Goat." And it was he, police asserted, who was responsible for the murder of the "clutching hand" a year ago last April and for the murder of Giuseppe Pisano's son, Carmine, the following October.

Pisano was paroled from Sing Sing prior to that after serving part of a three to seven year sentence for the slaying of John Soma, father of eight children, in October, 1926.

Police Find No Witnesses.

"The Little Goat" was found in the middle of the street. He had been shot once, through the heart.

Police were unable to find any witnesses to the shooting. Their theory was that he had been shot either from a passing autombile or from a window or doorway of a house in the neighborhood. He was unarmed and was shot down apparently without warning or opportunity to defend himself.

Three of the dead man's brothers, according to police, have been "put on the spot" and slain in Brooklyn gang wars in the same vicinity during the last ten years. They also said that while Pisano was in Sing Sing for the Soma slaying, his wife, mother of his four children, eloped to Italy with a Brooklyn Italian, who later joined the French foreign legion and was sent to Morocco.

Only One of Five Brothers Alive.

Pisano came to this country with his five brothers in 1907. In that first year one of them, Angelo, was shot and killed in President street near Hicks street.

In 1912 another brother, Incindo, was shot and killed in President street a few feet from where his brother had been murdered.

In 1921 still another brother, Adredo, was killed at this same street corner.

Ralph Capone Rum Case Is Continued to Sept. 21

The booze conspiracy case against Ralph J. Capone, brother of Scarface Al, and seventeen of his henchmen accused of flouting the dry laws at the Cotton club and the Montmartre, Cicero cabarets, was continued to Sept. 21 by Federal Judge Barnes yesterday. Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West informed the court that Prosecutor Victor E. La Rue was busy on other matters. Capone and the others, including Michael [Bon Bon] Allegretti, Perry Haller, and William Dillon, were in court.

COL. JOHN F. J. HERBERT.

Col. John F. J. Herbert, dry administrator for the 7th district, yesterday reported the result of his first year's activities, the fiscal year ending June 30, during which 4,473 arrests were made, 1,476 being in Chicago.

The 7th district includes Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana. During the year 1,237 stills were seized and 1,981 beer fermenters confiscated. A total of 408,082 gallons of beer and 136,962 gallons of spirits were seized in the three states. Seizures also included 411 automobiles and 9 boats.

Total jail sentences, aggregating 400,906 days, were 2,706. Total fines were 2,413, aggregating $647,129.

BEER, ALCOHOL ARE SEIZED IN VILLAGE LIBRARY

Madison, Wis., July 13.—[Special.]—Madison federal authorities and local authorities coöperated in destroying a quantity of beer and alcohol discovered in a back room and the basement of the public library at Waunakee.

Mrs. T. W. Baker, the librarian, called the mayor when she happened to step into the rear room for the first time in five years.

As no evidence was found as to the ownership of the liquor no arrests were made.

GRAFT WITNESS FLUNG TO DEATH, EX-CONVICT SAYS

But New York Police Doubt His Story.

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—Robert Hulsert, a man with a police record, went to police headquarters today and swore that he had seen two men push Traugott F. Keller, chief engineer of the dock department and star witness in the legislative city-wide graft investigation, in front of an incoming subway train at Bowling Green station last Friday morning.

Keller's death was reported as suicide at the time, and from discrepancies in Hulsert's story and conflicting testimony of two witnesses the police were inclined to discount his account of what happened.

Hulsert's Story.

According to Hulsert, he was standing on the stairs of the station, a few steps from the platform, as the train roared in. A man—Keller—was standing near the track and Hulsert said he saw two men approach him from behind and shove him into the path of the train. They turned and fled up another stairway, he said.

Hulsert explained his delay in reporting the happening by the fact that he "didn't want to get mixed up in anything," having a police record which is said to include several penitentiary terms for passing bad checks.

All Three Contradict Him.

Salkin said he ran toward the car when he heard it put on the brakes suddenly and that he saw no one running from the scene. Canty said no one had entered the station for several minutes before Keller was struck and no one left for several minutes afterward.

Matthews, who was upstairs at the exit, said he did not see two men leaving.

VACATE BOND, SEND "LEGS" DIAMOND TO JAIL AS TRIAL OPENS

Troy, N. Y., July 13.—[Special.]—The jury to hear the evidence in the state's case against Jack ["Legs"] Diamond in connection with the torturing last April 18 of Grover Parks, a Cairo farmer, was completed in the Rensselaer county courthouse tonight.

Another half hour was then spent before Justice James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn who adjourned the trial until tomorrow, in listening to the opening remarks of both sides in the case.

The jury was sent to a hotel to spend the night under guard and Diamond, who had been free on bail for weeks, was sent to the county jail for the night. He will not be admitted to bail pending the outcome of the trial. The jury will be locked up every night, the court announced.

15 YEAR OLD BOY PUT ON SPOT BY NEW YORK GANG

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—A 15 year old boy was "put on the spot" and killed by gangsters in a taxicab, who fired two shots into the lad's chest, as he sat on a news stand in front of a candy store at 153 Lincoln avenue, the Bronx. The assassins made their escape in the cab before witnesses could even note its number.

The slain youth was Samuel Savino, who lived with his parents in a flat at 151 Lincoln avenue. His father is a dealer in coal and ice. The boy was lounging alone on the news stand when the taxicab came by at a high rate of speed, at about 11:45 o'clock. The cab slowed up while the shots were fired and then sped out of sight.

The police were puzzled and dismayed at so unusual a crime and a heavy concentration of high officials, led by Deputy Police Commissioner Muldoon and Inspector Henry Bruckman, in command of Bronx detectives, soon took charge of the investigation. They agreed that putting a lad of such tender years "on the spot" was unprecedented, even for hardened criminals.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS $43.

Miss Esther Freed, 25 years old, a domestic employed in the home of Dr. Benjamin Levinson, 3505 Castello avenue, was robbed of $45 yesterday by a thief who snatched her purse at Ballou street and Armitage avenue.

FIVE BANDITS SLAIN, ONE POLICEMAN DEAD IN WAR ON ROBBERS

Los Angeles, Cal., July 13.—[Special.]—Five bandits shot dead, one policeman slain and another near death from a bullet, today comprised a one-day casualty list in war here against holdup men.

Policeman Ralph Morgan of Long Beach died today. His partner, Policeman Harry Bogges, is in Seaside hospital, Long Beach. He was shot by two brothers, both ex-convicts from San Quentin, who killed Morgan last night.

The two assailants, Wilbur and Christian Lilja, 32 and 29, were shot by Bogges, after the first brother shot down Morgan, and the second brother shot Bogges.

Two other robbers, Philip McDonnell, 24, of San Bernardino, Cal., and Fred Blake, 45, were shot to death while robbing a store in Glendale, by two officers stationed in the store as result of a wave of shop holdups in that suburb.

The fifth robber slain was Robert Winslow, 28, late of New York. He was caught after zigzag midnight auto chase by a police auto squad. Winslow, McDonnell and Blake, all were identified as participants in recent robberies.

WOUNDS FORMER BOSS; IS SHOT TO DEATH BY POLICE

Charles P. Donaldson, 55 years old, was shot and fatally wounded by police in a running fight yesterday after he had shot and probably fatally wounded his former employer, Orville P. Fox, 36 years old, head of the Bank's Linen Supply company. Donaldson died last evening in the bridewell hospital.

The wounding of Fox occurred in the supply company's agency at 1235 North Wells street. A radio alarm was flashed, and Policemen Michael Brown, James Lockford, and John Ringe of the Hudson avenue station arrived in time to see Donaldson fleeing. The policemen exchanged shots with Donaldson and he was captured, suffering from two bullet wounds in the head, in the basement at 1221 North La Salle street.

Police took Fox to the Henrotin Memorial hospital, where physicians said his condition was critical. No definite motive for the attack on Fox was learned, but detectives said they understood that Donaldson had claimed Fox owed him some pay for the two weeks he had worked for the laundry.

THE FAST, PLEASANT, LOW COST WAY TO COLORADO

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

Fire engines once were pulled by horses; but times have changed—and so have refrigerators.

As silently as nature makes ice, and for half the cost of ice, Electrolux supplies perfect automatic cold and ice cubes

THE old-time icebox was a great improvement on the spring-house. The first automatic refrigerators were a great improvement on the icebox.

Electrolux has no moving parts at all—only a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water. The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in rigid steel and needs no renewal.

Electrolux is already in more than 175,000 homes. It is the most economical refrigerator you can use—costs only a few cents a day.

Connections for gas and water are through concealed flexible copper tubing, and are quickly made for you. And, should your Electrolux ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

Despite all these unique advantages, Electrolux costs you no more to buy. There are 11 different household models to choose from—3 cu. ft. up to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Why not see Electrolux at your gas company's showroom? For complete information by mail, write to us, or phone Wabash 6000.

THE SENATOR — a roomy, beautiful Electrolux model — extremely popular for families of 4 to 6 persons

ELECTROLUX
THE Gas REFRIGERATOR

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE
Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of any other means of refrigeration.

ILLINOIS PARTY CHIEFS UNCOVER FLOCK OF BOOMS

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The lightning rod business seemed to come out of its political depression yesterday and the hoisters' union put in a busy time. Scouts, Republican and Democratic, came up from southern Illinois with gossip cleaned at the Vandalia and Alton judicial conventions last week, embracing 21 counties in the 2d Supreme district.

THOMAS M. JETT.

Egypt, to hear them tell it, has the largest peach crop in its history in sight, and the prospects are exceeded by a bumper crop of political booms, ranging from the possible to the probable and improbable.

Some of the Democrats sprung the name of Judge Thomas M. Jett of Belleville as a possible candidate for governor. He was chairman of the Vandalia convention which nominated Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton to fill the vacancy caused by the voluntary retirement of Justice William H. Farmer from the Supreme bench. Judge Jett is a rugged Lincoln type, and as one of the most popular members of the downstate Circuit bench. At Vandalia he turned down proposals to break the two days' deadlock by naming him for the high bench. He is not a candidate, but yesterday he was among those boomed in the headquarters' gossip.

Snell Also Groomed.

Judge Truman A. Snell of Carlinville also was being groomed by some. He is a former dry and in the recent session of the legislature he was one of the leading advocates in the house of the prohibition repealer.

Other downstate Democrats who have been prominent in the mention are William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, congressman at large, whose friends launched a boom in November at Hot Springs, Ark., during the Democratic steamroom convocation, and Ross Campbell of East St. Louis.

So far Cook county is represented in the roster of possibilities by Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and house floor leader, who indicated his candidacy at a Springfield dinner last week which sprung a full fledged Igoe boom.

Republicans Spring Booms.

At the Alton Republican judicial convention booms stuck up like an asparagus bed. Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill, who declined to run for the judicial nomination, has been spoken of as a candidate for congress. He says, however, there is nothing to this, as Richard Yates, whose job as congressman at large was wiped out by the reapportionment, has the call on the race for district congressman.

Cuthbertson's friends tentatively mentioned him in connection with the governorship, taking the dry end, in case Gov. L. L. Emmerson does not run. All the dope among Alton delegates, however, was that Emmerson would be a candidate for renomination. Cuthbertson is a trustee of the Anti-Saloon league, and last year he denounced the league managers for indorsing Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill for senator. His friends say he may run for attorney general.

In the wake of the Alton meet also appeared a governorship boom for Walter M. Provine of Taylorville, an old Deneen warhorse. He is former United States district attorney at Springfield, and he was chief sponsor of the movement that made his law partner, Harold S. Williams, a 32 year old attorney, a dark horse winner of the nomination to run for the supreme court against Judge Norman Jones. Provine has a desire to go on the federal bench. The Deneen group as yet has not even started grooming a candidate. District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson has been mixed by the politicians as the best Deneen bet, with the added advantage of being a Cook county man. But "Q" is said to have his eyes on the federal bench instead.

At Alton, too, Senators Arthur A. Rice of Rosiclare and Charles H. Thompson of Harrisburg were mentioned in the gossip as possible candidates for attorney general in the Republican primaries, and Senator William R. McCauley of Olney as a possibility for state treasurer.

Meanwhile Oscar E. Carlstrom, attorney general, has been an avowed governorship candidate since July 4 and has been actively campaigning for months. William H. Malone, ex-chairman of the state tax commission, is a candidate, Len Small shows signs of candidacy. Gov. Emmerson's friends say something more definite may come from him after he finishes with the muskies and bass in northern Wisconsin.

The special election in the 2d supreme district Aug. 31, is being regarded by both parties as something of a curtain raiser for 1932. The district has been Republican on President and Democratic on judges. Judge Jones is to start an active canvass forthwith.

Shout Farm Prosperity.

The Republican leaders at Alton, among them John J. Brown of Vandalia, Judge William C. Hollenbeck of Marshall, Robert Jones of Flora, and Senators Miles and McCauley, the "Damon and Pythias" of southern Illinois, were all loudly shouting that prosperity has struck farmers of Egypt.

Wheat is running 30 to 40 bushels, the forage is good, the corn is looking grand, garden truck was abundant, the berry crop was unusual, and the peach trees are already groaning under the growing crop—all this, they affirmed, may be echoed in politics.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 13.—[Special.]—Keith McGahey, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson McGahey of Sault Ste. Marie, died at a hospital here Sunday after being run over Saturday by a car driven by J. A. Meade of East Chicago, Ind. The accident occurred on a bridge here. The McGahey boy jumped out in the path of the car, Meade said, and he was unable to stop.

ON TRIAL

GLADYS CRAWFORD.

Gladys Crawford, a 37 year old brunette, who has been tried for many crimes, but convicted of none, went on trial yesterday before a jury in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court, charged with forging the name of a payee on Liberty bonds.

The defendant was arrested on Dec. 23 in an apartment at 4240 Kenmore avenue, where she was found living with Gen Nichols, alias Frank Baker, since sentenced to the penitentiary for robbery. She posed as Nichols' wife. At that time detectives found $105,000 worth of securities stolen from the Farmers' State bank at New Windsor, Ill. Nichols was later sentenced to a year and a day in prison for that robbery.

Assistant United States District Attorney Owen A. West yesterday presented two automatic pistols, a shotgun, two cans of morphine, and other evidence found in the apartment and connected the defendant with violations of the narcotics act, the Dyer act, and the counterfeiting laws.

REPORT FALSE, SAYS DISMISSED COMMERCE AID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont ordered an investigation today of charges by Dr. Ray O. Hall that he had been dismissed from the department for protesting against falsification of an official report.

DR. ROY O. HALL. [Central News Photo.]

Dr. Hall, in a letter to the secretary, asserted that in the recently issued report on the "balance of international payments" figures were juggled and deletions made to suit "political expediency."

Dr. Hall, who prepared most of the report and was dismissed when he protested certain deletions, asserted particularly that a comment to the effect that impending tariff legislation possibly was in part responsible for merchandise imports holding up relatively well during the first half of the fiscal year 1930 had been omitted in the publication.

The point he had endeavored to bring out and which, he said, was omitted when the report went to press, was that, in anticipation of higher tariff rates later, foreign shippers had sent greater quantities of goods to this country during the first part of the fiscal year than otherwise would have been the case.

STATE IN MOVE TO PUT SWINDLER BACK IN PRISON

Demands Court Action on Marshall Writ.

Assistant Attorney General John E. Johnson, representing Warden Henry Hill of the state penitentiary, will appear before Judge Peter Schwaba in the Criminal court this morning and demand the immediate disposal of a writ of habeas corpus, which is preventing McKee Marshall, a former bunkotchop operator, from being returned to Joliet penitentiary to serve out a parole violation.

Marshall has been keeping out of prison since last May by means of writs of habeas corpus. Soon after he was returned to Joliet from New York City for parole violation, a writ of habeas corpus was filed in his behalf by Attorney W. G. Anderson. The writ was heard by Judge John Prystalski of the Criminal court, who denied the plea, ordered Marshall back to the custody of the penitentiary warden. He granted a stay of one week to allow the settlement of some of Marshall's business affairs.

New Writ Is Filed.

Before the week expired, however, a new writ was filed before Judge Schwaba. It is said by attorneys that the writ filed before Judge Schwaba is virtually a duplicate of the one which Judge Prystalski refused to honor.

The hearing has been delayed several times in Judge Schwaba's court. The case was up for disposition yesterday, and although Attorney Johnson said he was ready to proceed, Judge Schwaba continued the case until today.

Marshall in 1923 was a member of a brokerage concern which was charged with swindling a Milwaukee client. He was convicted of grand larceny and embezzlement and sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary. After serving six years of his sentence he was paroled and one of the conditions of his parole was that he was not to leave the state or get into further difficulties with the law.

Escapes from Police.

Soon after his parole Marshall, it is charged, resumed his stock deals, and was wanted in Detroit for an alleged $150,000 stock swindle. He escaped from the police by speeding with his valet in an expensive limousine when the police went to a north-side hospital here to arrest him.

Marshall later fled to New York and after a long extradition fight he was returned to Illinois and the penitentiary. He soon, however, was transferred from the penitentiary to the county jail pending a hearing on his first writ of habeas corpus.

Marshall contends that he is held illegally because the parole board ordered that he serve the maximum term of ten years because of his parole violation is void because only three members of the parole board sat in his case. In the hearing before Judge Prystalski Mr. Johnson produced a certified copy of the parole board hearing showing that nine members of the board passed on the case.

JULIAN, OIL STOCK PROMOTER, ARRESTED ON FRAUD CHARGES

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 13.—(AP)—C. C. Julian, spectacular California and midcontinental oil operator, was arrested late today on a warrant charging fraudulent use of the mails.

Arrested with Julian were C. C. [Tex] Boren, associate and personal bodyguard for Julian, and H. D. Topp, accountant for the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties company.

The complaints on which they were arrested charged fraud in connection with six oil companies promoted here by Julian, alleging that more than $2,000,000 was obtained through the sale of trust certificates in the companies.

Julian's bail was fixed at $50,000, and bonds for Topp and Boren were fixed at $10,000 each.

Chicago Convict Escapes from State Penal Farm

John Rogers, 24 years old, a convict serving a sentence of from one year to life for burglary, escaped yesterday from the farm of the Stateville penitentiary. Rogers was working on a labor detail and walked away from the field, making his escape before the guard in charge of the detail missed him. He was sentenced from Chicago on Oct. 25, 1929.

TAX COLLECTOR DEFIES POLICE TO ARREST HIM

But Cops Get Several Warrants Ready.

Feud was brewing last night between Manuel Sultan, tax collector of Bloom township, and the county highway police.

The police have warrants charging him with assault with a deadly weapon, resisting arrest, and speeding. Sultan, on the other hand, left his Chicago Heights home yesterday with the threat that he was going right downtown to "get the job" of Highway Policeman George Truesdale, who tried to arrest him and failed.

Truesdale reported to Lieut. Robert Seiter at the Homewood highway police station that he overhauled Sultan while the latter was driving his car on the Lincoln highway at 55 miles an hour.

Has Run In with Police.

"When I stopped him," Truesdale said, "Sultan demanded my name and star number, and said he would get my job. He told me he was a state parole officer and that I couldn't arrest him. I was writing an arrest slip on his running board, and he drove right out from under me.

"I chased him again, and fired a shot in the air. He stopped and when I pulled up alongside a fellow who was sitting beside him reached into a suitcase in the back seat and handed Sultan a gun. He pushed it aside.

"I told him to drive to the Chicago Heights police station. Instead, he drove to his home. When I followed him into the house he grabbed an automatic pistol and chased me out."

Warrants Are Prepared.

Lieut. Seiter ordered the warrants prepared for Sultan's arrest, and notified Chief William Collins of the highway police that Sultan might be expected at the county building in connection with his threat to have Truesdale dismissed.

"If he shows up here," the chief threatened, "he'll stay. Truesdale has been on the force only six weeks. If Sultan had pulled a gun on one of the old timers on the force we'd have the gun and him too now."

JUDGE FREES UNION AGENT.

A charge of assault and battery against Arthur Hodges, business agent for the bill posters' union, was dismissed yesterday by Judge James Fardy when his wife, Mrs. Clarissecita May Hodges, 4230 Lake Park avenue, failed to appear to press the charge which she had lodged against him.

WALKER TO RULE TODAY ON MOTION TO FREE FACTOR

Resuming hearing of the extradition case against John (Jake the Barber) Factor at 2 p. m. today, United States Commissioner Walker is to rule on the defense motion that Factor should be discharged because the crime against him in England—receiving money knowing it to be fraudulently obtained—is not on the Illinois statute books.

This is the contention of United States Senator Otis F. Glenn, Factor's lawyer, who maintains that under the extradition treaty with England, where the former Halsted street barber is accused of defrauding British investors of $7,000,000, it is specifically stated that the crime must be considered a crime by the state in which the removal proceedings are brought. Frank Y. Overmyer, attorney for the crown, contends that the United States Supreme court has ruled against the defense motion.

If Commissioner Walker rules with the defense Factor would be discharged. If he rules with Overmyer the defense testimony will be presented. Factor is held in custody of United States Marshal Laubenheimer without bail.

GUNMAN ROBS HOTEL CLERK.

A youthful gunman yesterday morning walked into the Fullerton Plaza hotel at 4300 Fullerton parkway and robbed the clerk, Truman Hobson, of $8.

HER MONEY USED FOR MATE'S FIRST DIVORCE, SHE SAYS

Edward Goodman told her she would be an ideal mother for his three children and persuaded her to advance him $250 in 1928 so he might divorce his first wife and marry her, Mrs. Elsie Goodman, 6231 Montrose avenue, told Judge John J. Sullivan yesterday.

Two years later, Mrs. Goodman charged, she found that he had used the same persuasive talk with Clara Goodman, 17 years old. Clara refused Elsie's entreaties to give up Goodman, and he beat her and broke up furniture when she took up the matter with him, she charged.

Under the terms of the divorce decree granted to Mrs. Goodman, the husband was ordered to pay $500 attorney's fees and $30 a week for the support of their son, Walter, 3 years old. The custody of his three children by his first wife was given to him.

... Demand a "YES" TO these 5 QUESTIONS

before you decide on any refrigerator

These five questions are vital to any refrigerator buyer. Promise nothing until you have a definite "YES" to each question.

1. Will it pay liberal dividends in food saving and lessened operation cost?
2. Does it have a modern hermetically sealed unit in the top out of sight that insures trouble-free performance?
3. Will it operate efficiently in "Dog Days," under pantry shelves, in wall recesses and other places where there is very little natural air circulation?
4. Will it not only stop but start up automatically when unusual conditions interrupt operation?
5. Is it good looking, and does it offer such conveniences as a usable flat buffet top, broom-high legs, maximum shelf space, temperature selector in the right place, etc.?

Westinghouse answers all five questions with an emphatic "YES." Not even the smallest detail has been overlooked by this great engineering organization in designing this "Completely Balanced" Westinghouse Refrigerator. No feature has been overdeveloped for spectacular effect at the expense of another. Food preservation, fast freezing, operating mechanism, storage capacity are all perfectly balanced with each other. That explains its impressive success.

NEW REPUBLICAN CORTES OF SPAIN WILL OPEN TODAY

Pick Socialist Leader as Speaker.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 13.—The elite of Spain found themselves tonight established in the pillared parliament house where the farce of representative government played so long. They took pains to make themselves a constituent assembly, which tomorrow will formally begin organization of a new Spain.

Of the nearly 500 deputies, only a few had ever sat there before, and seven of those were in opposition to his majesty.

Rebel Deputies Gather.

Since 1923, save for the interlude of Primo de Riviera's mock assembly, the bronze lions at the gates have guarded silence. But 1923 was not as long ago, and to the public massed in front tonight it was strange to see great rebels like Miguel de Unamuno, the philosopher, and the rest of the crew that so long flayed the Bourbons from within and without Spain, passing in.

They elected Julian Bestalo, former president of the Socialist party, as speaker, and took cognizance of the fact that the provisional government's [illegible] committee, like the constitutional commission, had been unable to agree on anything. The 41 deputies from Catalonia arrived, but not on their special train. They got wind of a project to greet them with bricks and whatnot, and so came quietly as ordinary travelers. Although they know their constitution is practically assured, they were surprised to hear old Unamuno ranting that their anxieties were child's play and dangerous to the republic.

Strike Plans Fail.

The apostles of syndicalism are still waiting for their half million faithful to answer the strike call sent out for today. The government's stress upon martial law and the Socialists' resistance ruined their plans to throw the country into turmoil on the eve of the session.

They scored, however, in parliament itself. The syndicalist telephone strikers succeeded in cutting off congress from all communications with the world.

Prepare to Seize Lands.

Seeking a legal solution of problems confronting the peasant farmers, 40 Socialist deputies to the cortes from Andalusia and Estremadura, where the situation among agricultural workers is worst, met in parliament at noon today and agreed to demand immediate action. Over 500,000 peasants will be hungry by Sept. 1, they said. They urged immediate seizure of untilled land and the inauguration of monster public works programs, to be paid for with a 25 per cent surcharge on all taxes or bond issues.

VETERAN WOMAN RAIL EXECUTIVE TO END 50 YEAR SERVICE TODAY

MISS DAISY ODEN.

Miss Daisy Oden, 4514 Magnolia avenue, one of the few women railroaders in the country, will retire today as supervisor of women's service for the Burlington railroad after fifty years in the company's employ.

Miss Oden went to work in 1881 in the office of the general agent of the road a Davenport, Ia. She learned telegraphy and later was advanced to chief clerk in the office. After that she was made city passenger agent for Moline, Rock Island and Davenport, the first woman in the country to hold such a job, and also the first woman to become a member of the International Association of Ticket Agents.

BRITAIN ADMITS TROOPS CUT OFF HEADS OF REBELS

Claim Decapitation Was for Identification.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, India, July 13.—Reports from Burma that British government forces cut off the heads of captured rebels and brought them back to headquarters for exhibition were confirmed here in official circles today.

The government admits that the bodies of twenty-two rebels were decapitated, but offers an explanation. However, it has issued an order that no more rebel heads be cut off.

Many Protest "Frightfulness."

The report of the decapitation of Burmese rebels and the confirmation of it by the government created a profound impression in the country and brought nation-wide protests against the "frightfulness" of British forces engaged in putting down the rebellion.

The government explanation of its action is that the heads of the rebels were brought in for purposes of identification. According to a spokesman for the government of India, whose statement closely follows an official communique issued by the Burma provincial government, the decapitations were decided upon because of emergencies in the field.

"While investigations were being carried out in the jungle, a government column came across a number of dead rebels," he said. "Owing to geographical conditions and the paucity of numbers, with further rebel concentrations known to be in the vicinity, the police were unable to bring in the bodies, but decided to bring the heads instead for identification.

Identify the Heads.

"These heads were placed on a table and identification proved successful to the extent that the complicity of six new villages in the rebellion was established."

What proved embarrassing to the British government, however, is that "certain unauthorized persons managed to secure private photographs of sixteen of these heads," according to the official communique. The government has ordered confiscation of the photographs, but it is reported that some of them already have been dispatched abroad.

That the practice of lopping off the heads of Burmese rebels will be discontinued in the future is promised by the government.

"The commissioner has issued an order that on no account are heads to be brought in for identification or any other purpose in the future," the official communique concludes.

British Losses Heavy.

British losses up until June 15 are stated by the government tonight to be 49 killed and 72 wounded. In addition five government servants have been killed and three wounded, and fifteen village headmen killed and three wounded.

"The present rebellion is caused by the starvation of the peasants," U Maung Maung Ji, representative of the all-Burma Sangha council, who is in Simla to see the viceroy, declared.

"These rebels are poor rice cultivators who, because of the decline in prices, haven't enough to eat. I have told the government that if they take measures to relieve the starvation of these people the rebellion will collapse automatically," he said. "But instead of this, the British, with their absurd ideas of government prestige, prefer to bring thousands of troops from India to put down the rebellion with arms. The sympathies of the Burmese people are with the starving rebels.

Cannot Frighten People.

"No armed force can frighten people like the Burmese into subjugation, particularly when their Buddhist religion teaches them, 'It is better to die in battle than die defeated.'

"The use of force will not convince those who in any case are marked out for death by starvation. The present method of suppression, especially in the burning of villages as 'reprisals,' makes the people more desperate and tends to alienate even the sympathy of the people who have all along been on the side of law and order."

PANTAGES IS FREED OF 'LOVE MART' CHARGES

San Diego, Cal., July 13.—(AP)—Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, walked out of Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine's court today smiling happily and free from the "girl market" charges.

District Attorney Tom Whelan made the motion which resulted in the dismissal of the conspiracy and morals complaints against the millionaire and three co-defendants.

Pantages was accused with James H. Shreve, prominent San Diego business man, and Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl market," of bringing Lydia Nitto, a minor, to a hotel party here for immoral purposes.

They were tried once, but the jurors were deadlocked, 9 to 3, the majority favoring acquittal, and a retrial was ordered.

28 NATIONS SIGN TREATY TO LIMIT TRADE IN DRUGS

GENEVA, July 13.—Twenty-eight out of fifty-seven delegations today signed a convention on the limitations of drug manufacture, closing an eight week conference which most delegates termed "difficult, but satisfactory."

The United States, China and Poland may sign this week. Their delegations are waiting in Geneva for instructions. It is expected that the United States will make reservations, presumably only on the technical and formal ground of the league of nations machinery, which is playing a great rôle in the convention. Among signatories were Great Britain, France and Germany.

Turkey, Persia and Jugo-Slavia have not signed and are unlikely to sign before the pending negotiations between them and manufacturing countries give some protection to their production of raw opium.

Britons Spend 13th of Income on Rum: W.C.T.U.

England is now spending one-thirteenth of its entire national income for liquor, according to a statement made public in Chicago yesterday by the Women's Christiance Temperance union. The brewery business, it was added, has continued to expand in King George's realm despite the general falling off in other industry. Worst of all, from the standpoint of the W. C. T. U., at the time these figures were published British brokers were advising their clients to buy brewery stocks.

THE ADVICE OF EXPERIENCED SMOKERS IS

TRY THIS

TRY it when your taste "goes dead." When your cigarette, your food—nothing tastes right.

It's all a matter of putting your papillae in proper condition. Your papillae—the numberless tiny taste-buds clustered on your tongue.

When they're in good order, science says, they give keen, all-day zest to your smokes.* They multiply the flavor enjoyment of your food.

Care for your taste-buds, your papillae. Care for them by avoiding dry mouth, a condition of recognized prevalence.

If you enjoy smoking a lot—and who doesn't!—chew Wrigley's frequently. Wrigley's between-smokes, by stimulating a free flow of saliva, keeps the taste-buds moist and fresh and definitely relieves dry mouth. Thus, scientists say, the sensation of taste is intensified.

If you'd like more enjoyment of your cigarette and your food, keener appetite and better digestion, chew Wrigley's regularly between smokes and between meals.

At the cigar stand, take your change in Wrigley's.

* All statements in this advertisement are based on scientific research conducted by a nationally known biochemist connected with the medical faculty of a great American university.

Wrigley's JUICY FRUIT—the delicious fruity flavor that you get alone in Wrigley's Juicy Fruit. There is only one Juicy Fruit Gum. There is nothing that is even nearly like its rich, full, fruity flavor. If you have never tried Wrigley's Juicy Fruit, you have missed a real taste treat! Your cigar counter carries it—buy a package the next time you stop for your smokes

I. C. C. TO FIND OUT IF ROADS WASTE MONEY

Quiz Will Have Bearing on Rate Increase.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—With the railroads asking for a 15 per cent increase in all freight charges the interstate commerce commission today announced an inquiry into rail practices affecting operating revenues and expenses to determine whether they are "lawful and consistent with economical and efficient management."

Investigation will be made first as to prices paid for railroad fuel, practices in connection with the handling of coal at tidewater points, lake cargo coal, private freight cars, the spotting of cars, and the construction and maintenance of sidings for shippers.

Though the commission did not officially link the inquiry with the proceeding in which the railroads are asking for the increase in freight rates, the two cases are definitely related to each other. If the inquiry as to the practices leads the commission to condemn them as wasteful, such a condition would have a bearing on the question of freight increases.

Program Is Outlined.

The proceeding has been designated as ex parte 104 and administrative charges thereof assigned to Commissioners Joseph B. Eastman, Frank McManamy, and William E. Lee.

The practices to be investigated first will be set down for hearing as separate parts of the investigation, at times and places subsequently to be announced. Other subjects for inquiry will be announced from time to time.

The commission acted under authority conferred on it by sections 13 and 15-A of the interstate commerce act. Section 15-A authorizes the commission to inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers, subject to the provisions of the act, and directs it to "keep itself informed" as to the manner and method in which the same is conducted." Section 15-A is the part of the law requiring the commission to establish rates that will yield the railroads a fair return "under honest, efficient and economical management and reasonable expenditures for maintenance of way, structures, and equipment."

Bondholders' Plea Heard.

Earlier in the day two committees representing life insurance companies, savings banks, fire insurance companies, and other investors in railroad securities intervened in the rate proceedings, urging the commission to grant promptly the petition of the railroads for a freight rate increase.

These were the emergency committee on railroad investments of life insurance companies and mutual savings banks and the security holders' committee on the railroad emergency. The first organization is headed by Edward R. Duffield, president of the Prudential Life Insurance company, and the railroad emergency group is led by Fairman R. Dick of Roosevelt & Son of New York. Granville Clark of the New York law firm of Root, Clark & Buckner filed the petitions.

The life insurance companies and mutual savings banks, said a press release, have total assets of approximately $36,000,000,000, representing the savings of at least half the people of the United States.

Their Huge Holdings.

Their railroad bond holdings, it was stated, are about $4,700,000,000. Institutions represented on the committee, which was organized June 22, already hold railroad bonds exceeding $3,000,000,000—more than 25 per cent of the total railroad bonds of all railroads in the United States.

Unless there is a radical improvement in rail earnings during the last six months of the year, the result, say the petitioners, "would so seriously affect the public interest that the institutions represented by the committee deem it incumbent on them to present the situation fully and frankly to this commission."

The petition set forth that in the five calendar years ending Dec. 31, 1929, the roads earned their fixed charges, on the average, 3.12 times. In 1930 they earned them only 1.76 times, and on the basis of the net railway operating income for the first five months of 1931, it was asserted, fixed charges will be earned in the present year only 1.27 times.

30 Run at a Loss.

Twenty of the 67 largest railroads in the country will not earn their fixed charges in 1931, says the petition of the life insurance companies and savings banks. Twenty-two will earn their fixed charges less than one and one-half times.

"On account of this decline in the margin of safety on railroad bonds the bonds of twenty-one of the thirty-five roads now legal for investment in New York may be stricken from the legal list at the beginning of 1932," the petitioners state.

"In view of these conditions, it is added, "your petitioners deem it necessary to inform this commission, as a factor affecting the public interest, that, unless and until these conditions are corrected so as to improve the element of safety in railroad securities, they may not feel justified, in view of their obligations to their depositors or policy holders, in making further investments in railroad bonds, except in those cases where the fixed charges of the particular road are amply earned."

Rates Raise Called a Duty.

The interstate commerce commission is under a legal duty to establish increased rates, it is pointed out. The banks and insurance companies "have justifiably relied in investing the savings of their depositors and policy holders, upon the provisions of the interstate commerce act contemplating a fair return on railroad property."

The existing situation is characterized as "an emergency condition of a seriousness which has not confronted the carriers and the owners of their securities since the emergency of 1920, which was met temporarily by the six months guarantee of the federal government and later by the general rate increase of July 29, 1920."

ATTORNEY CHARGES CITY GIVES TOO MUCH IN TRANSIT FRANCHISE

Special Assistant Attorney General John L. McInerney began his arguments yesterday in Judge Stanley Klarkowski's court on the question of the validity of the transit franchise. He is acting as the joint representative of the attorney general and the state's attorney is seeking an early decision by the state Supreme court on features of the franchise that must be settled before work on Chicago's subway may be begun.

"The traction ordinance provides that the city shall construct the subway and then the local transportation system shall take it over and pay the city 3 per cent of its gross revenue," Mr. McInerney said. "But this percentage will not be paid until other expenses have come out of the revenue. The city is donating too much.

"It is not merely allowing the transportation company the right of way for the benefit of the people, as in the case of the surface lines, but is financing the construction, and this is invalid and in excess of the city's power."

Mr. McInerney also attacked the right of the legislature to grant the right to a transportation company to operate in cities of 500,000 or larger, which, he said, places Chicago definitely in an individual class, contrary to the state constitution.

Arguments will be continued tomorrow afternoon.

Jackson, as Commissioner, Back in His Old Office

William A. Jackson, newly appointed commissioner of gas and electricity, took charge yesterday of the department, from which he retired in 1903 to enter private business. He was greeted in his office by a number of old employés who knew him at that time, when he held the post of superintendent of construction.

SOVIET ABANDONS EQUAL WAGE FOR FARM LABORERS

Find Discipline Lax; Adopt Account System.

MOSCOW, July 13.—(AP)—The people's commissariat for agriculture decreed today that payment to workers on Russia's collective farms now shall be made only on the basis of quantity and quality of work performed.

Aimed at increasing the "material interestedness" of the farmers, thus enlarging production, the decree was another concrete result of Stalin's soviet industrial policy and a departure from the doctrine "from each according to his capacity; to each according to his needs."

Labor Discipline Breaks.

Heretofore collective farmers have been paid partly in money from farm earnings and partly in produce, according to the size and needs of their families, many taking their share of produce at the outset of the harvest. These factors, combined with inadequate organization and management of farms, were cited in the decree as responsible for a break in labor discipline and consequent losses from the harvest.

"We must not repeat last year's mistakes," the decree said. "Proper distribution is impossible without an account system in labor."

Hereafter every member of a collective farm will be placed on a basis of individual effort to be paid only according to the number of days devoted to work and the quality of his labor.

Government Collects First.

The system of produce distribution also was changed to compel farms to fulfill contracts to supply the government with its quota first. This was expected to provide an incentive to the farmers to make the most of the harvest, in order to obtain a larger share of the remainder for themselves.

The new system already is in force on a number of collective farms, but the decree makes it mandatory throughout the soviet union.

RIDES IN BOX CAR; KILLED.

Kenneth Thornburg, 24 years old, of Muncie, Ind., was killed yesterday while riding in a box car in the Chicago and Alton railroad yards. A switch engine backed into the car, causing the door to strike his head and fracture his skull.

CHILE GETS NEW CABINET; FACES FINANCE TANGLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 13.—A new Chilean cabinet, headed by Pedro Blanquier as minister of finance, took oath of office at 6 o'clock tonight.

The new cabinet is as follows: Juan Esteban Montero, minister of the interior and social welfare; Carlos Aldunate Errazuris, minister of foreign affairs; Pedro Blanquier, minister of finance; Jose Rios Arias, minister of justice and education; Francisco Casereda, minister of agriculture and public works; Gen. Pedro Charpin, minister of war, and Admiral Hipolito Marchant, minister of navy. There are only seven portfolios in the new government, due to the merging of the ministries of justice and education and agriculture and public works.

Senor Blanquier, a former finance and public works minister, as well as former director of the state railways, is regarded as an efficient technical man and is expected to remedy Chilean finances, the precarious state of which was partly responsible for the fall of the late cabinet.

Quake Hits Island Four Days in Row; None Killed

MANILA, July 13.—(AP)—Earthquakes today shook the Island of Masbate, central Philippines, for the fourth successive day. Although the brief shocks were not severe, their continuance has alarmed the populace. Gov. Teofisto Cordova reported considerable damage had occurred, but no deaths.

CANADA FAVORS AUSTRALIA AS IT BARS U. S. GOODS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13.—Canada's new trade treaty with Australia, announced to the commons tonight, accords free or seasonally free entry on a great number of the precise items on which the dominion but a month ago raised tariff against the United States. Some items on which Canada raised tariff against the United States and now permits free entry from Australia are oranges, peanuts, veneered woods, eggs, raisins, and dried currants, while preference distinctly adverse to the United States products are given on lumber and meats.

The new tariff schedules appear to be directly in accord with Premier Bennett's declaration that Canada will buy from nations which buy from Canada, and marks another Canadian move in what has been described as the Canadian-American tariff war which began with the Hawley-Smoot tariff.

Australia accords her lowest tariff schedule to Canada on 415 out of the 433 items comprising her tariff schedule. Canada accords preferential entry to only 25 items in Canada's 199 item schedule. Canada's hard hit newsprint industry gets free entry into the Australian market, but in the lumber lists, wherein the western United States competes with British Columbia in the Australian market, Canada is accorded only a slight preference over American timber.

PREPARING US FOR THE CONFERENCE.

Taking advantage of an international radio hookup and a demonstration in London to promote the success of the coming disarmament conference at Geneva, Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin, and David Lloyd George, the leaders of the contending political parties of Great Britain, showed a remarkable agreement on one thing. That is the deplorable spirit and policy of the United States.

Mr. MacDonald, being the same individual who just before the last conference on naval limitation hurried over to confer with Mr. Hoover and to assure the American people that we are welcome to parity, "parity overflowing," repeated his reproach that in spite of the Kellogg treaty we are spending more than before the war. Stanley Baldwin, head of the Conservative party, says that every international problem in Europe has been made incomparably more difficult because we have not belonged to the league of nations. Lloyd George, head of what remains of the Liberal party, treated us to a bit of true Georgian polemics when he reminded us that the treaty for the renunciation of war was proposed by a country—that's ours—"whose armaments are much more powerful than before the war and have increased since."

The intention of this broadside is to put us in a proper frame of mind when we sit in at Geneva. We think, inasmuch as this distortion of the real situation is the collaboration of the British prime minister and the official heads of the two other parties in Great Britain, that official notice of it by our government is not only justifiable but imperatively called for. Since a concert of the most authoritative voices in Great Britain broadcasts to the American people and to the world an attack upon the official conduct and policy of the government and people of the United States, there should be a prompt and emphatic reply from Washington.

Meanwhile, it would be well for the American public to examine these significant utterances. We would point out first a basic inconsistency which is so obvious as to imply necessarily the insincerity of this assault upon our policy respecting armament. It is not consistent for the greatest sea power in the world to reproach a power which has taken the lead in naval reduction, which upon its own initiative has sacrificed a program of naval building that it was fully able financially to complete and that in a few years, before this time, would have given it the strongest fleet in the world. It is not consistent for a government which formally conceded the principle of fleet parity to reproach a country which, though fully capable not only of building up to parity but of building up to primacy, has refused to exercise its right and deliberately stopped building in categories not limited by treaty while all other powers increased their building—in fact, until it had fallen seriously below its previous position both relatively and absolutely. Each one of these eminent speakers knows the facts of America's sacrifice and persistent abstention, and their resounding rebuke of America is or should be a sharp warning to our government and to our people of what our representatives are to meet in the coming conference. It is itself a sufficient response to Mr. Stanley Baldwin's criticism of the United States for not entering the league of nations and to any other invitation to surrender our political independence and subject ourselves to the vote of governments already heavily indebted to us in blood and treasure but plainly as ungrateful for American sacrifice as they are unscrupulous in ignoring the facts and misstating the principles of American action.

Mr. Baldwin says every international problem since the treaty of Versailles has been made incomparably more difficult by the absence of America from the league of nations. This means that, not satisfied with our turning the scale of victory to the allies in 1918—at the expense of 75,000 American lives lost in a war for which we had no shadow of responsibility and at the expense of billions of treasure poured out not only during the war but after, billions for military victory, billions for reconstruction—we refused to underwrite the impossible and peace-destroying terms imposed upon the vanquished peoples or enter into a conspiracy to keep half Europe permanently in subjection to the other. This moment, when the nations which dominate the league are confronted with a catastrophe which their selfish and shortsighted hostilities have brought about, does not seem to us precisely the moment at which Mr. Baldwin's reproaches are likely to touch the American conscience.

In Mr. Lloyd George's contribution to this symphony of contemnation he finds it strangely inconsistent—and inconsistency is an offense Mr. Lloyd George cannot tolerate in others—that the country proposing the renunciation of wars "has armaments much more powerful than before the war and have increased since." We hope he is right about American armament, for we have need of it while Europe remains an armed camp. But if an American secretary of state was the proponent of the treaty renouncing war, Great Britain and every great armed power in Europe has signed the pledge. Are they armed because America is armed? Are they anxiously waiting to abolish their armies and fleets as soon as America does? Even Mr. Lloyd George could not say that in the most passionate paroxysm of his Celtic eloquence. If the American army, about the size of Czecho-Slovakia's, is better equipped than it was before the European war taught us the danger to our peaceful preoccupation of European hatreds and follies, so is the British army. If our navy is better, the British navy is for the same reason and it is relatively much stronger, for the German navy is no more.

Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Baldwin, and Mr. MacDonald all know the facts, but they do not speak from them. The great demonstration in support of the coming negotiations upon armament was a notable occasion for candor and straight speaking. The three leading representatives of British politics made it an occasion for darkening counsel. At a time when all Europe is turning to America for help they take up the cry we have heard so often since the war, "Blame it on America."

FURTHER REMARKS ON CONFIDENCE.

A great deal has been said and something has been done in this country since the depression set in by way of restoring confidence. The point has been made repeatedly that what we lack is certainly not money, not machinery, not technical skill, not raw materials and not distributive organizations. We have them in abundance. What we lack is the assurance that the future is not going to be bleak. Once that assurance returns prosperity will return with it. That is largely true. There is of course an actual reduction in purchasing power as compared with two years ago that cannot be laughed away. As that purchasing power is restored the depression will yield. Certainly it will not yield to whirlwind campaigns intended to drive out the devils of fear as long as great numbers of people out of work have genuine, rational, intelligent reasons for conserving their resources rather than spending them. But there is a lack of confidence in one quarter that is a fundamental weakness of our present situation. It expresses itself in the failure of capital to embark upon long term investments at moderate interest rates. The lack of such investment has led, in turn, to unemployment and the fear of unemployment which together have gone far toward creating and maintaining present conditions.

It is curious to observe that our financiers, though they have been willing to use the enormous credit resources of this country in rescuing Europe, seem now rather chary of investing in the future of their own country. Their theory has been that our prosperity depends in part upon the power of Europeans to buy our exports. That is not untrue, but it is not the whole truth. To a far greater extent our prosperity depends upon domestic purchasing power, and, if investments abroad are warranted in the interest of stability and recovery, investments at home are to be regarded as far more desirable.

It is a waste of time to tell a man who is out of a job or thinks he may soon be out of a job to buy without a thought of tomorrow. It ought not to be a waste of time to tell a man with money to invest that he should invest it in sound projects offering a moderate return over a long period. Housing projects are of this nature. So, too, is railroad electrification, and no doubt there are others equally sound. The aim of mass movements to restore confidence should be directed toward loosening the purse strings which keep capital from entering such fields.

The timidity of investors and of financial leaders is irrational and emotional. It is based upon fancied fears of the future, though the natural advantages of the United States are what they always were and the population of the country is still characterized by energy and resourcefulness. Yet, while America is sending its money abroad to bolster up European currencies, European money is flowing to America for security. That is a paradox which will puzzle and perhaps amuse commentators in the future.

FIRES IN THE FORESTS.

Vacation time is a dangerous one for the forests. The Michigan department of forestry classifying the origin of fires finds that the tripper is the largest contributing cause, with camp fires and cigarets. The seasoned man or woman in the woods is careful by habit, but a small percentage of heedlessness or indifference is enough. One person can ruin a stand of timber, the shore of a lake or a whole landscape by tossing aside a cigaret or by neglecting the embers of a fire. Once done, the damage is done for generations or forever in the places of greatest natural beauty, and even cut over regions which have regained a fresh charm of brush will be scarred again for years.

This needless destruction of the wilderness still available for the purposes of health and recreation is a sad crime which seldom can be punished properly. It does not lose any gravity because it lacks intent. A nit-wit in the woods is not harmless because he is merely thoughtless. When he sets a fire he might as well be an incendiary with the intent to let loose just what he has.

Editorial of the Day

BEWILDERING.

[N. Y. World-Telegram.]

The Fourth of July speech of the Vice President of the United States called for "reverence for the constitution, respect for the law and the courts." "It is not pleasing," declared Mr. Curtis, "to note the wave that is sweeping over the country which disregards law and order and substitutes instead man's individual desires, thereby weakening the opinion in which the constitution is held."

The Fourth of July speech of the secretary of war of the United States denounced "the breakdown of local self-government" and the "entry of the national government into the administration of state and municipal affairs." "Where Jefferson did his utmost to free us from the tyranny of the crown," declared Secretary Hurley, "they are striving their utmost to subject us to the autocracy of a constantly growing bureaucracy."

The eighteenth amendment did to local self-government exactly what Secretary Hurley deplores, and caused to sweep over the country the wave which Vice President Curtis laments as "weakening the opinion in which the constitution is held."

Yet neither of these gentlemen, representatives of the present national administration, finds the slightest fault with the eighteenth amendment and the noble experiment.

Scold the people for not liking what, admittedly, they ought not to like!

THE COOLER FOR SUNSTROKE.

THE Anglo-Persian Oil company is making use of a hospital with a refrigerated ward. Regardless of the conditions of the outside air, the temperature in this ward never goes above 65 degrees; and it is always dry. Sick people in this hospital are given just exactly the temperature and the humidity which is best for them.

Here is one group of people for whom the ventilation engineer does a job that is up to standards which he reaches when he is planning to keep oranges, fruit, eggs, meat, and other foodstuffs under the best conditions. The places where silk and cotton and certain chemicals are manufactured are no better ventilated than is this hospital. The processes of manufacture have nothing on these sick people.

That part of Persia where this oil company is found is hotter than the hinges. It is not easy to get labor to live and work there. A great many of the employés are overcome by heat. Heat stroke, sunstroke, and heat cramps make up a great part of the problem of the physicians employed by this great oil company. In the treatment of this group of disorders this refrigerated ward finds its field.

Most of the men who get sunstroke are working in the open, and a long way from these refrigerated hospitals. To meet this need, every electric plant has an ice-making attachment and every ice-making outfit has a cold storage room. When a man topples over from sunstroke he is carried into the nearest ice plant cold storage room as quickly as possible. There he remains until midnight. [In Persia the air is cold from midnight until five in the morning, regardless of the heat of the day.]

Soon after that the sufferer from sunstroke is removed from the cold storage room, put in a comfortable ambulance, and hurried away to a refrigerated hospital. He must be in this institution before the day advances far enough to become hot.

Dr. Frank Marsh reports that under this treatment the death rate from sunstroke has been markedly diminished and violent headaches, mental disturbances, and other after effects of sunstroke have been almost wiped out. Very little treatment other than this refrigeration has been given.

The method of construction and the means of keeping the air cool and dry have been described in detail.

IN OTHER WORDS.

Mrs. J. S. writes: Kindly explain the following terms:

1. An endocrine disturbance of the pituitary gland type.
2. A hyperplastic arthritis of the cervical spine.
3. A mitral regurgitation of the heart.

REPLY.

1. There is something wrong with some part of your pituitary body and this is causing headache or some other symptoms produced by pituitary disorder. This ductless gland is located within the head.
2. Inflammation of the joints of the spinal column in the neck region. This inflammation has produced bony spurs and these may be pressing on nerves or rubbing something.
3. There is a slight defect in the mitral valve and blood leaks back. The mitral valve is the large valve between the two cavities on the left side of the heart.

RICKETS IS TO BLAME.

C. B. writes:

1. What is the cause of pigeonbreast?
2. Is there any cure or exercise?
3. Will it have any effect on my children?

REPLY.

1. Rickets is the cause in nearly every case.
2. Not much can be done. The probability is that you are starting about ten years too late. If rickets is still active stay in the sun as much as possible, particularly in the winter. Take cod liver oil or viosterol. Eat radiated foods. Rowing, swimming, and other shoulder, back, and arm exercises may help somewhat if persisted in for years.
3. No.

OVERHANGING BRANCHES.

Chicago, July 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. The writer has made two complaints to the health department regarding a neighbor's tree that has a branch extending at least ten feet over our fence and above our porch.

The berries from this tree keep dropping and attract swarms of flies, and this is the only place our baby can play. We asked the neighbor to saw off the branch, but he pays no attention.

We were of the opinion that this was under the jurisdiction of the health department, but they have done nothing. C. J.

1. It does not appear to be a case for the health department.
2. He is under no obligation to do this for you, but you are entitled to cut it at the lot line.

MARRYING COUSINS.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In which states are cousins allowed to marry? T.

The general rule [as stated in 38 C. J. 1276] is that the "validity of a marriage is determined by the law of the place where it is contracted; if valid there it will be held valid anywhere, and conversely if invalid by the lex loco contractus, it will be held invalid wherever the question may arise. An exception to the general rule, however, is ordinarily made in the case of marriage repugnant to the public policy of the domicile of the parties, in respect of polygamy, incest, miscegenation, or otherwise contrary to its positive laws," citing under the exception Stevens vs. Stevens, 304 Ill. 297, and Lincoln vs. Riley, 317 Ill. A. 571.

Section 1 of the Illinois marriage act provides "Marriage between cousins of the first degree is declared to be incestuous." Under these authorities we advise Illinois residents not to contract such a marriage and that where such relationships have been contracted the parties make such provision by will, etc., as they would make if the marriage were invalid.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE MAN IN FRONT OF US on the bus was most intent on his newspaper yesterday morning. And we thought he might well be. The papers were screaming that Germany was bankrupt, all the exchanges were closed, revolution and communist uprisings were imminent, and that chaos threatened Europe and would echo around the globe. We wondered what the reaction of the average American would be to the tremendous situation in which the world now finds itself. The man on the bus seemed an average American. What was he thinking of it all? Suddenly he threw his paper away and turned to the man sitting beside him: "Them Cubs only got one game out of the double header with St. Louis," he said. "What they need is a good kick in the pants."

"AH, MR. HOLMES," said Dr. Watson as he bustled into the great detective's home yesterday morning, "I have something most mysterious for you to unravel. The White House Irish wolfhound, a great pet of the President's, and which always accompanied him to the Rapidan summer camp, has disappeared, and although a most vigilant search has been made, no trace of the wolfhound can be found." "Quite interesting," remarked Mr. Holmes. "When did the dog vanish?" "Right after biting one of the marine guard at the camp." "Ah, the dog bit a marine, did he?" remarked the great detective smiling. "Then you will find him at the nearest dentist's having his teeth repaired." "Marvelous," ejaculated Dr. Watson.

MOOD OF A SUMMER'S NIGHT.

I've reached the age of reason:
And I'm very much alone;
Life, once a syncopation,
Now's a dreary monotone.
I'm tired of passing light o' loves
With their all too brief appeal:
I want to love forever,
Love but one through woe and weal.

So I'm building up a new romance
And building deep and strong,
For without some such foundation
Love would crumble before long:
As I have learned from past mistakes,
Romance to last must be
Builded deep and builded strong
And for eternity.

Eternity may be the kiss,
The day, the week or more
I hope the new romance will last:
It never did before.

WE NEVER SAID A WORD when Chicago decided to throw away its horn and get a greeter. We remained coldly silent when it was announced that the greeter would dress in pure white and ride in a white automobile escorted by white policemen in white ducks on white motorcycles. We preserved an even colder silence when the greeter began to greet and leaped out at visitors grinning a terrible grin, effusively shaking their hands and slapping them on the back. But when our official greeter said, "I am speaking for the people and the kiddies of Chicago," we cannot refrain from letting out a roar of protest. We've stood nobly for the rest of it, but "kiddies" is too much! If he keeps on saying that horrible word we insist that Chicago throw away the greeter and get back the horn.

Relentless Love, with what usurious fee
You are requited for your paltry loan!
Insidious Shylock, with what venal glee
You seize the flesh, and all but scrape the bone!
Long, long it is since last I ventured through
These woods once dear, these lifted listening leaves,
And marked the failing season, and with rue
Saw wayward Summer bound in hearty sheaves.
Absent so long from all the loves that now
Wake a remembered music in my breast—
The winter apple ripening on the bough,
The winter sunset burning down the west,—
I had forgotten them, and half surmise
They turn upon me with offended eyes.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 14, 1915.

NEW YORK.—Two more ships were added to the list of vessels which have survived attempts to destroy them by fire bombs, and officials of the French line, the Fabre line, and the Atlantic Transport line are waiting anxiously for news of other of their vessels at sea. The ships against which attacks by fire have just become known are the Samland, an American owned vessel under charter to the Atlantic Transport company, and the Etrathtay, chartered by the Fabre line. At least two other ships are known to have had bombs placed aboard, but the names of these have not yet reached the company here. With the admission by steamship officials now that the fires aboard the Touraine and the Minnehaha were both caused by bombs, the list of vessels thus attacked since the beginning of this year numbers ten.

PARIS.—Another defeat for the crown prince of Germany is chronicled in an official war bulletin. The army of Germany's future emperor assumed the offensive today in the Argonne on the road between Binarville and Vienne-le-Château as far as the region of Haute Chauvauchec, but was forced to retire in the face of an energetic counter attack by the French.

MEXICO CITY, Mex.—Mexico City was formally turned over to the Carranzista forces under Gen. Gonzales on July 11 by the city council. Gen. Alfred Machuca, a Carranzista chieftain, at the head of 4,000 troops entered the city on that day and took possession of the national palace.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—It is to be a war to the finish between organized labor and the billion dollar steel combine. The conference between representatives of the three big companies has come to naught, and President Shaffer wired the following order to all amalgamated lodges in the tin plate, steel hoop, and sheet steel mills of the country: "Notify your men that the mill is on strike and will not work on Monday, July 15." This order calls out only 75,000 men but it is the first step in the great test of strength between labor and capital. Strikes will be ordered in other branches until not a union man remains in the employ of the United States Steel corporation.

CANTON, O.—President McKinley took his first ride in an automobile. In a drive about the city it was noted that he took a firmer hold of the arms of the seat as the machine went around corners.

JULY 14, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—The condition of President Garfield is regarded by his physicians as much improved and they believe he is at last on the safe side of the crisis.

NEW YORK.—The Garfield fund for the benefit of his wife and children in the event of the President's death, now aggregates $142,905, of which $80,000 is already on deposit with the United States Trust company.

ROME.—The removal of the body of Pope Pius IX. from its resting place in the basilica of St. Peter's to the tomb provided for it in the Church of San Lorenzo was accomplished last night and this morning. The ceremony was attended by some of the most disgraceful scenes ever witnessed in Rome. The coffin was placed upon a bier drawn by horses, and priests and laymen carried lighted candles. The scene was solemn in the extreme, but scarcely had the procession left the steps of St. Peter's than an unruly mob of roughs of the city swarmed around it, hustling and intercepting the priests, endeavoring to extinguish the candles and to overturn the bier, and shouting "Long live Italy!" "Down with the pope!" "Away with the Black Gowns!" The police were unable to control the crowd and several companies of soldiers were called to disperse the mob.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

ECONOMY.

Chicago, July 9.—I feel it my duty to reply to the letter entitled "Economy," written by M. L. S., and published July 2 in the Voice of the People.

The forest preserve district is a separate and distinct governmental body organized by law in 1915 to purchase and set aside for future generations 35,000 acres of virgin land. The law specifies that the bond issue money shall be spent only for the purchase of additional land and can be used only for that purpose.

Economy is referred to. This is purely a case of economy, because no one will deny that property can be purchased today at a low figure, and if funds are available for that purpose only, is it not an act of economy as well as an effort to get some money, even though only a small amount, into circulation?

The county board—forest preserve district and highway department—is conserving every available dollar.

It must not be lost sight of that Cook county was on a cash basis up to the time nonelected saviors of Cook county brought about the nullifying of the 1927 assessment and arbitrarily stopped the collection of taxes, and tied up county and other funds for two years. This has cost the taxpayers approximately $50,000,000 and the interest that goes to banks amounts to $50,000 a day or $14,000,000 a year.

The tax reform pay roll [interest on anticipation warrants due to the delay cause by the nullifiers of the 1927 tax assessments] would certainly alleviate a lot of the distress caused by an act which could have been handled less drastically by permitting the 1927 assessments to stand and ordering a new revaluation to be made for the 1931 quadrennial period. This would have saved at least the interest on the anticipation warrants, to say nothing of lost penalties and interest on funds which would have been collected by the taxing bodies.

It is a bit late to lock the barn and cry for economy after the $50,000,000 revaluation bonanza has left the barn.

The county board had demonstrated its ability to put the county on a cash basis and was saving $1,500,000 annually until the state tax commission arbitrarily stopped all revenues, and now those who sponsored the fiasco have either drawn out of the picture or are crying for economy.

The Sherman act stopped the trusts under Roosevelt; section 37 of the federal code [an attempt to do an overt act against the U. S.] stopped the Indiana vote frauds. There is something that can stop the present effort to embarrass the taxing bodies of our community. EMMETT WHELAN,
President Cook County Commissioners.

"TEN THOUSAND SWEDES——"

Oak Park, Ill., July 10.—Like the tune which ran through Mark Twain's head, much to his annoyance and discomfort, I am constantly plagued with a poem—two lines of which I know. It goes like this:

Ten thousand Swedes
Ran through the weeds
At the battle of Copenhagen.

And that's all I know. I'll be able to sleep nights just as soon as I know the balance of this head-splitting piece of literature. EDWARD L. TAYLOR.

THAT ROPE.

Chicago, July 9.—Purely at the request of my wife I am writing you to give you the correct solution to J. L. F.'s problem.

Of the answers published today the only one with any relation to the correct answer is C. O. R.'s, which is 6,785.81 feet. This, however, is the length of the rope and not the distance that the man traveled.

By calculus the problem is quite simple, but without it I don't wonder that J. L. F. has not got the answer in 40 years.

If the man unwinds the rope from the bottom, walking in ever increasing circles he walks 5,278 miles. If he wants to save a couple of thousand miles he should, if possible, unwind from the small end, in which case he walks only 3,270 miles. H. A. G.

WHY YOUTH FLAMES.

Chicago, July 9.—No wonder the young girls of today drink and smoke and have a good time all around. I am 21 years of age. Up to this time I have been very particular about the fellows with whom I have gone around. I have been seeing a young man about three times a week lately, and since he will go to school we amuse ourselves by going to a movie, dance or even a walk, nothing less enough. Just because I have been going out quite steady lately my parents have started in to nag. The young man mentioned is 23 and his folks are the same way.

Why can't parents leave well enough alone and leave us have our good time in a nice way?

Again I ask why don't parents think the good, clean times we have instead of causing discontent and cause us to seek other pleasures. Maybe this sounds forging, but with all due love and respect to parents, I ask them to heed these words. PEARLS.

POLICE UNIFORMS.

Chicago, July 10.—The latest police order making officers put on long sleeves certainly calls for a protest from the public.

Second, the order has been issued because the pulitzer causes some kind of leg infection. Personally I wore them during two and one-half years of army service and never heard of such a thing.

Third, what kind of health protection will it be for our officers to stand in the rain, slush and mud with their long trousers dripping wet and damp?

Fourth, what of the appearance of our officers standing in the streets with wet, uncreased and wrinkled trousers?

Fifth, these officers, who have to purchase their own uniforms, and to whom every change means something out of their pockets, and whose pay is being held up because of lack of funds, will probably find it a real hardship to comply with these regulations. R.

PERILS OF CITY LIFE.

Chicago, July 3.—On double deck buses they are extremely careful to remind you to keep your seat while crossing under a low bridge; but no warning is sounded against the dirty old tobacco chewer. C. A. JOSEPH.

DELAY SANITARY DISTRICT TRIAL TILL SEPTEMBER

Judge Ready, but Lawyers Ask Postponement.

Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary board, and seven other officials, all under indictment for conspiracy on charges developed from the alleged "chiseling" activities of several contractors, probably will go to trial in September.

JOHN R. NORTHUP.

This was forecast yesterday when Attorney John Mahoney, appearing for the state, and First Assistant State Attorney John R. Northup advised Judge Joseph B. David of the criminal court that they would be ready by that time. Neither side was willing to go to trial at once, although Judge David announced he was ready.

Judge David pointed out that the case was through no cause of the defendants, that all technicalities preceding the trial have been disposed of. He set the next date for April 27, at which time, it is understood, a definite date for trial in September will be selected.

Mexican Consul Arrest Incident Closed by Court

The "international incident" which was precipitated last week when Municipal Judge Thomas Green sentenced Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican consul general in Chicago, to a term in jail for contempt of court, was closed yesterday when the consul's attorney, T. Russell Baker, appeared before Judge Joseph Burke in criminal court with a motion to dismiss his writ of habeas corpus "without prejudice." The consul had been released pending a hearing on the writ after Judge Green had sent him to the county jail. Green later rescinded his contempt sentence and the state department in Washington apologized to Mexico for the sentence.

Held for Death of 6 Pals Killed by Poison Liquor

Boston, Mass., July 13.—(AP)—Desmiers, 33, only survivor of a group of seven who last week engaged in a denatured alcohol debauch, today was in court charged with causing the deaths of his six companions. Police charged him with manslaughter on the grounds he purchased the alcohol. He pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $12,- for a hearing later.

BARNETT RE-ELECTED JURY COMMISSIONER; NEUMANN ALSO NAMED

Col. Joseph H. Barnett and Leopold Neumann were elected jury commissioners yesterday afternoon at a joint meeting of the Circuit, Superior, County and Probate judges. Col. Barnett has held the post for 21 years. Neumann, a former German language newspaper editor, lives at 1249 Thorndale avenue. He was selected for the place vacated by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, who resigned to become commissioner of public welfare. Col. Barnett's home is at 134 North Mayfield avenue. Jury commissioners are paid $3,000 a year.

Following the election the judges discussed the new laws relating to the jury system, passed at the last session of the legislature. The commissioners were told to begin revision of their office in accordance with the new laws. The laws were sponsored by the state and county judicial advisory commissions to increase efficiency of the office and cut expenses.

Under the new system the judges of the courts have power to adopt rules regulating the preparation of jury lists and the mode of drawing jurors. It is provided that the drawing be by lot and in presence of the commissioners.

A new law permits consultation of the convenience of the person called for service. A judge can excuse a prospective juror until such time as he may conveniently serve.

1ST PLANE BUILT FOR FUTURE LINE OVER ATLANTIC

Carries 40 and Can Sail on Waves.

New York, July 13.—(AP)—In about three weeks a new forty passenger flying boat will take the air in Connecticut and another great stride will be taken toward the day of regular trans-Atlantic air travel.

This plane is to go into the Carribbean service of Pan-American Airways, which is the testing ground for commercial trans-Atlantic flights.

The new plane, the largest commercial ship ever built, will fly between Miami and Baranquilla, Colombia, a distance of 1,350 miles, only 50 of which is over land. The hop from Jamaica to Baranquilla is approximately the same distance as from the Atlantic seaboard to Bermuda, the conditions are about the same, and almost all the way the pilot is out of sight of land.

Train for Atlantic Flights.

The men who fly this course are training for the day when they will shift their scene of operations to the Atlantic, and that day, in the opinion of many experts, is not more than two years off.

The new giant flying boat, and a sister ship already begun, are constructed with an eye directly on Atlantic flying. They are built with a range of 1,000 miles, which can easily be extended by sacrificing a small portion of the passenger space. And they are equipped as luxuriously as any ocean liner.

When an Atlantic line is inaugurated it will probably be operated jointly by American, English, and French companies, though the American company will very likely operate over the greater part because of better equipment and longer experience.

New Planes Have Sails.

The two new giants of the air are built with an eye to all possible emergencies during ocean flight. Not only are the cabins constructed to withstand the buffeting of high seas in case of forced landings in the ocean, but arrangements have been made to sail them along the surface.

Each of the four great engines has a canvas cover removed during flight and these can be quickly attached between the top of the cabin and the under side of the wing, so that joined together they form a broad sail.

His left leg was broken in six places, and his right leg in one place. Dr. Robert Black, also of Chicago, who is on a vacation in Europe, attended him. Young Longstreet has a traveling fellowship from Harvard university and has been studying in Europe for the last two years.

Puts Bible in Evidence; Jail Sentence Suspended

Los Angeles, Calif., July 13.—[Special.]—William W. Harris, 48 year old, religious fanatic, so startled Municipal Judge E. J. Lickley by placing the entire bible in evidence today that he won suspension of his five day jail sentence for being found guilty of disturbing the Rev. Aimee McPherson's Angelus temple. Mrs. McPherson testified that she had been compelled to order her pulpit trumpeters to "blow their cornets" louder in order to "drown out Mr. Harris' noise."

To Head Air Corps

Washington, D. C., July 13.—(AP)—The longest flying career in the army will reach a climax next December when Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois becomes chief of the air corps.

One of the pioneers in the development of aviation through association with the Wright brothers, Foulois is almost the father of the army air service.

He flew the first airplane and the first dirigible balloon purchased for the army, and in 1910, when the appropriation for the air service was only $150, he contributed $300 from his own pay to make up a deficit.

PETERS NAMED CHICAGO'S CHIEF OF PARCEL POST

Thomas M. Peters, former assistant superintendent of mails in Chicago, was appointed superintendent of parcel post in Chicago yesterday, the first man to hold such a title. The new position is one of sixty to be created in metropolitan centers throughout the country and is part of the government's program to cut down the annual postal deficit, which last year amounted to $98,000,000.

Mr. Peters' appointment was announced by J. C. Harriman, national director of parcel post, on his arrival here. The new parcel post regulations, which become effective on Aug. 1, will increase the size limit of packages to 100 inches in their greatest length and the maximum weight from 50 pounds to 70 pounds. Mr. Harriman said the change would increase the revenue from parcel post so that it would return a profit of $5,000,000 annually instead of a deficit as at present, and would be especially important to Chicago, as this city's annual revenue approximates $21,000,000, the largest in the country. New York is second with an annual revenue of $17,000,000.

A petition is to be considered shortly by the interstate commerce commission which would increase the parcel post rate in the first three postal zones and decrease the rate in the last five zones, Mr. Harriman said.

FIND COLD MOTOR CAUSED 2 DEATHS IN PLANE CRASH

Failure of the pilot to warm the motor of his airplane sufficiently before taking off was the cause of Sunday's air crash in which two pilots were killed, according to the findings of a coroner's jury.

The pilot, Chester Bailes of Kansas City, was killed instantly with his flyer-companion, William Warren of San Antonio, Tex., when their Lockheed Vega fell from 500 feet and burst into flames as it crashed at 65th street and Zolin avenue.

At the inquest, conducted by Maj. Reed Landis, war flyer, and Deputy Coroner William Baum, Herman Hetfield, 3613 West 63d street, a mechanic, told of Bailes' impatience to get off, and Albert Finholt, 1619 North Austin avenue, controller of the Continental Airways, Inc., told of how the motor had been turned over only five minutes when the usual time allotted to warming is fifteen minutes.

"I guess it's all right; I'm in a hurry," Hetfield quoted Bailes as saying before taking off. A moment later the motor of the plane, soaring overhead, was heard to miss.

Walks Trestle to Save Fare; Killed by Train

Elizabeth, N. J., July 13.—[Special.]—Walking, in his search for work, on the trestle across the Elizabeth river here so that he might save the 20 cent bus fare for food for his wife and four small children, Joseph Silmas, an unemployed laborer, was killed today when a Central Railroad of New Jersey commuters' train hurled him against the piling below and into the river.

HARRY RUSSELL IS STILL IN LEAD OF NATIONAL AIR TOUR

New Orleans, La., July 13.—(AP)—George Dickson of Pittsburgh led the nine planes of the national air tour into New Orleans this afternoon after the flyers had stopped in Gulfport, Miss., for lunch on the Montgomery-New Orleans hop.

He was closely followed by Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass.; James H. Smart, Pine Bluff, Ark.; and Harry Russell, Dearborn, Mich. Russell is leading the tour on a point score basis.

Maj. Jimmie Doolittle, referee of the tour, came in just in front of the contestants, all of whom landed within a few minutes of 3 o'clock. Capt. Lewis Yancey in an autogiro was among the last to come in.

Slayer of U. S. Dry Agent to Be Hanged on Aug. 14

Collins, Miss., July 13.—(AP)—Guy Fairely was sentenced today to be hanged Aug. 14 for the murder of H. L. Everett, federal prohibition agent. William Fairely, 28, of Maxie, charged with his father-in-law, Guy, with the slaying of Everett, received a life sentence. The agent was shot to death May 2 as he drove along a highway near here.

STURDY TRIBE FINDS SHELTER UNDER AN OAK

Fighting Raabs Defy Adversity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—[Special.]—Discovered with his wife and eight small children, ranging in age from 21 months to 9 years, making their home in the woods on the outskirts of the city, where they were sheltered only by the boughs of an oak, William Raab, 39, of Granite City, Ill., tonight turned down offers of charity.

With the pronouncement, "I can take care of my own family," he emphatically spurned Sheriff Al Benson's invitation to take his family to the home of the friendless, or to part with his children.

The sheriff had gone to the woods, at Wisconsin avenue near Lover's Lane road, where the family has been living for three weeks, to offer them aid. Raab was absent and the wife told Benson he would have to interview him on his return tonight.

Six Youngsters Flourish.

There was no shelter other than that provided by the tree and an old umbrella. No beds, no oven or wood stove, only grass to sleep on and an open camp fire. Market baskets were suspended from the limbs of an oak to serve as a pantry. A nearby stream provided water and there was an abundance of fuel about in the form of twigs and bark.

Far from sickly, and undernourished and dirty, the little Raabs were brown as berries, their little faces sparkling with health and their bodies scrubbed clean when officials of the home for the friendless, who went with the sheriff, found them.

The mother had just finished giving one of the six children a hearty scrubbing and he scampered through the woods with his brothers and sisters, and their dog. The welfare workers were amazed.

"Al Smith" Self Reliant.

There was Martin, 9; Roger, 8; Ray, 7; Mary, 5; Nancy, 3, and Al Smith Raab, as self reliant for his 21 months as has been his famous namesake on the "Sidewalks of New York." A clean and healthy bunch of noisy and happy children. "Al Smith" did not get orange juice or cod liver oil, but he did bask in the rays of the sun, building his little body out in the fresh air.

When the sheriff returned with his aid the father had just come from a day of peddling and was jubilant. He had earned $14 in pedding overripe fruit he bought from Milwaukee commission merchants, and would have none of the proffered charity.

With his thumbs tucked deep under his arm pits he told the sheriff a man could get out and support his own if he wasn't too dependent on the aid others had to offer. Residents of the neighborhood who had come across the family in their woodland home offered them a tent, but Raab could not pay them for it and consequently would not have it.

Mother Shares Burden.

Raab said he would not part with his children. That there was no need for organized charity to step in and take them to an institution. Aiding him in his defiance of knocks brought by unemployment, Raab has a sturdy and willing helpmate in his wife who does not complain, but sees that the children and her husband receive all the attention and care she can offer there in the woods.

On chilly nights the children bore deeper in the pile of grass with the only two blankets the family has, and last night, during the heavy rain, the six of them curled up in the old car with the parents and found that, although it was far from comfortable, it would suffice.

Fined $10 in Waukesha.

The father came to Milwaukee three weeks ago and on finding the woodland retreat in a neglected subdivision, decided to stay. With his car, he would peddle vegetables and fruit in neighboring cities. He was arrested and fined $10 in Waukesha yesterday for peddling without a license. This $10 was badly needed, but Raab shrugged his shoulders and set out with renewed effort this morning to return with $14 and the back seat of his car loaded with food tonight.

The sheriff did not find much to eat in the camp this afternoon, but tonight the family sat down to a plentiful spread.

Raab had bought four loaves of rye and wheat bread, a brick of cheese, a ham, a sack of potatoes, a slab of bacon, and sweetcakes for the children. Tomorrow he will break up the camp and start back leisurely to Granite City, hoping to find steady work when he arrives there. If not, there will be a way.

There always has been for William Raab, he says.

SHANGHAI, July 13.—The Shanghai Chamber of Commerce this afternoon voted almost unanimously to assume leadership in the immediate organization of a nation-wide boycott of Japanese goods. It advocates the severance of all commercial relations with Japan, in retaliation for the killing of nearly 100 Chinese in Corea by Corean mobs.

Nanking government circles were receiving telegrams hourly from Chinese organizations in all parts of the country advocating such a boycott. The Hopei provincial associated chamber of commerce telegraphically circularizing all chambers of commerce in China, proposed the severance of economic relations with Japan, "as a protest against the malicious instigation of the Corean massacres."

The Shantung and Klangsu provincial headquarters also advocate a boycott.

3 Are Held as Bombers in Alabama Milk Racket

Birmingham, Ala., July 13.—(AP)—Three men were held by police tonight in connection with the bombing of the Pure Milk company plant Friday night, which police said they believed was the work of racketeers in their first attempt to collect tribute from various lines of business here. Two of the men, who gave their names as Byron Phillips and Reed Warren, were arrested today at Argo. In their possession was found a small coupe bearing an Illinois license. The third man Elbridge McCord, former city fireman, was arrested Saturday.

Ira C. Tilton Out for Indiana Congress Seat

Valparaiso, Ind., July 13.—[Special.]—Ira C. Tilton, Valparaiso attorney and chairman of the Porter county Democratic central committee, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congress in the new 2d Indiana district. He was a candidate two years ago, but was defeated by Charles Murphy of Brookston.

U. S. WILL ASK FOR BIDS ON 11 DESTROYERS

Washington, D. C., July 13.—(AP)—For the first time since the war, the navy will advertise on Wednesday for bids on a group of new destroyers.

Specifications virtually completed today for eleven new vessels, the first of this class the navy has undertaken since 1918, call for a bigger, more rugged ship with heavier armament and a higher sustained sea speed than the present destroyer.

The new craft will be of 1,500 tons displacement, the limit under the London treaty, compared to 1,300 tons for the present destroyers, which were designed in 1916.

Estimates will be invited from private companies and from all shipbuilding navy yards except those at Philadelphia, Portsmouth, N. H., and Norfolk, Va., which already have heavy construction programs under way.

ROBS WOMAN OF $1,000 GEM.

M. C. Jones, 150 Linden avenue, Oak Park, was robbed of $15 and his wife of a $1,000 diamond ring late Sunday night by an armed man. The robbery occurred near their home.

Delay Case of Autoist Who Drove into Hotel

Charges of malicious mischief and of driving while intoxicated against Teddy Mignault, 244 Pearson street, were continued yesterday by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman until Wednesday. Mignault on Sunday night drove a large sedan through the doors of an apartment hotel at 14 West Elm street. Disorderly conduct charges against his companions, Thomas Jennings, 15 West Delaware place, and Mrs. Lydia Winchester, 1213 North Dearborn street will also be heard Wednesday.

Chief Fails to Support Evanston Parking Law

Evanston's new 15 minute parking law which was aimed to discourage nonresidents from using the city's beaches, but which boomeranged when it was applied to nearly 200 Evanston citizens, appeared to be on the skids last night. So many complaints were made to Police Chief William O. Freeman that he instructed motorists whose cars were tagged, to ignore the tickets. The cases will be held over, he said, until the city council has a chance to reconsider the law.

That's why the nation-wide switch to Camels is not confined to any district or section, but is sweeping into every nook and corner of the country.

The cowpuncher on the range, no less than the cosmopolite in his club, now can taste the joy of expertly blended fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos kept in prime smoking condition.

The germ-safe moisture-proof Cellophane wrapping seals in all the natural factory-fresh aroma—seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

As a favor to your throat try Camels in the new Humidor Pack—compare their slow-burning cool enjoyment with the flat brackish taste and bite-and-sting of stale, parched-dry cigarettes.

Smoke factory-fresh Camels for just one day, then quit them—if you can.

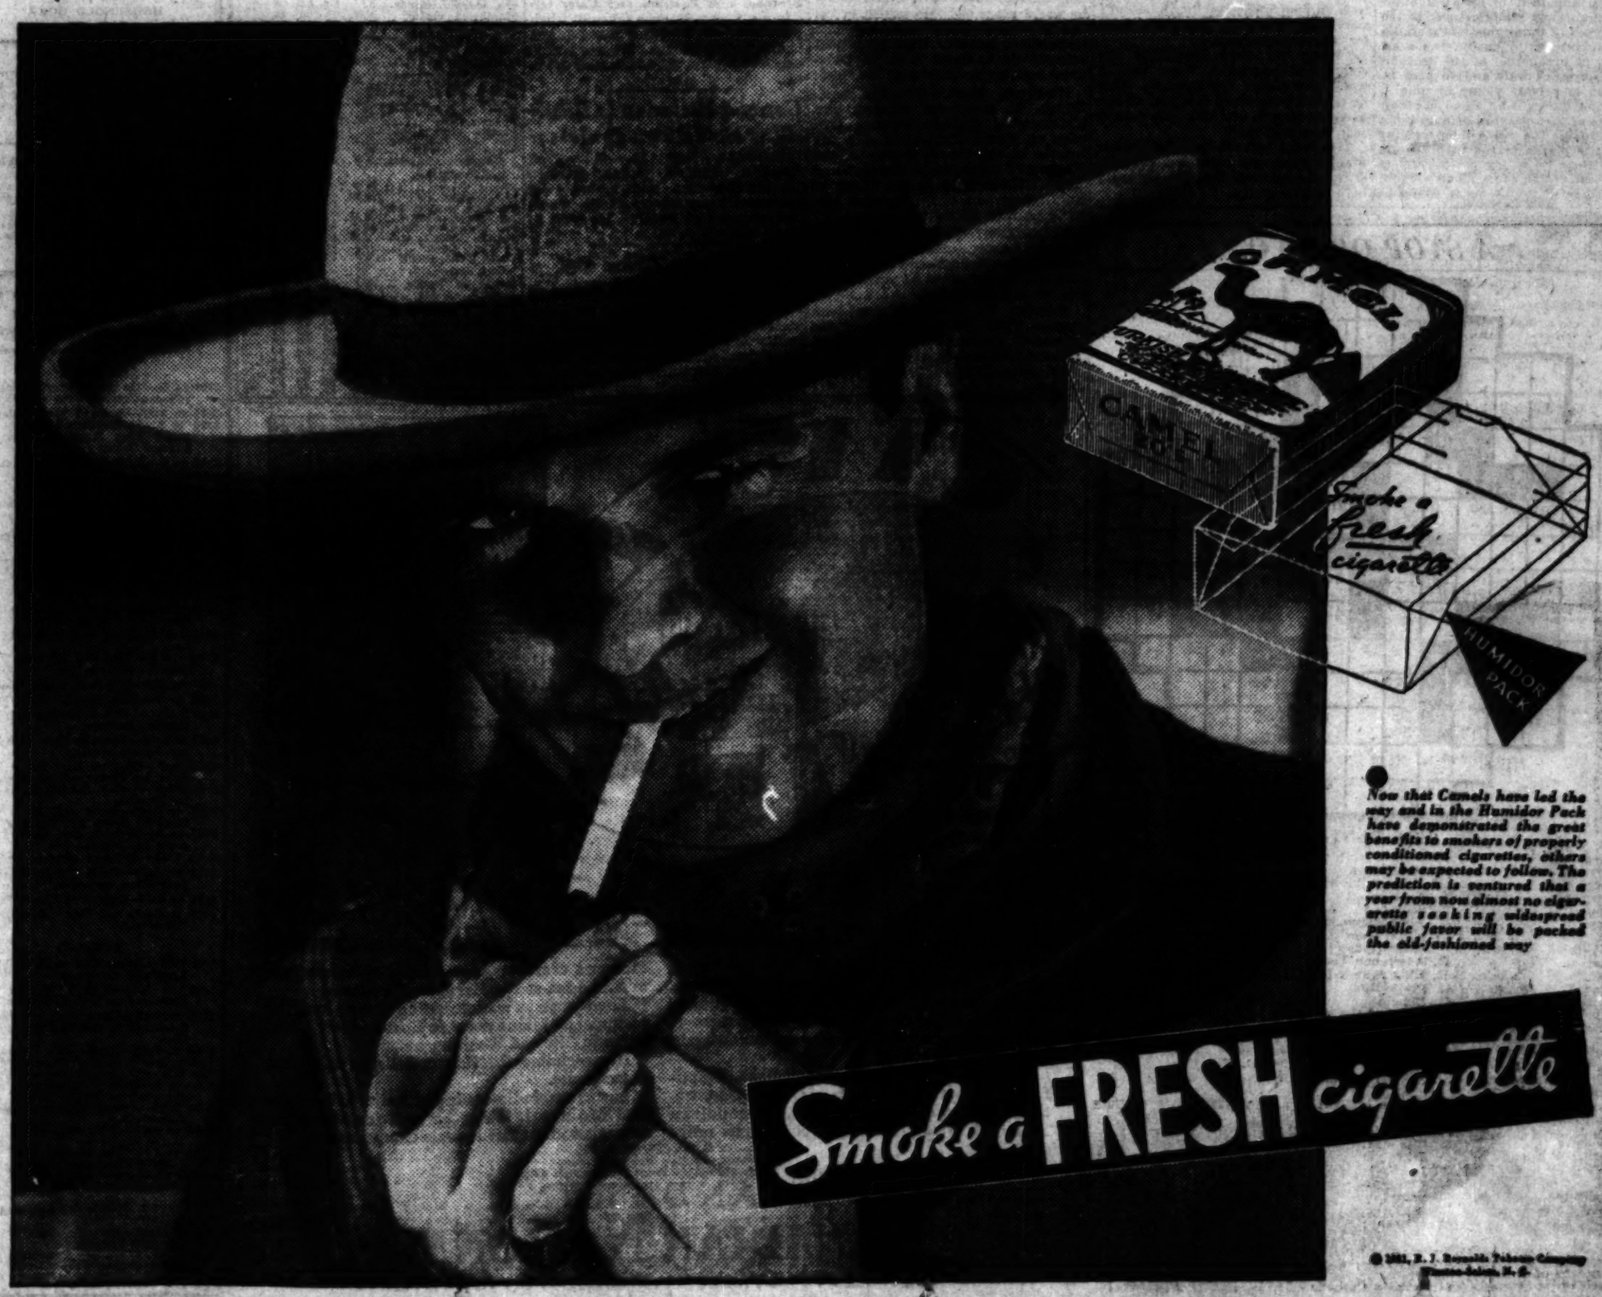
CAMELS

NO CIGARETTY AFTER-TASTE



Now that Camels have led the way and in the Humidor Pack have demonstrated the great benefits to smokers of properly conditioned cigarettes, others may be expected to follow. The prediction is ventured that a year from now almost no cigarettes seeking widespread public favor will be packed the old-fashioned way

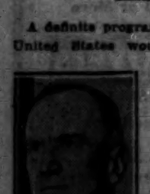
NATION LACKS WAR MUNITIONS, PARKER WARNS

Corps Commander Presents Defense Program.

A definite program under which the United States would be adequately prepared for war, instead of being weakly prepared as at present, was presented by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps Area, at a luncheon of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.



MAJ. GEN. PARKER.

This program, according to Gen. Parker, was prepared by "our best military minds" and gives such a potential mobilization of man power and materials that "it would in all probability deter any combination of powers from attacking us or so infringing on our neutral rights as to draw us into a war on the side of their enemies."

He pointed out the costly lessons of unpreparedness taken from all the wars in which this country has been engaged. The situation in munitions alone is such today, he declared, that two years must elapse after war is declared before this country could obtain quantity production sufficient to supply the men in the field.

Lists Defense Measures.

The measures of preparedness which he advocates follow:

1. Build up the navy to full treaty strength in the several categories of ships and provide a proper complement of personnel.

2. Increase the regular army to a strength of 165,000 men, exclusive of officers, and maintain it at not less than that minimum strength, which includes the Air Corps unit now contemplated in the 5 year development program.

3—Develop the anti-aircraft artillery to correspond with the five year program of the development of aviation.

5—Increase the national guard to a minimum strength of 210,000 men.

6—Make appropriations for the training of a minimum of 120,000 officers of the officers' reserve corps, to be kept available for the initial needs of a national emergency.

Urges Training of Reserves.

7—Make sufficient appropriations to maintain a reserve officers' training corps unit at each educational institution which desires such a unit and which can meet the necessary requirements.

8—Solve questions of adequate pay and promotion in the army and navy.

9—Maintain a reasonable peacetime reserve of munitions based on the war plans of the general staff.

10—Provide a sufficient manufacture of munitions in time of peace at government arsenals to maintain at each establishment a nucleus of trained workmen sufficient to keep alive the art of munitions manufacture, to improve types of munitions and methods of manufacture, to enable rapid expansion of production at the arsenals in the event of war, and to give instruction in private plants in time of peace and during war as to the best methods of manufacture of munitions.

11—Provide the peace time training of private plants in the manufacture of munitions by giving periodically to each plant orders for a small amount of the type of munitions it would be called upon to produce in the event of war.

"Until recent years," said General Parker, "we have had no military policy worthy of the name. This has been the case because our people have been suspicious of military activities. Yet we have been in a state of foreign or domestic war approximately one year out of every five. Should we include the Indian wars we have been at war for about 53 per cent of our national life. Our lack of proper military policy has resulted in exorbitant war costs and in wasteful prolongation of conflicts to a distress of our people that should largely have been avoided."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Getting Set

Atlanta, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Representative Charles G. Edwards, 53, Democrat, of the First Georgia congressional district, dropped dead here this afternoon in the office of Congressman Robert Ramspeck of the Fifth Georgia district. He was the seventh member of the next house to die. The Republicans now have 215 members to 213 for the Democrats, while there are six vacancies and one Farmer-Labor member.

The seventh vacancy, caused by the death of Representative Aswell of Louisiana, already has been filled by another Democrat, John Overton.

STANLEY MUST LIMIT BATHS TO SATURDAY NIGHT

Every American citizen has an inalienable right to a Saturday night bath, but on other nights Stanley Norwell, a druggist at 4622 South Western avenue, must stay out of the bathroom in the apartment which he and his estranged wife, Antoinette, use jointly, Judge Rudolph F. Desort ruled yesterday in the Superior court. He issued an injunction to enforce his ruling.

Mrs. Norwell sued for separate maintenance on May 12, and was granted temporary alimony of $30 a week and the right to occupy, rent free, an apartment over her husband's store. He was given one room there for sleeping quarters.

"When we lived together," she complained yesterday, "one bath a week was plenty for Stanley. Now he takes a bath every day, and always leaves a ring in the tub. He does it just to annoy me."

BASIL B. DUNCAN, OLDEST AMERICAN IN PANAMA, DIES

PANAMA, C. Z., July 13.—(AP)—Basil Burns Duncan, the oldest American in Panama and one of the hardy adventurers who fought malaria in the jungle to conquer the tropics, died yesterday at the age of 83.

Born near St. Joseph, Mo., Duncan came to Panama in his twenties, arriving shortly after the Panama railroad linking the two oceans was opened and while the isthmus was still a wilderness of swamps. When construction started on the ill-fated French canal he was one of four men who turned the first earth. Later he left Panama and went adventuring in other countries of Central America, fighting in revolutions in Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

Returning to Panama, he had an important part in the revolution of 1900. When the liberalist forces were defeated he was compelled to leave the isthmus and fled to Cuba. He came back shortly before the United States started construction on the canal and worked as a contractor until the project was completed.

STEEL MAN DIES TRYING TO RESCUE NIECE FROM LAKE

Erie, Pa., July 13.—(AP)—Harry J. Marks, 35, president of the Federal Steel company at Detroit, was drowned in Lake Erie at Northeast while attempting to rescue two girls from the water this evening. His niece, Phyllis Klingensmith, 17, also was drowned.

Marks, Miss Klingensmith, Babbits Marks, 3, Marks' daughter, and Jackie Klingensmith, 10, a second niece, were in a rowboat about 1,000 feet from shore at Orchard Beach when Jackie Klingensmith jumped out to swim. When the sister, Phyllis saw Jackie was in difficulties she went to her rescue. The older sister, witnesses said, appeared too excited to act quickly, and Marks jumped into the water.

Marks and Phyllis Klingensmith disappeared under the water, with the girl appearing to cling to him, witnesses said. A man named Cook swam out and rescued Jackie Klingensmith.

The bodies were removed from the water within a short time and doctors and firemen from Erie and Ripley, N. Y., worked for four and a half hours in futile efforts at resuscitation.

Marks and his family came here a week ago for a vacation. His parents, residents of Detroit, were reported tonight to be on the way to Erie by airplane.

Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans Tells Daily How to Guide Children

Miss Butcher Tells More of Authors' Session

Talks with Another Book Reviewer.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE HAGUE.—[Special Correspondence.]—H. W. Nevinson, one of the older English delegates to the P. E. N. is not perfectly like what we expected him to be—a red faced, corpulent, white haired, charming old man.

Gilbert Greig, who is well known in writing for her novels, was frank about their worth. "I'm nothing but a popular novelist," she said, "and not terribly popular at that." She writes four or five books a year. She lived in America for four years and has an American husband, Delano Ames. Her first husband also was an American. She looks exactly like her novels, brown eyed, yellow haired, chatty and charming. Her abundant friendliness was explained when I learned that she lives in Australia.

I also saw Nora S. Heald whom I met ten years ago at a dinner that Rebecca West gave for me. Rebecca was also booked as a delegate this year but did not get here. Miss Heald is not at all since her marriage all of her friends say that Miss West has "got happy."

Beatrice Kean Seymour also was a friend, and I liked her immensely. She has genuine friendliness in her manner. That is rare in the English who have not been infected with American bonhommie. She hopes to go to the United States next year. She is writing at least one novel a year, reviews books and has a column in England as a critic, comparable, I imagine, to my own in America. She reviews, she says, about twenty-four books a month, and is amused each other over our discouraging inability to get through all the books that we want to do, even doing them night and day as we both do.

One of the French delegates who impressed me very much was Paul Fierens. He has just written a book about the work of Leopold Survage, one of the most brilliant of the modern painters in France whose canvases are in some of the best of the Chicago private collections. The book is one of those beautifully printed, exhaustive editions for which Paris is famous.

Another delegate whom Chicago knows well, not as a writer, however, was Ivan Mestrovic the sculptor who did the Indians which decorate the Congress street entrance to Grant park. He came as one of the guests of honor from Jugo-Slavia. When I was surprised at his presence as an official delegate to a writers' congress he said he is a writer on his own subject though only a sculptor in other eyes. I remembered his visits to Chicago with pleasure.

Another visitor, an English woman, Frank Greville, remembered here with the most violent unpleasantness, she said. It was one of the Novembers when the thermometer trickled down to ten degrees below zero, she said, and she was almost in pain from the bitterness. She is the editor of a social journal and primarily a singer. She gave a concert in Chicago a couple of years ago. She is, she admitted, when I asked her, one of the heroines of the Greville memoirs.

One of the most colorful persons at the congress was a priest, the Rev. Mr. Svensson. He was the guest of honor from Iceland, and he gave me one of the best laughs of the congress. We were all sitting in a motor boat which was to take us to Rotterdam. It was a hot day—a very unusual thing in Holland—and all of the Holland and English speaking people immediately lowered the windows. By this means, in Holland, that they could see them. The nice little white haired man from Iceland watched us for a moment and then quietly got up to leave. "You will excuse me," he said, "but I cannot stay here. It will be too cold for me."

The congress next year will be held in Budapest and the year afterwards in Jugo-Slavia. If the 366 who were present this year have their health each one of them will be present, I declared. The Dutch P. E. N. has certainly made a garden spot of the congress in the memory of their guests, as they have made their country the garden spot of Europe.

Mexican Students Resent Yankee Ideas and Films

MEXICO CITY, July 13.—(AP)—A committee of National university students today published a manifesto calling upon Mexicans to rebel against American customs and to develop Mexican culture.

"Substitution of native music by jazz and blues assumes the proportions of traitorship to the country," the manifesto said. "We must fight Americanism in its many disguises, such as talking pictures in English, ham hands and 'good will.'

"We must preserve the Mexico that fought against the American invasion at Vera Cruz and against Pershing at El Carrizal. 'Culture is not assimilation,' not mimicking of Chicago and Arizona, but conservation of the native styles, music and habits."

Good Morning!

You may be "off" gangster pictures, BUT I would advise you to hop on "Hell Bound" for one more ride. The principal reason why you should do so is because of Leo Carrillo's unusual and beautiful performance. It is a bit of acting that will stand out crystal clear in the mind long after other memories of film gunmen have been obliterated.

As Nick Cotrelli, beer baron, he is one of the most ingratiating figures you may hope to meet in a lifetime of cinema seekings. You don't approve of him or his works, but there's no escaping from the charm of the man himself. He has the common touch; the human quality. His friendliness to those he trusts, and the side he shows to the woman he loves are as real and believable to the observer as are his jungle sentiments and tactics. A fatalist, Nick, with his boutonniere, his patent leather shoes, and his smile that can be disarming or deadly, who, even when it comes to curtains, doesn't fear his fate too much.

"Hell Bound," as to story, is composed of the usual gangsterial snips and snails and puppybodg's tails. And, these, perhaps, aren't as snippy and snail-y and puppy dogs'-tally as were the "Little Caesar" and "Doorway to Hell" aggregations. But "Hell Bound," which stresses the romance angle, gets us where we live—and that's where we like to be got.

The film is punctuated with diverting incident. Some of this is drolly deadly, carried on to a dialogue accompaniment of (literally) killing humor.

Lois Lane's portrayal of the girl the gangster loves runs Carrillo's a close second. Her work is astute, intuitive, and appealing, and she has the loveliest voice! She's not beautiful, but you think she is. Other rôles are well handled and direction is keen. The action is fast, credible and absorbing.

So, I say unto you:
Go to "Hell Bound!"
See you soon.

Film's Trader Horn Now Likely to Remain in U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—(AP)—Duncan Renaldo, film actor who rose to stardom in "Trader Horn," has won the right to stay in the United States, unless the labor department can find conclusive proof he is an alien. A warrant of arrest issued some time ago for him has been quashed because the government could not prove its original charge that he was a Rumanian. The film star, officials said, contended he was born an American in Camden, N. J., and taken to Rumania when very small.

Iowa's Farms, Factories to Be Depicted at Fair

Des Moines, Ia., July 13.—(AP)—Plans for Iowa's exhibit at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1933 were presented to the state executive council today by W. T. Showers of Des Moines. He proposed a rustic setting to be constructed in the Iowa booth to contrast with pictures of Iowa industries and parks showing a century of progress. A total of $25,000 has been appropriated for an Iowa exhibit.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A recent Tribune story stated that the board of education proposed to save $65,000 by the elimination of community centers. The Federation of Public School Community Centers states that last year only $36,855 was expended in the centers and this year's budget is for $46,000. The $65,000 estimate was given in tabulations by the board of education.

SOME FUTURE TALKIE STARS

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 13.—[Special.]—Hollywood, in the throes of its change from the former practice of unaudited expenditure, to the new "economy" policy decreed by the Wall street combinations which now finance all the picture corporations, gives the sideliner some strange examples to study. For instance, the strange Alphonse and Gaston combat now current between Warner and Paramount studios, which both have instituted recent retrenchment policies and cut down salaries wholesale, yet both studios seem uncertain which will relinquish opportunity to pay Ruth Chatterton a raise in salary to $375,000 a year to make two pictures annually as soon as her present contract expires at Paramount in September.

It first was announced that Ruth had signed to join Warners at the close of her current Paramount stay. Next it was darkly hinted the studios had gotten together and Warners would permit Ruth to stay at Paramount if Paramount would take over the $375,000 contract. Then came Paramount's Chesterfieldian rebuttal, releasing the lady into the rival's arms, accompanied by encomiums about her box office and acting power. And recently indications were that Warpers will defer to Paramount allowing the latter to star Ruth in its pictures whenever it wants [and pay her salary] after the new Warner contract goes into force.

In the meantime stenographers, mechanics and clerks at both Warner and Paramount have been laid off or their salaries pruned, possibly so that Miss Chatterton's $375,000 dent in the budget can be taken up with the slack of saving on their minor salaries.

Paramount also is the home lot of another strange case, that of Carmen Barnes, an 18 year old girl who never played a rôle in her life, either on stage or film, and never wrote any film stories, but who, on the strength of having a precocious confessions book printed and a play accepted, was shunted out to the Hollywood Paramount plant from the east to be groomed overnight into a featured actress, and made an authoress of movie stories. The local force did the best it could, adapting one of Miss Barnes' stories for film use, and using up thousands of feet of footage in screen tests trying to find a camera rôle for her.

But the screen tests didn't bring Miss Barnes a single rôle, and it now looks as if the studio's best bet will be to pay Miss Barnes her $1,000 a week and do nothing further about it except let her option run out. Not the girl's fault at all, merely an example of the erratic things that sometimes feature an economy wave.

One local movie insider, Edwin Schallert, Los Angeles Times drama editor, has been collecting illustrations of the way that film studios have scattered millions in the talkie era.

The golden chariot, built at Universal City. After the huge chariot was built within walls of a brick building on the Universal lot no door in the building was big enough to permit its exit, so they knocked out a wall. But once the chariot trundled outside the director of the story said it was no use anyway as the sequences calling for the chariot's appearance had already been blue pencilled.

The "Hit the Deck" ship at RKO, where a ship was built so big that it filled the entire stage and left no room to set up cameras and shoot the shipboard action, finally walls of the building were knocked out so the cameras could get a perspective.

"The March of Time," revue film at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in which Weber & Fields, De Wolf Hopper, Fay Templeton, Louis Mann, and others were imported to reel the clock backward a generation, but after an expenditure of $400,000 studio executives decided "musical pictures are passé."

The case of Guy Bolton, writer, and Dorothy Burgess, actress, at Fox. Bolton drew $25,000 to write dialogue for "Trans-Atlantic," and none of his dialogue ever was used. Nobody ever found out if anything was the matter with Bolton's writing. Miss Burgess made a hit in "In Old Arizona," and thereafter Fox paid her $1,000 a week for ten months or more until her contract expired, but never used her again because some official couldn't figure out a part for her.

The case of "King of Jazz" at Universal, where some higherup had a difference of opinion with John Murray Anderson, director, and gave Anderson nothing to do after he had finished the one picture. Although he did nothing, Anderson drew $250,000 in salary, as per contract. The studio paid Paul Whiteman and his band more than $300,000 for the picture.

The case of "Jenny Lind" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where Grace Moore, the oper. singer, worked three days recording one song at a cost of $40,000, although the song never was used. In the same picture, Schallert says, Oscar Strauss, the composer, had sixteen bars of music appear in the final windup. Strauss was paid $50,000.

Other examples of the same sort have come to light. There is the costly and terrifically unproductive year of 1930 at United Artists studio during which Al Jolson drew $500,000 but did not work, and in which Joseph Schenck completed two versions of one picture starring his wife, Norma Talmadge, both of which were shelved.

The incident that struck Editor Schallert funniest of all was that of a movie writer at Paramount, whose contract was not renewed, but who received a new offer, at considerable increase, through his New York business agent. The new offer proved to come from the Paramount east coast plant at New York.

Commerce Group Offers $1,000 to Train Farmers

Candidates for the scholarships made possible by the purse will compete for honors in this summer's international live stock exhibition. Indian Prince, Rich in Past, but Broke Now

His Plight Is Typical of Hundreds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 13.—The chief of Wadi, a treaty prince of the southern Mahrata country, who on behalf of some of the smaller states is opposing the idea of a federation of Indian states on the ground that the small states would be wiped out, is in no enviable position. This is best illustrated by a recent incident in his precincts.

The chief is typical of the rulers of states, more than 360 in number, able to have a semi-independent existence, because of their dependency on the government of India. He, like many of his order, possesses powers which he has no means of exercising. He rules over six villages with about 2,600 inhabitants. His income is about $1,600 a year, which means that his subjects pay about 80 cents per capita. He exercises his criminal and civil jurisdiction personally as magistrate, sessions judge and high court combined.

Last May the chief had to try a murder case in his court, which was his own private house in Miraj, a town under the jurisdiction of another chief, since he does not live in one of his own villages. The accused escaped from the custody of the chief's superintendents of police, who happened to be his cook as well. The accused went out of the door of the courtroom and found himself in the territory of the chief of Miraj. The policemen of Wadi had no authority to cross the threshhold of the house and arrest the murderer, and the latter took advantage of the situation to stand outside and insolently call upon the police as well as the chief to come out and arrest him.

The only means by which this could be done was by asking for an extradition warrant. The chief of Wadi accordingly wrote to the political agent and resident at Kolhapur, who forwarded the demand to the chief of Miraj. The latter ordered the arrest some seven days later.

The accused was brought again for trial more closely guarded and convicted. The chief sentenced him to three years hard labor, but the political agent decided this was too light a sentence and ordered the murderer to be hanged. It was then disclosed that, owing to the very distressing economic condition of the villagers, the chief had not been able to raise any revenue for the last few years and had not sufficient funds to pay the fee of about $100 which was necessary to finance the hanging.

THE STAGE

SYBIL THORNDIKE, who deserves to be called the First Actress of the British stage, will visit this country next season in the leading rôle of "The Devil," a comedy by Benn W. Levy, author of "Art and Mrs. Bottle" and adapter of "Topaze." This play, one of the successes of the London season, will be imported by Arch Selwyn with its original cast. Others in the company are Norman McKinnel, Diana Wynyard, Dennis Neilson-Terry, Ernest Thesiger, Lewis Casson, and Melville Cooper. Mr. Selwyn is planning for a Broadway première late in October or early in November.

Miss Thorndike's career covers twenty-seven years. She was a member of Ben Greet's Shakespearean company from 1904 to 1906, touring extensively in the United States. She then became leading woman of Miss Horniman's repertory company in Manchester, England. Her London debut was made with Charles Frohman's repertory company at the Duke of York's theater in 1910. Since then she has acted a wide range of classic, emotional, and high comedy rôles in London. Whether the play was written by Shakespeare or by Shaw, Miss Thorndike was at home in it. Her contribution to the English stage has been recognized by honorary degrees from Manchester and Edinburgh universities.

Florenz Ziegfeld feels so cheerful over his new "Follies," which is Broadway's most popular summer show, that he is preparing to stage a musical comedy. James Montgomery, Walter Donaldson and Joseph McCarthy are named as authors of the piece. Mr. Ziegfeld has begun to engage a cast, and rehearsals are scheduled to start Aug. 15.

The South Sea island dancer named Reri, who caught Mr. Ziegfeld's eye in the film called "Tabu," and who is now shaking her grass skirt seductively in the "Follies," comes from Tahiti. She was born in the town of Papeete; her right name is Anna Chevalier; her father was a French school teacher; her mother was a native Tahitian. This information comes straight from the Villa Valtiare, Paea, Tahiti, establishment d'Oceanie, where a veteran American theatrical manager, George Bowles, leads the life of Robert Louis Stevenson.

"Pilate," a drama with the trial and crucifixion of Christ as its background, is being staged experimentally at the Greenwich Civic theater, New York, this week. It was written by H. Campbell Duncan and Ralph A. Lennon, Chicago newspaper men. Mr. Duncan is a brother of S. J. Duncan-Clark. George Arliss thought, for a while, that "Pilate" would fit neatly into his career. The cast for the current production includes Lillian Gahagan, debutante sister of Helen Gahagan, star of David Belasco's last, "Tonight or Never."

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Cleveland, O., July 13.—(AP)—The Shrine brought its big show to town today and made Cleveland an oriental oasis of parades, concerts, ceremonials and funmaking.

Delegates were arriving by the thousands, by special trains, by automobile, by plane and by boat, and tomorrow between 40,000 and 100,000 nobles are expected here for the 57th annual convention of the Ancient and Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of North America.

Today was listed on the program as all-Ohio day, with 750 members of the six Ohio temples initiated into the order, but the arrival of delegations from all parts of the country came in for equal attention.

One thousand members of Medinah temple of Chicago, the largest in the order, arrived in spectacular fashion on the Lake Steamer Seeandbee. The Chicagoans, bedecked in red, green and yellow uniforms and bright red fezzes, paraded from the dock behind Al Koran patrol of Cleveland. They tied up downtown traffic for half an hour.

Medinah sent a brass band, an oriental band, chantess, 500 uniformed men, and a headquarters company from its 23,000 members. This year a Chicago man, Thomas J. Houston, is to be elected imperial potentate and the windy city is a contender for the 1932 convention.

Lulu temple of Philadelphia sent the next largest delegation—900—and presented a quarter-mile long march of sound and color. Moolah temple, St. Louis, with 500 nobles, arrived o nthe steamer Eastern States, while Iram temple of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., also came by boat, via Buffalo.

Abu Bekr, Sioux City, attracted attention with its white Arabian mounted patrol of 30 pure white horses. Syria temple, Pittsburgh, was represented by 700 nobles campaigning for the election of J. Milton Ryall for outer guard.

Band concerts, a lake cruise to Put-in-Bay, patrol drills, and the annual meetings of the recorders and the royal order of jesters, composed of men high in shrinedom, completed the day's program. Tonight was given over to a Mardi Gras and carnival, with Lakeside avenue roped off for the merrymakers.

San Francisco was unexpectedly put forward as a candidate for the 1932 convention of the Shrine of North America. Pacific coast delegates got behind the move at a breakfast given by Leo Youngsworth, past potentate of Islam Temple, Los Angeles. Previously Chicago had been the only city mentioned for next year's gathering.

Fourteen nobles of Helia temple, Dallas, came by airplane. Another long distance air delegate was Gerald Bliss, postmaster of the Canal Zone, who flew from Panama to Cleveland.

Lou B. Windsor of Grand Rapids, Mich., is the oldest member of the imperial council present and is attending his 44th annual convention. He was imperial potentate in 1900. Another veteran in attendance is John A. Morison of Kismet temple, Brooklyn, N. Y., known as "the grand old man of New York Masonry," who says he has attended every convention since "way back when."

Kennan, seven feet tall, was cut on the neck when a bottle of stench fluid was tossed i nthe lobby of the Hotel Winton. More than 100 persons were routed by the incident, which police blamed on hotel labor troubles.

"Rigoletto" Given, with Fred Jagel, Wins Critics' Praise

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Rigoletto" the ancient and venerated came to its annual rehabilitation at Ravinia last night, the principal change over performances in previous years being that Frederick Jagel appeared in the rôle of the duke. Otherwise Florence Macbeth sang the part of Gilda in which she is always a delight, Giuseppe Danise repeated his well sung and competently acted Rigoletto, and Virgilio Lazzari made a brilliant exhibition out of the part of Sparafucile.

Mr. Jagel is an artist whose future progress is going to be worth watching and that on the strength of only a few appearances hereabouts. The point is that his voice is of uncommonly pleasant nature and he has developed a technical facility apparently equal to anything, but more than these, that there is a quality of youth in every phrase that he sings. This last is not so frequent among artists that it can be offhandedly passed by. Mr. Danise was perhaps more eloquent in his monologue of the second act where he did all his acting with his voice than in any other single episode of the opera. Miss Macbeth gave a perfect performance of "Care Nome" and an equally good account of the less musical confession in the following act. The lesser rôles moved smoothly and certainly.

There will be a change in the previously announced order of things tonight. Because of the indisposition of Elizabeth Rethberg, "Il Trovatore" has been canceled and "Aida" will be repeated, this time with Hilda Burke in the name part, Leon Rothier as the priest and Mario Basiola as Amonasro. Giovanni Martinelli will appear again as Radames.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and exile of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of starting a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. Sally, well educated and traveled, prefers farming to finance. The Rutherford ladies "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Sally's milkman helps her get the shack ready for business and even shows her how to make hot dogs.

INSTALLMENT VIII.
CUSTOMERS.

Sam ousted himself. Ashamed to refuse, Sally Rutherford sat down with the milkman opposite her. Buttered hot corn on the cob and hot dogs with all the trimmings are not to be eaten in an elegant or impressive manner, even by the elect. One simply eats them as best one can and rejoices in the bounty of the Lord. Sally ate, and discovered that she had been hungry. She cleaned her plate, and when her glass was empty he refilled it.

Horns honked outside. Two large cars had stopped, and people were swarming out of them. There came a tattoo on the door.

"Your customers already!" exclaimed the milkman, and got to his feet.

"But I don't open until tomorrow morning!" said she, panicky.

But he had thrown the door wide, and was bowing to the men and women who came in. The women exclaimed over the room. The men demanded refreshments.

"We don't open until tomorrow, really, and so we aren't quite prepared. But we can give you fine hot dogs and the best of milk. We expect to specialize on hot dogs—the best rolls, the best trimmings," explained the milkman.

Everybody clamored for such as he had, and almost with stupefaction Sally Rutherford watched him serving them. He was gay, smiling, deft. As if by magic his simple fare was ready almost as it was called for.

"We were so lucky as to have enough wienies and butter on hand. This afternoon's milk has just come, too. When you come again we can give you more varied fare—but we can't give you better hot dogs. Nobody could."

Attracted by the lighted room and the open door, a few more cars stopped, more people crowded in. All of them admired the room. A stout woman called attention to the Rogers group on the mantel.

"I would like that."

"It is for sale, madame, and only ten dollars," said the milkman and handed it to her. She paid for it on the spot. He bowed to the customer and handed the money to the dazed Sally.

"Tomorrow, ladies and gentlemen, we open. We shall put in our own home baked pies, cakes, rolls—all made by a wonderful old Mammy, the finest cook in Carolina. We shall have waffles. We shall have fried chicken to order. We shall have tea and coffee, the best of cream, milk, butter. I can guarantee this when I tell you that we purchase our dairy supplies from the celebrated Winstead Dairy farm—the best in the south. As you can see by our new shingle, this is 'Sally's Shack.' Come again and bring your friends with you." He went on pouring out milk nonchalantly as he spoke.

Seeing some of the women examining the china on the shelves, he went over presently and made himself agreeable to them. He talked entertainingly, and sold two pieces for five dollars, which he handed over to Sally. Dutifully he collected his nickels and dimes. Sally had twenty dollars and fifty cents in the new till that had been so empty only an hour before, when he bowed his customers out and closed the door.

"I'd keep open longer, but all our wienies are gone. Ditto rolls, except one which you can save for Moses," he said, smiling. "It comes to me that you'll have to keep this place open rather later at night than you had planned. In the meantime, you go comb that attic of yours for all sorts of things—you can see how they sell. You can sell anything, Miss Sally, if you give it the right background. Do you think you can make hot dogs like mine?"

"Sally's Shack shall never make any other kind," she vowed and opened the till for his inspection. "I don't know how to thank you sufficiently."

"I'm glad you don't. We had a lovely little picnic, Miss Sally."

"And here's Moses at last, come to shut the place and escort me home. Mr. Forman, this is Moses."

Big Mr. Forman slightly lowered his blond head and looked bandy-legged old Moses full in the eyes. His expression was peculiar. So was Moses'.

"I suppose Miss Rutherford has told you I'm one of the superintendents over at Mr. Winstead's dairy, where you get your milk," said the tall young man easily. "I've been waiting on a few unexpected customers for her . . . I like to be of help to my neighbors. So if ever you discover that your Miss Sally needs me, Moses, you'll know where to find me."

"Y-yes, suh," said Moses, and bowed with awkward dignity. He gaped a little at Mr. Forman, his mouth opened and shut.

"Good-night, Miss Rutherford. 'Night, Moses. I've got to fly."

From the afternoon of its unexpected and informal opening, Sally's Shack was successful. Mr. Forman said that everything conspired to make it so—it pleased the eye, intrigued the imagination, and satisfied the stomach.

The roadside front had been made gayly noticeable by colorful massings of bright common flowers, attracting motorists who paused to admire and remained to buy.

Friends came and brought their friends. "O, Sally! what a perfect duck of a place! However did you think of something so simple and perfect! How clever of you, Sally!" But Sally in her black frock already felt curiously apart from and strangely unenvious of the luckier lot of these whilom friends.

So young Charleston discovered Sally's Shack, and it became the thing to run out there and drink coffee and eat the perfect fried chicken and waffles prepared by Maum Affie, and be waited on by splay-footed old Moses, who had grand manners and didn't seem able to remember that he wasn't waiting on the colonel's guests at Oakleigh.

Sally was always present to overlook things, a slender, pretty figure in black. Who would have thought that out of the midst of the frightful disasters that had befallen her the colonel's proud Sally would develop into this little business woman fighting her way? It was astonishing, and because they themselves were intrinsically gallant people, they admired her immensely and did what they could to make her venture successful.

Grandmamma could not, of course, receive many visitors, but the Rutherfords were not neglected by their kind. Some few of her most familiar friends were permitted to see her, and these she always received with real pleasure and had Rosie serve them tea in old Sevres cups, and delighted to offer them Maum Affie's perfect little cakes. She sat amid her snowy pillows in the daintiest of embroidered nightgowns, a delicately tinted shawl around her shoulders.

Grandmamma's health and well-being didn't torture Sally, but the problem of maintaining both in Oakleigh did. As the days rolled into weeks after the colonel's tragic death, Oakleigh came to mean more and more to the last Rutherford. It meant much more than just an old house in an old garden—it meant the Rutherford family, root and branch. The girl would leave Grandmamma's room of a morning and hurry to that altogether different world.

She ransacked Oakleigh attics, as Mr. Forman advised, and the articles she reclaimed were displayed sparingly.

"You're not running an antique shop, remember," he said shrewdly. "So you can't afford to offer too much all at once . . . only enough to hint that you have a few more genuine fine things for sale now and then, and that such pieces as you offer are scarce and not to be come by every day, and had better be bought up quickly. After a while the word will spread and the right sort of buyers will be after you."

It was usually he who put the price on things. He always seemed to ask enough, but not too much, and Sally never found any difficulty in disposing of the articles. Sometimes it would be the old ginger jar, or maybe it would be a lard oil lamp, log cabin bottle, a pair of beflowered Empire vases, or a discarded kerosene lamp with a cut glass bowl and a brass-and-onyx stand. Once it had been a large bouquet of exquisitely made wax flowers under a glass dome; another time it had been some venerable cottage Staffordshire grotesque, made to please peasant housewives in rural England and now sought after ardently by collectors. And once Sally had brought down what she considered a hideous bronze Chinese shaman, his small, ugly cheela clinging to his flowing skirts.

"That's a piece of Bi-sem clay," he recognized it instantly and admiringly. "Consider it sold already, Miss Sally. Sam Winstead's something like me about some old things, so I know he'd like to have this piece."

She hesitated, and looked at him doubtfully.

"I don't like him at all. I think he's hideous," said she. And she put her pride in her pocket—such a light pocket!—and wrapped up the heavy clay figure. The next day Mr. Forman came back and handed her a check, the amount of which surprised her.

"Didn't you swindle the man?" she protested.

"No'm. He pays for what he gets, but he is always pretty sure he gets what he pays for." He added: "That piece was very old. He was glad to get it."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Just Half Right.

I am a church organist and my most embarrassing moment occurred in that connection. I keep a pair of leather heeled shoes at the church to wear while practicing, and one day in my haste to leave I changed only one shoe. I didn't discover the error until I was on the elevated train, when the passengers' smiles drew my attention to a black shoe on one foot and a brown one on the other.

Trend to Natural Calls for Delicate Tints in Cosmetics

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Coral is edging its way into popular cosmetic favor. Coral lipsticks are being advocated for the fresh young lip and for the lady who would have her lip look so. And coral rouge. A faintish pink, yet a warm color, too.

And then coral finger tips are what your best dressed fingers should be wearing these summer days. They are more elegant with the delicate summer frock, you see. And I hear from Paree that that's all you see in the smart places where hands are on exhibition. And that's something to be thankful for! Maybe you don't mind those blood stained finger tips, but I never get over a feeling of mal de mer [if that's the proper sea going word, for you know what happens when the boat rocks].

I think coral is the nicest kind of color substitute for the butcher shop red. Incidentally, if you happen to have in your manicure kit two bottles, one a brilliant red and the other the colorless or nearly colorless preparation usually applied after the bright color, you can experiment with a bit of mixing and get a nice coral shade.

This coral touch to the 1930 beauty is all in the movement to get back to natural. Natural as art makes it, however. You can't trust nature to do as neat a job of naturalness as it is accomplished by such means as the one just described.

Our best 1930 natural beauties are the beauties who have studied every trick of artificiality and become so proficient with it, it bears the stamp of naturalness.

Take some of the "natural" hair arrangements noted about. They sometimes represent a background of years of study and training in hair arrangement. Or take a natural manner. You meet it often in women of wide experience and sophistication. They've learned to discard all the superfluities of word and gesture—which a person might have naturally.

So when any one speaks of being natural, its present day meaning, from a beauty point, is something else again than that used to describe the simple, unsophisticated country miss of comic opera renown.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

K. D.: THE DAILY COLD shower is a healthful practice, providing you get into a good warm glow following the rub down with a coarse towel. However, it alone, is not sufficient for cleanliness. A warm bath should be taken daily in addition.

MRS. P. B. E.: SOFTEN YOUR bath water with meal mixtures—Almond meal, or a combination of powdered oatmeal, almond meal, and castile soap.

Doris Settles This Matter of Evening Off for Housewives

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Speaking of hubby's night off, as what wife doesn't have to speak of it sooner or later, how about the wife's evening away from the household scene, asks "Just a Wife."

"After a woman spends most of her day working in the home, isn't she entitled to have a night off, too?"

She's entitled to it just the same as her husband is, but if I know my women the mere fact that she is entitled to it and can have it would put a crimp in her away-from-home plans, now wouldn't it?

Isn't it silly to be dragging up that old query about what's sauce for the goose being applesauce for the woman? The woman doesn't want it that way, anyway. She just likes to argue about it. The few wives who would be demanding an evening out them whether there was a question on their own probably would have about the propriety of it or not. There aren't many of her kind after all.

An evening out to the wife means an evening out with her man. Clubs don't call her like they call a man. Poker hasn't any fascination for her. She hasn't the gang spirit [by which I don't mean criminal] of the average male, therefore an evening out doesn't promise excitement.

If a woman wants to run around the corner to the movies, no one will stop her. Or, if she wants to run over to Mabel's and talk over Louise's latest exploit, she'll find the way to get there. But most women just haven't the evening wanderlust as it attacks the other sex.

So the thing to do is just to set it down to one of those little idiosyncrasies of the male, let him go with your blessing and leave it to him to unfold the usually mild details of the venture later.

Or, if you still insist on women's rights to the night off, gather up a friend or two and see a show and DON'T put on that serves-you-right expression when the subject comes up again.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

"E. M."

The usual kind and thoughtful attentions—flowers, candy, books and consulting her wishes as to amusements—are your best bet, E. M.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Printed linen was chosen for this dainty all day dress. The deep pointed outline at the front gives the figure height, and the feminine influence is smartly apparent in the short, flared sleeves. Shantung, eyelet batiste, flat silk crêpe, and crêpe de chine are attractive materials for its development.

The pattern, 3473, comes in sizes 12 and 14 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3¼ yards of 35 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Society Takes to Fast Boats at Desbarats

The little island colony at Desbarats, Canada, where speed boats are as necessary for transportation as gondolas in Venice, will be populated by its full quota of annual summer vacationers. About a dozen Chicago families who own island estates there usually go up mid-July for the sort of nautical outing the location affords.

Mr. Theodore Proxmire returned to Lake Forest yesterday after having seen Mrs. Proxmire and their children, Theodore Jr., Bill, and Adele, settled on their island for the summer. Dr. Proxmire will return later in the season.

Mr. Alby Grannis, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Uri B. Grannis of Lake Forest, has been at Desbarats for several weeks and will be joined soon by his parents and his brothers, W. C. Grannis and Uri Grannis Jr. Mrs. Joseph G. Heyworth and her son, Joseph Heyworth, also will be at Desbarats some time in August. At present they are at Glacier park.

Miss Helen and Miss Barbara Stanley are there now, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley, will join them early in August. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes and their daughter, Miss Florence Noyes, will arrive in a few weeks for their "Chateau d'Ours Island" there. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwins will go up for a short stay in August, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert de Wolfe Erskines and their sons probably will be there for at least a fortnight next month.

Miss Elinor Whiting, daughter of Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, has decided on Saturday, Oct. 31, as the date of her wedding to Edward Hendee Hagey. The ceremony is to take place at St. Chrysostom's. The bridal party has not been selected yet and probably will be completed until Miss Whiting comes in the fall from her mother's summer residence at Charlevoix. She will, by the way, fully recovered from her recent operation for appendicitis and is able to take part in the social life at Charlevoix again. Mrs. Whiting is at the Drake for a few days with her son, Graham Whiting.

The international polo players will be guests of the Post and Paddock club today at luncheon and at the game. Besides the members of the Santa Paula and Old Aiken teams the guests at luncheon will include several of the Lake Forest sponsors of the polo matches. Invitations have been accepted by Miss Elsa Armour, Miss Beatrice Kirk, Miss Caroline Swift, Miss Constance Hasler, Miss Frances Clow, Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Mrs. Stuart B. Reynolds, Jack Simpson, Garland Donnelley, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ferry, Miss Helen Herts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glore, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, John D. Herts Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, Mrs. Leander McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Chatfield Taylor, Mrs. Howard Linn and Mr. and Mrs. William Hitt of Washington, who arrived on Sunday to be the Laurance Armours' guests during the polo matches.

The junior entertainment committee for the polo players will give an outdoor dinner dance at Onwentsia tomorrow evening.

Hollywood's "Our Gang" will need to look to its laurels or "Our Gang" down Floosmoor way will provide some surprisingly keen competition in the field of neighborhood circuses and such.

Handbills are fluttering over the green lawns of the southward suburb announcing "Floosmoor's Our Gang Circus, one day only, Friday, July 17." The proceeds will go to THE TRIBUNE Camp Algonquin fund and the price of admission is 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

That may appear to be a high price in these times when the show business is none too good, but when you consider all you're going to get for your money it's really very reasonable.

The performance starts at 2:30, but one should go at 2 p. m. in time to see the parade. The band will be provided by the courtesy of Calipino Jr. The place is the Arthur M. Semones lawn on Marston lane.

As for the members of "Our Gang," here they are, seventeen strong: Charles and Bob Alexander, Jane Baselet, Buster and Carol Baumgardener, Roger Briggs, Allen Grant, Bill Gwyn, Florence and Marquette Howell, Betty Kastler, Bill and Jerry Lindstrom, Maxwell Boys, Arthur Semones Jr., Ronald Smith, and Priscilla Wells. If you wish a ticket you can buy one from any member of "Our Gang."

Chic Blue Serge Coat Favors Loose Sleeve

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Things are happening to the sleeves of summer coats, and these things are important to styles. Sleeves are growing larger and more important every day in every way.

The separate coat, prior to this increase, was a poor, thin thing, stripped of collar and with short and skimpy sleeves. More than this, the smart coat has seldom had a belt since summer set in. Now comes the big sleeve to give the coat some importance once more, though collars remain infinitesimal when present at all and belts are still banished.

The way in which sleeves are given girth is shown in the Augustabernard model sketched here. They aren't, as you see, gathered or plaited at the armholes and they have no cuffs. The armhole itself is made huge, frequently beginning from a dropped shoulder yoke, as in the illustrated model, and this calls for a wide topped sleeve, that only narrows near the wrist. The navy blue serge coat shown is given added sleeve importance at the elbows by shirrings on the inside, and by loops of blue serge being hung off the elbows at the back of the sleeves.

Apart from these wide, loose sleeves, this coat is very slim in line, and has a wrap-around closing. It folds back over itself around the neck to make a pretense collar, and this as well as the closing is edged with white and silver braid. The same braid borders the loops at the back of the sleeves, as shown in the small sketch

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

But, taking them as a whole, they probably stand the least chance of getting one.

If, for instance, you have a baby, he doesn't skip two weeks or a month, and fly to the Never-Never Land while you get a rest.

If you have young children, especially those just beginning to walk well, with an enthusiasm for trying their wings, vacation is one of those things that you get only in your sleep.

Of course, there are exceptions—but these things are true of the average mother.

But when your children are older, even if you can't leave them, you can scale up in many ways in the summer time—that is, if you will try to get yourself into a vacation frame of mind. If you will shed the workaday feeling, simplify living as much as possible, and try not to use every free minute dutifully, you can get real refreshment out of your summer.

You'll find yourself having more time for some of the pleasant things there are to do—both as a person and as a mother.

You'll have time to play with the children and to be interested in their interests. You'll have more time with the children—not for doing things for them—but for being with them, for reading to them, for listening to them in an unhurried way.

And with all this perhaps you can, if you try, tuck in time to rest each day and also to bathe and "groom" yourself in a leisurely fashion. There's scarcely anything more refreshing to a busy mother than enough time for a bath and fastidious dressing. Any mother of small children knows what a luxury this is.

Food Talk.

Cantaloupes or muskmelon, the terms are used interchangeably, are the most delicious of all edible melons that we find on the market during the summer months. Generally they are round to oval, have a netted skin and flesh and skin varying in color. They are readily perishable and therefore must be carefully handled.

When selecting melons for immediate consumption, avoid over ripe, soft and bruised ones. A good melon has firm, thick flesh of pleasing aroma and flavor, and is never watery. The ground work of the skin is green; this becomes slightly yellowed in the ripe melon. The blossom end of the melon should yield to pressure of the finger tips, but should not be soft and tender enough to break under pressure.

Melons may be served in a variety of ways. They are best when thoroughly chilled in the refrigerator before serving. If cracked ice is used with the melon it should be made into a bed on which the melon should stand. Ice placed in the hollow of the fruit weakens its flavor.

The epicure prefers to add only a little salt to season his melon. However, to some people sugar is more agreeable. Cocktails and salads with cubed or fancy cut pieces of melon combined with other fruits are especially good at this time of year. A combination of muskmelon and grapefruit is nice in salads. Melon balls, cut with a French cutter, and served with ice cold ginger ale or orange juice make a delicious appetiser. Half melons filled with balls of ice cream is a favorite dessert of young and old.

Delicious sweet and sour pickles are made from under ripe whole melons and the rinds of the ripe ones.

2 large seedless oranges.
4 slices pineapple.
Lettuce.

Peel grapefruit and remove the sections. Cut the sections into even sized pieces. Peel the oranges and cut into dice. Slice the pineapple, grapes, and cherries. Combine the fruits and chill thoroughly. Some prefer the addition of a little sugar. When ready to serve, mix with mayonnaise. Arrange carefully on lettuce leaves.

Yield: Four servings.

TORONTO, Ont., July 13.—(AP)—A campaign to promote Julien C. Hyer of Fort Worth, Tex., from vice president to president of the International Association of Lions club was launched today by Harry Newman, past president. Mr. Newman told a luncheon of Ontario and Quebec district clubs at which Mr. Hyer spoke that the Texan would be elected at the international convention which opens tomorrow. As delegates from the United States began arriving, movements were started by Los Angeles and Chicago groups to bring the 1932 international convention to their cities.

She Thought It Was Love

"The man of her dreams," he seemed—out there on the sun-lit beach. But the first time they danced together—romance fled!

A man and a maid by the Summer sea. Long lazy hours on the beach together. "It's love!" she told herself and thrilled with happiness . . . Then came the dance—the discovery that almost broke her heart. How could she ever have thought she cared for him—a man who could be guilty of "B.O." (body odor)!

Hot weather no excuse

It was breathlessly hot as they danced together. But that was no excuse in her eyes. The "B.O." offender is never forgiven, no matter what the weather may be.

Take no chances. Carelessness may cost success . . . popularity . . . even love itself. Make Lifebuoy your toilet soap—then you know you're safe from offending even on the hottest, stickiest day.

Lifebuoy's cooling, refreshing, penetrating lather purifies pores—removes all odor. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy is a real safeguard against "B.O."

New complexion beauty

What is your complexion worry? Dull, cloudy skin? Coarse pores? Try a daily Lifebuoy facial. Massage the pure, bland lather well into the skin. Then rinse. Pores are gently freed of clogged impurities—dull skins toned to fresh, healthy radiance.

Try Lifebuoy Free

If you don't use Lifebuoy and want to try it, send a clipping of this offer with your name and address to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. L-58, Cambridge, Mass. Two full-sized cakes will be sent you without cost.

Plenty of Laughter Sure for Guests When with Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The program at the Chicago theater for our party there on Thursday, July 23, promises to be most entertaining and complete. We'll see a marvelous comedy featuring the most amusing pair of comedians in talkiedom, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran. Their new picture is called "Politics" and from the title you can imagine what it's all about.

Just try to picture to yourself how these women would comport themselves in the rôles of politicans. Getting votes and making campaign speeches and going through all the hectic maneuvering of the prospective office holder will give you many a hearty laugh. And to spice things up a bit, there'll be a little quarrel now and then.

In addition to the picture there will be one of those extravagant and sparkling stage shows for which Balaban & Katz theaters are famed. We will see Lulu McConnell, the celebrated stage and picture artist, in person. She's a comedian who has never in all her career failed to produce laughs. There will be a ballet and singing and music and special selections by the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Leopold Spitalny.

Of course, you'll want to attend this party with such a fine program to look forward to, so you'd better begin work on your letter immediately. You know there are only two days left in which to write, for every one of them must be in my office by Thursday morning.

Thousands now use KLEENEX

HEARD about Kleenex? Then surely you want to try these disposable handkerchief tissues at once. Because, the day you start using Kleenex, you may give up washing dirty handkerchiefs.

Kleenex costs so very little that you even destroy after a single use! No self-infection, then. No irritation from damp handkerchiefs, during colds or hay fever.

Perfect for children

Children, especially, need the protection of Kleenex. Being so careless with handkerchiefs, they should be taught to use a Kleenex tissue once, then destroy.

Children prefer Kleenex. It is so much softer than any handkerchief. Scientific tests show Kleenex more than half again as absorbent as the oldest linen handkerchief!

Other uses

Kleenex comes in many lovely tints as well as white, in Cellophane-wrapped packages to keep tissues absolutely fresh and clean. The convenient package permits easy removal of tissues with one hand. At all drug, dry goods and department stores.

HAY FEVER VICTIMS

If you have hay fever . . . if you know one who suffers . . . invest in a package of Kleenex at once. It is impossible to describe the greater comfort of these dry, gentle, absorbent tissues. Do not put up with damp, irritating handkerchiefs another day. (And remember, Kleenex costs less than laundering.)

. . . NOW Packard PROVIDES RIDE CONTROL AT A FINGER'S TOUCH

In the longer, lower, new Packards spring action and reaction are governed by hydraulic shock absorbers—and these shock absorbers are controlled from the dash. At a touch of the finger tips the Packard driver can now adjust the riding comfort of the car—"tune" the springs to compensate for the number of passengers carried and changes in speed; to counteract rough and uneven road conditions and temperature changes which affect shock absorbers. The new Packard cars are literally the easiest riding in all the world—due to the new and exclusive Packard Ride Control

But this exclusive feature is only one of many major improvements offered by the distinguished new Packards. Bodies are refined and modernized—newly insulated against noise and temperature. Wheelbases are longer—tread is wider. Power is greater, smoother, quieter. The transmission is Packard-built, four-speed synchro-mesh.

Point by point Packard engineers have given attention to every detail, every feature of Packard design—and the result is a car so advanced, so modern, that it gives an entirely new conception of what distinguished and luxurious transportation can really be.

We cordially invite you to inspect the new Packard cars—drive them, ride in them. You will enjoy an entirely new motoring experience—for the new Packards are the cars of tomorrow, not of yesterday. Prices at the factory range from $2485 to $4550. When may we demonstrate these claims for you?

CUBS LOSE TO CARDS, 12-5; TRAIL BY 7 GAMES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 13.—The story of Wolf Larsen, the Scandinavian prize-fighter, who died of alcoholism last week, makes very picturesque reading, especially that part of it where it is related that he once picked up some friend of his in a pleasure fight and threw him through a wooden door. After a few years' telling, that door will shrink into a door of two inch oak. Then it will develop great weight from hinges, which will have been carried away by the impact, and, given enough time, it will become a solid door.

I think I saw Wolf Larsen fight somewhere once, but I have no clear recollection, because if I did see him it did nothing to distinguish himself. If he was the one I am thinking of all he did that night was walk in swinging his arms against some one who had the prudence and just enough skill to stay away and slice his face with hooks and jabs.

Possibly we are now observing the manufacture of a legend. Wolf Larsen, a keen prizefighter, seems to be in process of becoming one of those mature story fairy tale giants that we love to read, and write, about. It is said that he was related to that Wolf Larsen of Jack London's Sea Wolf, who sat on the edge of his bunk with his feet on the floor and cracked the planks of the deck with pressure of his bare toes. But these prodigious giants are most prodigious after they have died.

Are Longshoremen Toughest?

The dock wallopers or longshoremen are popularly believed to be the toughest and most impetuous free-style fighters in the world, but if they really are that tough it is very strange indeed that ratty nondescripts of no great size are able to move in among them from time to time, organize them into mock labor unions and rackets and run them off the docks unless they pay their dues or tribute and do precisely as they are told. The accepted picture of the cargo handler, a great, dumb, scowling giant, necessarily covered with scars, tattooing, and hair, who juggles bales and locomotive wheels with unconscious ease, conflicts with the docile submission which Bad Bill Lovett, himself no superman, was able to command along the Brooklyn water front.

They have sent only two prominent members of their group to fight in the ring and those two, Jack Johnson and Harry Wills, were pugilists of strictly orthodox type who never yanked their opponents limb from limb in primitive fury, but boxed them in routine fashion and sometimes lost their fights. They might have been fieldhands or houseboys for all the ferocity they displayed.

The hodcarriers and bricklayers are said only a little less formidable in the public imagination, but there have been times during building booms in the big cities when the newspapers have told of mysterious men, known as business agents, driving up to buildings under construction and driving the men off their jobs with a word.

Sailors Calm and Peaceful.

The general run of deepwater sailors, I am convinced, drink less liquor than the average vice president-in-charge-of-entertainment of a big national corporation with headquarters in Chicago or New York, and get into fewer squabbles. At one of the principal gathering places of these sailors down near the East river there are notices on the walls warning one and all against the use of intoxicants, and the main room where the men seem to spend most of their time is patrolled by the silence of a public reading room.

Rather hopefully, I asked the superintendent if they ever had any sailors' brawls in there, but he said, "O no, that the rule against alcoholic indulgence was strictly enforced and that if any one should start disorder, the captain of the Old Slip station would send an officer right over to place him under arrest."

The editor for whom I was working at the time was much disappointed. He had been reading Kipling or Con-

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—You might as well start tolling off the ten count on the Cubs' pennant hopes. They did another backward loop today and crashed in a heap, the pacemaking Cardinals meanwhile bowling merrily along to an easy 12 to 5 triumph.

Now there's a gap of seven games between the leaders and the fourth place Chicagoans. And the sad feature of this difference between pursuer and pursued is that the title-holders gained a big portion of it by whipping Hornsby's men eight times in thirteen attempts.

Included in the wreck today was the manly form of Pat Malone. It may have been the excessive heat, and then again it may have been plain lack of skill. Pat was bad when he started, but pitched at a respectable pace for three innings. Then with the score tied at 2 all in the fourth, Malone's swan song was rendered to the tune of base hits. Lee Sweetland attempted to stop the serenade, but couldn't, and the inning ended only after a cluster of seven St. Louis runs had settled everything.

Cards Make 19 Hits.

An indication of the violence of the Cardinals' attack is their total of 19 hits. However, there were no homers among them, which was at least a moral victory for the Chicago throwers. Eight of these 19 were pounded out during the Malone régime. Sweetland, in his short reign, which terminated abruptly when the Cards hung up three more runs in the fifth, yielded five hits. After this Warneke pitched, and the youngster either was good or the Cards were too tired to bother about additional runs.

The Cubs' attack was rendered slightly impotent by the presence of Burleigh Grimes. He surrendered nine hits and apparently concentrated his efforts on the big three—Hornsby, Cuyler, and Wilson. Cuyler was the only member of the trio to produce a single. In three attempts Hack didn't even shove the ball out of the infield. Neither did Hornsby in two attempts, after which he wisely decided it was a good afternoon to rest his ailing leg. Grimm also was given a vacation after the sixth.

Having lost four, won two, and tied one during their week of traveling, the Cubs welcome a return to their own field, where they usually flourish. They open a long home stay tomorrow against the Giants, the first of the eastern visitors. Guy Bush will oppose the New Yorkers and Pitzsimmons is expected to be McGraw's choice.

Malone in Trouble Early.

STOPPING BOUTS.

WHEN Referee George Blake stopped the recent Schmeling-Stribling fight in the fifteenth round and held Schmeling's gloved hand aloft in token of victory, it placed the first knockout, or, more correctly speaking, technical knockout, in the record of the Georgian.

At the time it seemed the proper thing to do, for Stribling was practically helpless. Another good solid blow would have sent him down for a count longer than ten. When it was found the round, and thus likewise the fight, had only fourteen more seconds to go there was some criticism of the action by those who thought Stribling could have stayed that long, which he probably could.

Here was the argument:: To escape a technical knockout Stribling had to last, in reality, only five seconds and not fourteen seconds. That is because if he had been hit and sent down after five seconds—less than the time of one successful clinch—the round would have ended while the referee was counting. It would not be a knockout for record purposes, no matter what the actual effect.

The Wake was on the other end of this argument, approving the referee's decision. Stribling was so far gone from the knockdown blow preceding, so thoroughly beaten, that it did not seem to us it mattered what his record showed. Furthermore, he was so game it seemed a shame for him to receive unnecessary punishment.

Furthermore, argued we, how could Blake know there was only fourteen more seconds? If he had known, we were willing to concede he might have let the fight go on, for Stribling probably would have escaped. Our opponent thought Blake should have known from his experience in refereeing. He wouldn't concede experience would tell him those seconds with his mind on the eventful happenings in the ring. Our opponent said he could ask the timekeeper. That would take his attention from the boxers, was our reply, and away from his duty.

In view of this difference of opinion, it was gratifying to hear Stribling's view on his return home after having time to think it over. He said, "I could have stuck it out, but I appreciate Blake's position. He did not wish to take chances of having me seriously hurt." That was good sportsmanship. No excuses, no alibis have yet come from the Georgian—something rare after title bouts.

WOLGAST BEATS RUBY BRADLEY IN TITLE CONTEST

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Midget Wolgast, recognized in New York state as the world's flyweight champion, easily defeated Ruby [Dark Cloud] Bradley of Holyoke, Mass., in a 15 round title bout tonight. Wolgast weighed 111½; bradley 110½.

IOWA AND INDIANA SEND ENTRIES TO TRIBUNE'S SWIM

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Martha Jilly and Louis Holloway yesterday entered THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard swimming championships which will be held July 26 at the Lincoln park lagoon. In case you don't know these young people, Miss Jilly is from Clinton, Ia., and Holloway's home is in South Bend, Ind.

These entries were taken at random from yesterday's mail. They indicate the scope of interest in the sprint championships. Holloway will compete in class C [15 and 16 years of age] and Miss Jilly is registered in class D [17 and 18 years of age.]

Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Iowa have contributed scores of entries to the meet. However, the majority of the hundreds now registered have come from Chicago and Cook county towns. All are interested in winning a merit badge for swimming 100 yards. Many believe they will have an excellent chance to capture one of the ten championships and a gold medal. This is true particularly of the entries from a distance. They are willing to bear the heavier costs of transportation to compete in THE TRIBUNE swim.

Swift Playground Sends 9.

Class A, Doris Daemicke, 5532 Broadway.
Class B, Frances Launey, 6541 Magnolia, and Bernice Johnson, 1216 Early avenue.
Class C, Lillian Rosnikoff, 1355 Ardmore avenue.
Class A, Glenn Wienberg, 1360 Ardmore avenue.
Class B, Paul Seboroff, 1350 Rosedale avenue; Sam Sharff, 1320 Early avenue; Bill Seboroff, 1350 Rosedale avenue, and Earl Levy, 2030 Morse avenue.

Lane Technical High school will be represented by five boys from its swimming team. John Hedenberg, who last year was defeated by Mike Howlett, the champion, is entering again and he has organized the group.

"I believe I have improved a great deal," John writes, "and I at least hope to reach the finals. We have all been practicing at the Lincoln Belmont Y. M. C. A. during the spring for THE TRIBUNE races."

There are five divisions for boys and five for girls. Class E, for 19 years and over, has no maximum limit. So far most of the entries in this division have been in the twenties, but any one who wishes to compete is eligible.

Tank Suits Permitted.

It has been asked if tank suits will be permitted. Any swimming suit, whether designed for use in a tank or on the beach, will be permitted in the races at Lincoln park.

While the majority of the 600 entries now registered have been made by individuals, team entries are expected to swell the total. A trophy is offered for the team scoring the most points in the ten races.

RULE THE WAVES—PERMANENT OR OTHERWISE

Nearly every time these girls enter a swimming meet records are broken. They'll seek new marks in the National A. A. U. outdoor women's championships at New York tomorrow to Saturday, inclusive. Left to right are Eleanor Holm, back stroke; Georgia Coleman, fancy diving, and Helene Madison, 17 year old free style marvel.

NewTypeHull, RudderBenefit Power Yachts

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

New wrinkles in yachting within the last few years have enabled the skippers of small sailing boats to exact greater speeds from their vessels, but now comes a trick or two which will benefit the owners of power craft in the matter of economy as well as speed, according to Paul H. Blair, Chicago naval architect.

Mr. Blair is the yachting enthusiast who applied the principles of aerodynamics to several Chicago boats recently and thereby contributed greatly to their racing value. Now he plans to use two new principles—the Maierform hull and the balanced reaction rudder—in designing power yachts.

The Maierform hull was originated by the late F. F. Maier, an Austrian naval architect, and was intended essentially for large vessels, but Mr. Blair's purpose is to use it on fair sized power boats. The Maierform is extremely popular among European ship builders, and is used to a great extent for English, French, and Italian freighters, as well as the fast passenger ships which ply the Mediterranean.

Adds Beauty, Saves Fuel.

The general features of the Maierform hull are based on sections of a modified triangular shape, according to Mr. Blair, but the salient point in the operation, and the one which adds beauty to its practicality, lies in the bow. Here the forefoot of the hull is cut away at an angle, giving the boat a rakish, yacht like appearance. The frames, sloping at about 45 degrees to the centerline, are parallel throughout the length of the vessel.

The ship's form thus has the smallest wetted surface, resulting in the shortest streamline flow. Boats of the Maierform type have a material decrease in resistance over the normal hull form with its almost perpendicular bow and frames. This minimum resistance has contributed to a fuel saving of from 8 to 18 per cent among European ship owners, and has made steering a much easier proposition. Photographs of Maier-

Mate Comes to Town Ready for Duel with Twenty Grand

BY FRENCH LANE.

Mate, the Preakness and American Derby winner, has trained perfectly for the Arlington Classic and will be a better horse when he goes to the post on Saturday afternoon than at any time this year, according to Trainer Jim Healy, who brought Mate in from New York yesterday.

"Mate does not like his races too often," Healy said. "I think that was the reason he didn't show to better advantage in the Kentucky Derby. We didn't work him enough for the American Derby and he was short when he beat Pittsburgher a nose for that $50,000 prize.

"But he has gone along at Belmont Park, doing his training work for the Classic as nicely as any horse ever trained for a race. Everybody tells me the best we can expect in the Classic is a second to Twenty Grand. We shall see. If we get some mud for the Classic, better not anybody try to bet me Twenty Grand will beat Mate."

While Mate was arriving for the big 3 year old championship struggle, Twenty Grand, which the easterners here in large numbers say is the "horse of the century" was engaging in a mile and a quarter drill at Arlington.

It wasn't a fast work out and at the end of it Twenty Grand was trailing his stable mate St. Brideaux by a nose. Marshall "Lilly, who usually rides Twenty Grand when he works out, was in the saddle on St. Brideaux in this rehearsal and S. Hebert was riding Twenty Grand.

The Kentucky Derby and Belmont stakes winner was carrying about 135 pounds and never at any time did Hebert give him his head. He had Twenty Grand under a tight pull all the way and it looked as if he could have run away and hidden from St. Brideaux if he had been given any encouragement.

The track was slow and holding from the overnight rain and the time naturally was slow. With St. Brideaux hustling all the way and the "big" horse moving as rythmically as the most exacting trainer could have asked, they stepped the half in 53 seconds, the three-quarters in 1:18, the mile in 1:43 2-5, mile and an eighth in 1:57 and the mile and a quarter in 2:11.

Twenty Grand won the Kentucky Derby in time that was nine seconds faster. They were out on the track for their drill shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

One more starter in the Classic arrived from the east yesterday. It was Sir Ashley, a son of Sir Gallahad III-Medora, from William Woodward's Belair stud. Mr. Woodward won the Classic last year with his mighty Gallant Fox. Sir Ashley has been showing steady improvement all season around New York and Mr. Woodward, a member of the Jockey club, came to the conclusion that he deserved a chance to show his real ability in the Classic.

A. C. Bostwick, the finished steeple chase rider who owns Mate, doesn't become a bit discouraged when he slips up into a group of his friends in the Post and Paddock club and hears them all talking about how far Twenty Grand is going to win the Classic on Saturday.

"Mate has trimmed Twenty Grand twice, the first time in the Walden stakes in Maryland last fall and the second time in the Preakness at Pimlico this Spring," Bostwick tells them. "Mate's a good horse right now and if Twenty Grand beats us he will have to be a champion."

AS A WRESTLER GODFREY PROVES A K. O. FIGHTER

TORONTO, Ont., July 13.—(AP)—George Godfrey, giant Leiperville, Pa., Negro, worked at both his trades—wrestling and boxing—here tonight and wound up all even.

As a wrestler, Big George was thrown by Stanley Stasiak of Poland in 11 minutes 43 seconds, but not long afterward Godfrey returned to his first love, boxing, and stopped George Gemas, Philadelphia heavyweight, in 1:22 of the second round.

Fight Decisions

At Boston, Mass.—George Nichols, Buffalo, N. Y., beat Leo Lavigne, Waterbury, Conn. [10].

Senators and Macks Divide Double Bill

Philadelphia, Pa., July 13.—[Special.]—Five home runs gave the Athletics a 12 to 7 decision in the first game of today's double headers, but the Senators came back in the second to win, 6 to 4. Philadelphia's lead in the pennant race remains at six games.

Cochrane, Bishop, Foxx, Simmons, and Williams were the home run hitters in the rout of Fred Marberry and Bump Hadley. Williams' homer came in the eighth inning as he was pinch hitting for Grove with the bases full.

The Senators also resorted to home runs to win the second game, two circuit drives accounting for four of their six runs.

Rigan McKinney, the millionaire amateur steeplechase rider from Cleveland, is the gamest sort of a young fellow, and there seems to be no way of squelching his desire to ride in the cross country races.

He suffered a broken collarbone yesterday when he tumbled off his horse, Nat Clyman, at the eleventh jump in the Mission Valley steeplechase at Arlington Park, which was at two miles. Last Friday he had tumbled off his steeplechaser Inception at the same hedge and suffered a slight concussion.

As the ambulance hustled him away to a nearby hospital, where his shattered collarbone was to be set, young Mr. McKinney asked the doctor who was attending him, "Do you think I'll be in shape to ride in the North Shore steeplechase stake on Wednesday?"

McKinney won't be ready to ride in that timber topping event nor will he be able to ride for some time. But the gameness of the young fellow who, with his millions, could be buying himself any sort of amusement, thrilled the crowd.

Tod Sloan Wins at 5-1.

When McKinney went sprawling off his horse it all but ruined the favorite players. For Mr. McKinney's entry of Nat Clyman and Fair Bob had been backed with confidence. But as Nat Clyman went down the hopes of the favorite players dwindled, for he was the horse they had wagered so much money on.

Only three in the steeplechase field of seven finished, for Queen's Pal, Hillock and Sporty McGee lost their riders at some stage of the journey. J. MacIvre, riding Queen's Pal, which fell when she was leading at next to the last jump, suffered a sprained back. The other riders escaped injury.

The numerous spills resulted in the first Chicago victory of the Arlington season in a steeplechase. Tod Sloan, owned by Ben L. Behr, had easy sailing in the late stages and beat the Fox Chapel stud's Fichet by 12 lengths. Fair Bob, a stablemate of Nat Clyman, stayed on his feet and finished third. In the mutuels Tod Sloan paid $13.94 to win and Fichet was at $13.74 to place. The McKinney entry and Queen's Pal had absorbed nearly all the support.

7 to 10 Favorite Is Last.

There were other upsets at Arlington yesterday which stunned one of the biggest week day crowds of the season. William T. ran last in the Manitoba purse, which was the best race on the program. His performance was disgraceful, considering the fact that he had been made the 9 to 10 favorite.

Martin, a recent arrival from New York, made the pace all the way and easily beat Dark Sea by a length. Who Win wound up third after William T. quit almost to a walk in the late stages. Martin was the longshot in the race and paid $18.80 for a two dollar ticket. The son of Sir Martin was ridden by J. Renick, who hustled him along far out in front all the way.

The extensive Valley Lake stable of the Nash Brothers of Chicago finally won a race when Burning Blaze, a son of Big Blaze-Mexican Tea, captured the Galena purse which engaged some smart 2 year olds. He opened up a wide lead and won as Jockey Willie Fronk pleased, with Portden second and the heavily backed favorite, High Devine, another New Yorker, running third. Burning Blaze had some Chicago backing, but he paid better than 4 to 1 in the betting.

Outbound Whips Weideleen.

Outbound, from the stable of Mrs. John Hertz, was the only outstanding favorite to win all afternoon. He ran a smashing race and Weideleen and Footmark, which challenged in the stretch and finished second and third, could not even get near him. He was at about 3 to 2 in the betting, but won much easier than the price indicated.

Stormy Dawn Takes Empire Race Feature

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—James Butler, president of the Empire City Racing association, again won the principal offering at his Empire City course, when he sent out his homebred Stormy Dawn to win the Gramatan handicap. On Saturday Mr. Butler's Questionnaire was winner of the feature race.

Stormy Dawn, the favorite, ran a nice race, but able tactics by Raymond Workman, who saved much ground at the stretch turn, had a deal to do with the triumph. At the end of the mile and 70 yards the son of Vulcain was three-quarters of a length before the Audley farm's Bobashela, which beat Sun Mission half a length for the place. Stormy Dawn crossed the line in 1:45 going away from Bobashela.

KLEIN IS ONLY BIG SIX HITTER TO SEE ACTION

Chuck Klein was the only one of baseball's big six to get into action yesterday, but the Phillies hard hitting outfielder failed to improve his position. He made only one hit in four times at bat. The remaining five kept a firm grip on their honors, although the sluggers of the Athletics, Senators and Cardinals pounded the ball. The standing:

ARGENTINES WHIP ONWENTSIA FOUR IN PRACTICE, 15-0

Health of Their Ponies Is Much Improved.

BY TOM PETTEY.

The Argentine team went through a hot workout at Onwentsia Country club yesterday afternoon, defeating the best of the home polo players, 15 to 1, in seven chukkers. Meanwhile the Old Aiken players passed the day resting in preparation for the second game of the International series to be played at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon at Onwentsia.

After the workout the South Americans expressed confidence in being able to even up matters, Old Aiken having won the first of the series last Saturday, 14 to 11.

Joseph Rathborne and James P. Mills, two of the Old Aiken stars, saw the last two periods of the practice game yesterday. Rathborne was asked about the next big game.

"Our horses are in great shape and rearing to go," he said. "We will do our best to make it two straights and end the series."

Argentine Ponies Improve.

The great gloom that descended over the South American stables after Saturday's game, in which the Argentine horses came out considerably the worse for wear, began to lift yesterday afternoon. La Mascota, the big gray from Manuel Andrada's string, seemed in fair shape after a couple of chukkers. La Fiorelle, the $25,000 beauty, was played two periods and seemed fast enough to please any one. Cairo and Fuentes, both from Andrada's string, have recovered from their coughs and were tearing across the turf in great style.

"We will be in there Wednesday," he said. "And you can place a little bet we will tie up the series. I have been bothered about the horses, but they are coming around fairly well.

Praises Chicago Players.

"The Chicago polo players are 100 per cent sportsmen and have been most generous with their mounts. The star of Saturday's game was Rio Cuarto, owned by Mr. Wayne C. Taylor. Jose Reynal rode Rio Cuarto and the horse was magnificent. The big chestnut gelding was bred in Argentina at Rio Cuarto from which he got his name and our team played him in California in 1930. I do not think we will have to borrow many mounts for Wednesday's game.

"The trouble in the Argentine stables has been mostly bronchitis and it takes a couple of weeks to bring the horses around to their best condition. We have had a little trouble but we lost Saturday's game because we were out-played and not because the horses were sick. We will have the same horses Wednesday and we are going to win."

The Santa Paula players looked good yesterday. Alfredo Harrington, the number one, was hitting the ball through the goal with uncanny accuracy, registering eight scores in the seven chukkers.

Harrington Changes Style.

Harrington, in the practice game, played the number one position differently from the way he played last Saturday. In that game he was trying to play defensively, virtually impossible for a forward. Yesterday he was riding the ball straight down the field, never slowing up for a moment and hitting on the run regardless of whether he was surrounded or alone.

The two Reynal brothers, Jose and Juan, scored a couple of goals apiece and were hitting with improved accuracy. Senor Andrada did not get warmed up until the last two periods. He hit the ball great distances then. The teamwork of the South Americans was improved by the practice, although some of the Chicago polo experts felt the Argentines were taking a risk in playing so hard just before another big match.

Yesterday's game was played on the practice field, the main field being kept in condition for the international match. The same seating arrangements as last Saturday will be in effect tomorrow.

White Sox Open Today with Senators

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 13.—The White Sox were train riding today, putting in their time wondering how tired the Washington Senators got during the afternoon in playing a double header with the world champion Athletics in Philadelphia. They open their second eastern invasion against the Senators tomorrow and naturally would like to see the second placers softened up a bit.

Inasmuch as Vic Frasier can't pitch every day, Manager Donie Bush was facing the eastern swing with a few qualms. He had hopes that Thomas will show something better than he has exhibited the last two times out, and also is praying that Pat Caraway will find himself again and do some of the pitching he turned in during the early weeks of the season.

Tomorrow Bush will start with either Faber or McKain. Faber has done some good relief work but hasn't been so hot as a starter. McKain has had his moment, but occasionally gives evidence of not being in the best physical condition.

Lyons' Mother Ill.

Ted Lyons did not make the trip. Ted is at the bedside of his mother in Vinton, La., but would not have come along even if his mother's illness had not caused him to go south. Ted wired this morning that if his mother's condition improved he would like to join the club en route. Lyons has been under care for a dead arm, and may be ordered back to Chicago for further treatments in the event he decides to leave Vinton.

Billy Sullivan Jr., class of 1931 Notre Dame, will be on third when the game in Washington starts tomorrow afternoon. His showing in the second game of Sunday's double header won him the chance. The young man saved the game in the eighth with his spectacular fielding and made a double to drive in the first run and put the Sox on the way to the victory that lifted them out of the American league cellar. In three games of the series in which he appeared as a pinch batter, young Sullivan delivered each time, once with a double and twice with singles.

Reverse Early Forecast.

Lu Blue is another player who has been lifting Bush's downcast spirits. Lu never has played better defensive baseball and he has been clicking the ball for extra base hits recently. Fonseca has stepped into the outfield business better than had been expected and Simons is getting better. Johnny Kerr has been playing hard and well at second and his hitting continues to surprise those who have watched him through the years.

So today we find the White Sox, at the start counted upon to be strong in pitching and weak in almost every other department, in fairly good shape in every other department except pitching.

Levine and Derex Meet in Cepak Semi-Windup

Sammy Levine and Herbie Derex have been added to Promoter Cepak's boxing show at the Denemark stadium, 31st street and Kostner avenue, Friday night. They will be the semi-finalists to the eight round bout which will bring together Ray Tramblo of Rockford, Ill., and Johnny Burns of Oakland, Cal. Another six rounder and three fours will round out the program.

Cards Chase Malone; Beat Cubs, 12 to 5

three bases by Flowers, but Pat threw out Jim Wilson, and the next two batters filed to short center. Malone didn't enjoy the same luck in the second inning, one run going across, when Hafey singled and scored on High's double to right.

A bad bit of bunting ruined an opening for the Cubs in the third. Grimm led off with a single to right and Hemsley walked. Malone then produced the bunt, which was intended as a sacrifice, but High grabbed it to start a double play by way of second base. This left Grimm on third and Blair wasn't able to bring him in.

The Cards treated Malone to another slight jolt in the third, stretching their lead to 2 to 0. Jim Wilson singled with one out and dashed to third on Watkins' single to right. Collins slapped a long fly to Taylor and J. Wilson scored after the catch. Malone cut the inning short by trapping Watkins off first base.

English Starts Rally.

English doubled off the right field wall to open the fourth and start the Cubs on their way to two runs. Cuyler bounced a single over Grimes and English moved to third. Wilson popped out. A pass to Hornsby loaded the bases. Dan Taylor singled to left, English and Cuyler crossing the plate. Grimm grounded into a double play.

Hafey tripled to the wall in center in the Cards' fourth and that's what brought on the knockout parade of runs, not to mention the knockout of Malone. Frisch walked and took second on a wild pitch. Martin grounded to English, who was going to make a throw to the plate, but fumbled. Hafey scored on the error. High and Grimes singled to send Frisch and Martin home, and Malone went out of the game. Flowers welcomed Sweetland with a double to center, High and Grimes scoring. Mancuso batted for Jim Wilson and Hornsby tossed him out, but Watkins singled and Flowers scored. Collins then tripled and Watkins carried in the last of the seven runs.

Cubs' Run Irks Cards.

The Cubs scored once in the fifth on Blair's double and a single by English. This apparently irritated the Cards, who came back with three runs in their half. Martin walked and High singled. Grimes advanced them on a sacrifice bunt. Flowers scored them with a double, his third extra base hit. Sweetland then went away to join Malone, and Warneke filled the vacancy. The rescuer ended the inning after letting Flowers score on a balk, which consisted of Warneke dropping the ball while taking his windup.

Cubs Add a Couple.

Nobody displayed any excitement over the fact that the Chicagoans did a little scoring toward the finish. In the seventh, after both Jurges and Hemsley had fanned, Warneke doubled over third. He ran home on Blair's two bagger to right. Then in the eighth Grimes displayed signs of being a bit weary. He walked Cuyler and L. Wilson. Ball lined to Flowers and Cuyler was doubled off second. Frisch shot the ball to first because there was a chance for a triple play, but the throw went wild and Hack ran to second. He scored when Collins permitted Dan Taylor's roller to slip through his hands.

DROUGHT AFFECTS FISH, BUT THERE ARE PLENTY LEFT

BY BOB BECKER.

Although numerous reports have been coming from the lake country in the north woods about game fish dying from the heat, lack of oxygen in the water, and other causes, fishermen who have planned trips to the north country need not change their plans because there still are millions of game fish swimming around up there with an abundance of health.

It is true that the extended heat spell with its attendant lack of stiff winds to stir up the surface of lakes and add oxygen to the water has killed some fish on certain lakes.

Vegetable Matter Remains.

The condition has been aggravated by decaying masses of vegetable matter which in ordinary weather would have been swept from the surface of the water. However, granting that the drought of last year and the recent hot spell have taken a far too heavy toll of game fish, the fact remains that there are millions of pike, pickerel, crappies, muskies, and bass still cruising around looking for trouble and lures in the thousands of northern lakes and a fisherman need not worry about a lack of these fish being on hand to provide a good string at the end of a day's fishing.

Wind and Rain Help.

Another point to be considered in this: heavy rains and winds since the recent hot spell have relieved the situation affecting the fishing. When we were on the Flambeau river on The Tribune's annual Boy Scout canoe cruise we saw about an inch of rain fall in a few hours and in places the wind blew so hard it caused a couple of barns to collapse like cardboard. A wind like that can stir a lot of oxygen in any body of water.

There isn't any doubt that river fish suffer less from lack of oxygen than the finny tribes that live in lakes. On the other hand, in times of severe drought and low water the game fish in rivers perish in greater numbers than those in lakes, so it is even up.

Rapids Provide Aeration.

Coming down the Flambeau we couldn't help but think of the amount of aeration its waters received because of the way the stream rolls its waters high, wide, and handsome as it pounds through many rapids.

PHILLIES DEFEAT PIRATES, 1-0, IN PITCHING DUEL

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 13.—[Special.]—The Phillies defeated the Pirates today, 1 to 0, in a game marked by the five hit pitching of both Jim Elliott and Ray Kremer. Don Hurst doubled in the ninth with Chuck Klein on base to score the only run.

Paul and Lloyd Waner, who have starred at bat for the Pirates for several seasons, were benched before today's game because the Phils used a lefthanded pitcher. Jensen took Lloyd's place in center field and Bennett substituted for Paul in right.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Effie M. Blume of St. Louis today filed suit for $50,000 for alleged injuries received in an automobile accident near Bloomington, Ill., on May 26 against Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs.

Young and Mrs. Hornsby, also occupants of the car, are co-defendants.

PORTLAND STARS PREDOMINATE IN WESTERN GOLF

Eddie Hogan's 69 Tops Amateur Field.

Portland, Ore., July 13.—(AP)—They called it the western amateur golf tournament, but today after the first 18 holes of the 36 hole qualifying round it looked more like the Portland city or Oregon state championships.

Champ Already on List.

The thirty-second position has already been awarded to Johnny Lehman, Chicago, defending champion, who automatically qualified by refraining from competing in the qualifying test.

Arloo Kyle, veteran fellow townsman of Hogan, sprang the biggest surprise of the day when he clipped four strokes off perfect figures on the outward nine to score a 31. This, with his 39 on the last nine, gave him a total of 70 to place second.

Three Tie with 71's.

Jack Gaines, Glendale; Chuck Hunter, Tacoma, and Jimmy Bushong, Portland, tied with 71 each for third place honors. Johnny Robbins, Portland, followed with a par 72; Tab Boyd, Portland newspaper copy boy, posted a 73 to tie with Rudie Wilhelm of the same city, and Don Moe, and Malcolm McNaughton, Portland, and H. Chandler Egan, Medford, Ore., scored 74 each.

Five contestants tied with 75 cards. They were H. W. Westbrook, Pasadena; Dr. O. F. Willing, Vincent Dolp and Lloyd Mead, all of Portland, and Johnny Shields, Seattle. Seventy-six was the favorite score of the day with fifteen players—Joe Brown, Frank Dolp, Cliff Baker, Clayton Sharp, J. M. Rowell and Arnold Inman, all of Portland; Harold Thompson, Glendale; Fay Coleman, Charles Seaver, and Warren Johnson, all of Los Angeles; A. G. Sato, San Francisco Japanese; Dick Near, Eugene, Ore., and Stuart Pattuls, Dr. Joseph Aspray and Howard Tustin, all of Spokane.

DEFENDING CHAMPION

NEW TYPE HULL, RUDDER BENEFIT POWER YACHTS

New Rudder Economical.

The balanced reaction rudder, Mr. Blair points out, is another shipbuilding wrinkle which makes for economy. Invented by John Tutin of London, England, it is one of the most important developments in ship propulsion since the war, and is being used considerably by European owners of single screw vessels.

This type of rudder will effect a saving of 10 per cent in fuel consumption for a given speed. Alternatively, it will increase the speed of a boat not less than 4 per cent on the same amount of fuel. For instance, a steamer of 8,000 tons, fitted with an ordinary rudder, and using 30 tons of coal per day at 10 knots, would consume about 27 tons if fitted with a balanced reaction rudder. If the use of 30 tons of fuel were maintained the boat's speed would be increased to 10.4 knots.

The balanced reaction rudder solves the problem of the dissipation of power abaft the screw, and in addition to recovering a portion of that energy supplies an auxiliary thrust in propelling the boat. Instead of the usual one piece this type of rudder is divided into two separate plates facing in opposite directions. The forward thrust exerted by the rudder derives from the rotational energy in the propeller slip stream.

How It Operates.

The movement of the blades of the propeller deflects the flow against the upper plate of the rudder, and since fluid pressure is always at right angles to the surface on which it acts, the resultant pressure is inclined in the direction of the ship's motion. In the lower half of the propeller disc the direction of motion of the blades is in the opposite direction to that of the upper, so that the flow strikes the lower plate of the rudder and combines with the pressure on the upper plate to supply that extra thrust along the center line of the boat.

Wolf Larsen—There Was a Fighting Man!

rad or McFee, no doubt, and he could not visualize a hundred or more sailors, the scrapings of hell as Andy Furuseth, the president of the seamen's union had recently described them before congress, sitting around a room writing letters or just sitting.

How Legends Are Made.

The truth of the matter probably never will be known, and there is no demand for the truth, either, because the fiction is so agreeable, but if some of the survivors of the Yukon rush were to turn perfectly candid now, the story would be less impressive. People who have been together in such circumstances are inclined to stick together and corroborate one another's minute exaggerations on a reciprocal basis which in time grow into the most entertaining distortions.

Even those of us who covered the prizefight at Shelby, Mont., are pulling a pretty long bow eight years after and little incidents, incomplete and pointless at the time, are rounding out into fine, mature fiction. If my friend, Mr. Fullerton, for instance, breaks through the service of the opposition at a little gathering to relate the one about the fellow who took the horse upstairs to bed, I am not going to say, "Wait a minute; that man only said he was going to take the horse upstairs to bed, and that part about the man thinking he had delirium tremens when he woke up with the horse is just made up.

In turn I have the happiest confidence that when I say I sank into the mud up to my waist on leaving the train at Shelby, Mr. Fullerton is not going to say, "Gentlemen, the mud came precisely to his ankles and no deeper."

But this is not any nice way for me to be going. I am in favor of the Wolf Larsen legend, and I hope it becomes one of our dull day perennials. What a man Wolf Larsen was. I remember the time he threw a fellow through a two foot steel door of a bank vault——

Pantaleo, Griffith Shift Plans; Take On Big Sparboys

Tuffy Griffith and Paul Pantaleo, who meet in Mique Malloy's ten round windup at White City Monday night, have both changed their training tactics. Heretofore they sparred with little fellows to increase their speed. From now on they will tackle big fellows.

MIQUE MALLOY.

Pantaleo will box with George Neron, big Greek heavyweight, in his work today at Howard's gym. Griffith for a starter will box Ed Wills, colored heavy.

The semi-windup will bring together Edgar Norman, Norwegian light heavyweight, and Gary Leach, hard hitting Hoosier of Gary. They are scheduled for six rounds. Mique expects to sign Jerry Crano and Bud Saltis for a middleweight six rounder. Dick Sisk, Brighton park welterweight, meets Tony Saunders in another six round battle. Pat McLaughlin, new heavyweight k. o. artist, will face Joe Corbett.

Berlin Greets Schmeling as National Idol

BERLIN, Germany, July 13.—(AP)—Nothing was left undone in the way of speeches and ceremony today to assure Max Schmeling that he was really welcome home as Germany's hero. The heavyweight champion landed at Templehof airdrome from Bremen today and a crowd of 8,000 turned out to greet the conqueror of Willie Stribling in Cleveland ten days ago.

Handkerchiefs waved wildly as the plane was sighted and the crowd greeted Schmeling with a volley of "hochs" as he jumped out of the plane and ran into the arms of his mother, who was waiting to greet him. Leading sports officials made speeches, paying tributes to the prize fighter as "a credit to the fatherland," "master of all categories," "shining example of German sportsmanship."

By the time Schmeling got around to speaking through the microphone, more floral tributes had been handed him than he could hold, among them a laurel wreath.

"I'm glad to be back home," he said, "and I'm glad I had a chance to prove myself a genuine champion. I'm home to visit mother and I'm going to take a good rest."

BOOKIES ON RUN AS NEW ORLEANS STARTS CLEANUP

New Orleans, La., July 13.—(AP)—Operators of race horse betting establishments were on the run in New Orleans tonight as police raiding squads went to work in all parts of the city after being spurred to action by ministers, the grand jury and the state's attorney.

For years handbooks have operated openly in New Orleans and there were few blocks in the downtown section where a bet could not be placed. But today State's Attorney Eugene Stanley issued a call for law enforcement and dispatched a letter to Chief of Police H. B. Myers, containing a list of 100 places, where he said the state law against handbook operation was being violated.

HAGEN, ALLISS MEET TODAY FOR CANADIAN TITLE

TORONTO, Ont., July 13.—[Special.]—Walter Hagen, Detroit, and Percy Alliss, British pro at Wansee in Berlin, Germany, tomorrow will engage in a 36 hole battle for the Canadian open golf championship, a playoff necessitated when they tied at 282 for the 72 holes of the championship proper.

Exhibition dates postponed the playoff until tomorrow, Alliss having been booked for Sunday and Monday before the meet started.

Golf Ball Ends Chicken Stealing 'Possum's Career

The opossum, carrying off one of Mathew's chickens, started across a fairway of the Sunrise Park golf course. A ball, driven by Julius Creadman of Chicago, hit the animal in the neck and knocked it unconscious. It was captured and killed.

The farmer said it had taken at least twenty of his chickens within the last month.

INDIANS' BID ON STADIUM RENT IS REFUSED BY CITY

Cleveland, O., July 13.—(AP)—Failure of the city council to act on legislation to grant the Cleveland Baseball club a lease on the new Cleveland stadium for its home games made it virtually certain tonight that the Indians will not play in the huge arena this season.

City Manager Daniel E. Morgan informed the club that the consensus of council members was that the rental bid was "lower than the city could accept."

It had been planned to play the first American league game in the stadium on July 26 between the Indians and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Jan Kozeluh, brother of the Czecho-Slovakian professional, gained the third round with a 9-7, 13-11 victory over Jake Hess of Houston, Tex.

The six seeded stars on the American list met with little opposition, and they, headed by Champion Johnny Doeg, moved into the third round.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

"DON'T REDUCE WAGES," IS PLEA OF PEN CO. HEAD

W. A. Sheaffer Makes Study of Conditions.

BY O. A. MATHER.

If the wages of American workingmen are maintained and there is no lowering in the present standard of living, the United States will enter upon its greatest period of prosperity. Furthermore, under these conditions this country can assure its own welfare without much dependance on international trade. These are the beliefs expressed by W. A. Sheaffer, head of the big pen manufacturing company which bears his name, following a visit to Europe and Canada to study economic conditions.

W. A. SHEAFFER.

"Don't reduce wages if you can possibly help it," is Mr. Sheaffer's plea to American employers. "If you are compelled to do so temporarily, restore them quickly. Retaining our present scale for both the laborer and the producer is the single solution for unemployment and it is the only thing that will put the largest number of purchasers in the market to buy and consume additional goods. In turn, that policy will produce employment for a greater number. But these remarks do not apply to the racketeering situation that has been existent in a few of the big cities as to war-time wages.

Cites Recent Survey.

"This country has forty million workers. If at the present time the unemployed have mounted to as high as five million and if you cut wages, you are cutting wages of 85 to 90 per cent of the people who are now employed and you are not doing anything but putting employment further away from the unemployed. A recent survey in all types of industries showed only 1 per cent had cut wages.

"We must not descend to the low wage of Europe, because if we do we will descend to that low scale of living and half of the factories of the United States will either operate unprofitably or will be forced to close. We cannot have the laboring man or the working class of this country operating on a basis that limits them to bare necessities, for if you do that you eliminate the manufacture of 70 per cent of the things produced in the United States.

Sees Prosperity Regained.

"If we hold our wage scale up and allow our present level of living and consuming to stay at the standard to which we have become accustomed, then even without any foreign trade we can have prosperity. With the additional sale of merchandise to the extent that foreign countries can afford to purchase we have no fear for a healthy future. In 1929 foreign commerce was 8 per cent of our total trade, while 92 per cent was domestic trade. If we put our domestic volume of business up to what it was in 1929 and we had no foreign business whatever, practically every one would be employed at a good wage.

"In the United States we have the largest free trade market in the world and do the largest buying of conveniences. We have no barrier to the free exchange of products to the largest consuming public of luxuries in the world. We have more of every civilized comfort than any other group of people of equal number.

Would Employ More People.

"We must keep that market on its present high level and the wage scale does it, regardless of what the rest of the world does.

"If employers of this country support present wage scales, more people will be employed and this will start the wheels of business at a faster clip than at the present time. Even today 85 to 90 per cent of the money earned in wages in the biggest period of 1929 is being earned but the five million out of employment make the employed reluctant to expand purchases. They will expand them, however, as their savings pile up and they become confident of future employment and uncut wages."

Sees Normal Business as Cure for Many Railway Ills

BY SCRUTATOR.

Popular belief and the opinions of numerous experts to the contrary, it has never been clearly demonstrated that oil and the automobile have put the skids under the railroad industry.

Furthermore, there is as yet, at least, no definite proof that the railroads of the country have seen their best days. Their earnings, it is true, have been very poor since 1929, but so have the earnings of practically all other lines of business. Railroads cannot keep up their tonnage and revenues when less goods are being shipped.

The passenger business has been going down hill. There is no doubt of that, and probably a lot of it has gone for good. In 1910 there were 458,500 passenger automobiles in the United States. In 1930 there were 22,042,840. And from 1920 to 1930 the number of railway passenger miles dropped from more than 47 billion to around 31 billion.

Only Minor Function.

But passenger transportation is a minor railroad function. Its principal business is the carrying of freight. In 1929, for instance, the freight revenues for all railroads amounted to more than 5½ times the revenues from their passenger business.

With this in mind it is interesting to note that up until the depression year, 1930, the railroads had been gaining rather than losing in freight. Total ton miles of nearly 449 billion in 1929 set a new high record and compared with the 444½ billion for 1926, the previous record year.

Revenues from freight in 1929 set a new record of $4,862,887,619. In the best previous year, 1926, freight revenues had aggregated $4,856,698,216. These figures are taken from the 1930 report of the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics.

Since 1929 railroad earnings have dropped sharply. In the first five months of this year net railway operating income of class 1 railroads was at the rate of only 2.10 per cent on their property, compared with 5.51 per cent in the corresponding period of 1930.

Need More Revenue.

The railroads are confronted with a serious situation. They need more revenue to maintain their credit standing. But their plight is not as discouraging as it might seem. Denied the opportunity to acquire a little fat in prosperous years, they exhaust their reserves more quickly than other industries when they hit a lean period.

Serious though the railroads' financial troubles are a return of general business to normal conditions would solve many of them. The long term outlook is not so black as it is painted.

A more general recognition of the fact that the railroads are in the transportation business would help. There is no reason why they should be restricted to operation on rails. Where motor trucks and busses can be operated more economically than locomotives and cars the railroads should be permitted to operate them.

Furthermore, savings may be made by eliminating some of the expensive passenger competition.

Carries Passenger Traffic.

Wilbur La Roe Jr., formerly a chief examiner for the interstate commerce commission and now a representative of a group of southern shippers objecting to higher freight rates, says this in a petition to the commission:

"The truth is that the freight traffic is carrying the passenger traffic. The freight operating ratio for most railroads is between 65 and 85. For such a typical road as the Louisville and Nashville the passenger operating ratio for 1930 was 12,341, and the freight operating ratio was 74.31.

"In other words, every dollar of passenger revenue represented an operating loss of 23.41 cents, and every dollar of freight revenue represented an average profit of 25.19 cents."

ALBERTA WHEAT POOL INITIAL PAYMENT TO BE 30C A BUSHEL

Calgary, Alta., July 13.—(AP)—The Alberta wheat pool will make an initial payment of 30 cents a bushel, basis No. 1, northern at Vancouver, on deliveries from the 1931 crop, R. D. Purdy, general manager, announced today.

July 15 has been set as cut-off date for the 1930-'31 pool, and subsequent deliveries will be taken on the 30 per cent initial payment basis, the price being subject to revision later depending on the general market situation.

On first deliveries of last year's crop the initial payment was 60 cents a bushel. This later was reduced to 55 and later still to 50 cents a bushel.

NAME RECEIVER FOR GREAT LAKES PAPER COMPANY

TORONTO, Ont., July 13.—(AP)—The Great Lakes Paper company, Limited, was ordered placed in receivership today by Justice Sedgewick in the Supreme court of Ontario. The National Trust company, trustee and holder of $10,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, was appointed receiver.

Failure to meet interest payments of $300,000, due March 1, on these bonds caused the action. The company is a subsidiary of E. W. Backus of Minneapolis, Minn.

F. R. McKelcan of the National Trust company, which also was named manager, said the receivership was requested in the hope that it would improve the paper concern's "business outlook for the future."

He explained that customers might otherwise have hesitated to place orders, fearing "action might be taken on behalf of bondholders or creditors which would render their contracts ineffective."

Other members of the committee include R. P. Athieson of Chicago, Ill., and Henry D. Thrall of Minneapolis, representing United States banking interests connected with the original offering bonds.

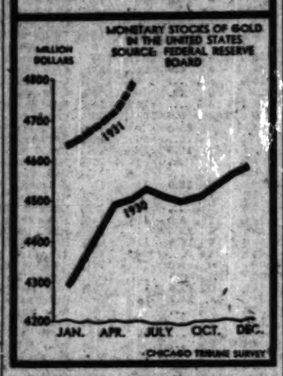
OUR STOCK OF GOLD CONTINUES TO MOUNT STEADILY



SELLING OF GERMAN OBLIGATIONS WEAKENS NEW YORK BOND MART

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Heavy liquidation of German government issues and smaller offerings of other obligations originating in Germany weakened the bond market today. Activity with few exceptions, however, was more or less nominal and the day's business aggregated only $8,695,000, par value.

The German 7s, which closed last Saturday at 98⅝, broke to 89¼, while the so-called Young Plan 5½s slumped to 62⅝. In both instances there was some recovery in the later dealings, the former bond finishing at 90, off 8⅝, and the latter 63¼, off 5½. Volume in the 5½s exceeded $600,000 principal amount, while the turnover of the 7s was more than $500,000.

Losses were larger in numerous other German obligations. Berlin City Electric 6s of 1955 had the dimiest drop, 15½ points, and closed at the bottom, 50. Declines of 9 to 12 points elsewhere in the German group were rather frequent.

This weakness, which of course had its impetus in the gloomy state of the reich's financial affairs, communicated to a lesser degree to other foreign bonds, particularly Latin Americans. The domestic investment list, susceptible to the heaviness of the stock market, averaged lower, although many of the highest rated obligations gave little if any ground.

N. W. HARRIS TO OPEN NEW YORK OFFICE JULY 22

Reëntrance of the Harris Trust and Savings bank in the eastern bond field will take place July 22, when the bank's affiliate, the N. W. Harris company, will open an office at 54 Cedar street, New York.

The company will operate as a complete investment banking unit, with facilities for institutions, corporations, and individuals, according to the announcement made last night.

The establishing an eastern office by the N. W. Harris company follows the consolidation of Harris, Forbes & Co., with the security underwriting and distributing business of the Chase Securities corporation, the investment affiliate of the Chase National bank. Prior to the consolidation Harris Trust had handled most of the Harris Forbes deals in this territory and the later firm represented the Chicago bank in the east.

Shoe Trade Turns Corner, Retail Group Head Says

A. H. Geuting, president of the National Shoe Retailers' association, said the shoe trade of the country "has definitely turned the corner." He added the shoe industry is the first major industry to show definite improvement as a result of the debt holiday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 13.—Chain stores for June have shown remarkably favorable gains over the same month last year, and while it is taken into consideration that June represented nearly the ebb of business last year, the increases shown this June are accepted in Wall street as indicating a continual gradual upward trend instead of a summer slump as was experienced last year.

Numerous of the chains which experienced losses in comparison with last year for the first five months of the year made a great enough increase in June so that in many cases they were able to report an increase for the first six months and in many others the loss was very slight compared to what the first five months had shown.

Accepted as Barometers.

The bankers who watch the chain stors sales as a barometer of business conditions point out that the increases in sales in June are the most optimistic indications that have come from general business. They say that in making comparisons with last year the decline in commodity prices should be taken into consideration, especially in connection with the chain organizations which purvey food, and the decline in prices credited to the gross sales in order to give a comparative basis. Upon this basis, they point out, the chain stores are showing a remarkable increase over last year in practically every month.

The 5-and-10 cent stores are accepted as barometers of business which require no revision in gross sales. Selling at a fixed price the gross sales are a direct indication of the number of transactions, thereby showing the number of buyers who are spending money this year in comparison with last. It is also pointed out that presumably this class of store is not attracting custom from others in the same line, as may be the case in food lines.

In connection with the 5-and-10 cent stores Merrill Lynch and Co. compiled a tabulation of the results of operations for the first eight which reported June sales. The tabulation showed an increase of sales of 5.22 per cent for the eight organizations, which wiped out the decrease which had been shown by the aggregate for the first five months to an increase of 0.49 per cent for the first six months over the corresponding period last year. Gross sales for June of these eight organizations totaled $47,823,624, compared with $45,447,983 last year, and for six months the total was $272,919,539, compared with $271,581,621.

Sales of Woolworth Co.

The largest of the 5-and-10 cent stores included in the tabulation was the F. W. Woolworth company, which reported sales in June of $21,976,075, compared with $20,716,593 last year, and for the six months period $130,276,218, compared with $131,313,496. The June sales showed an increase of 5.1 per cent over the same month last year, while for the six months the sales showed a decrease of eight-tenths of one per cent from the corresponding period in 1930. In connection with this report the company said:

"Woolworth's sales in June were somewhat affected by the period of hot weather experienced toward the close of the month."

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY OMITS ITS DIVIDENDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 13.—[Special.]—Dividends on the ordinary and preference stocks of the Hudson's Bay company have been omitted by the directors. A final dividend of 2½ per cent was authorized on ordinary stock at this time a year ago, which brought total payments for the year to 10 per cent.

Tri-Utilities corporation omitted quarterly dividends of $1.50 on the $6.00 preferred stock and 75 cents on the $3.00 cumulative preferred, due at this time.

New Railroad to Take Over Downstate Line

Springfield, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Organization of a new railroad to take over the Chicago, Springfield and St. Louis railroad between Springfield and Lockhaven and to obtain trackage rights into East St. Louis was completed here today.

The name of the new road as set forth in a statement of incorporation filed with Secretary of State William J. Stratton is the St. Louis, Jerseyville and Springfield Railway company. Plans of operation call for leasing the road to the Chicago and Illinois Midland railroad, subject to approval of the interstate commerce commission, to form a continuous system from Peoria through Springfield to Lockhaven with connections to St. Louis and Chicago and a branch to Taylorville.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 13.—Stocks went down by the head at the opening today, but the market later pulled itself together and the closing figures reflected few losses of more than a point or two. Dispatches from the floor suggested the market was receiving strong banking support in the later dealings. Certainly the selling which came in after the first hour or so was readily absorbed—reputedly by "waiting orders" in the hands of specialists. The assumption was—naturally enough—that such orders had been distributed around by powerful banking groups in a move to forestall a break which it was feared in some quarters might result from the anxiety over the German financial situation.

The German problem kept to the fore in the news bearing on stock dealings all day, what with the announcement of large bank failures and the increasing difficulties which the Reichsbank and the government is experiencing in stopping the withdrawal of foreign short term credits and the flight of German capital. In fact little heed was paid to anything else. The press headlines over the week-end had created not a little excitement among the trading gentry and, when the various brokerage houses opened up this morning they found an unusual accumulation of selling orders awaiting their execution.

Prices Break at Start.

Dumping of these orders broke prices of the speculative leaders anywhere from 2 to 5 points and within fifteen minutes after the opening gong had sounded United States Steel was off 3½ points, Atchison was down

In Great Britain

. . . Greater London and Counties Trust Limited

UTILITIES POWER & LIGHT CORPORATION entered the English public utility field several years ago by organizing Greater London and Counties Trust Limited, whose exclusively-electric properties operate in England, Scotland and Wales, principally within a 100-mile radius of the City of London and in a territory with a population in excess of 4,000,000. They serve more than 500 communities, including parts of industrial Birmingham and the suburbs of London. Through an important acquisition in South Wales early this year, one of the subsidiaries of Greater London and Counties Trust Limited now has the largest single continuous electric area under one control in Great Britain.

The electric light and power industry in Great Britain is beginning now a period of expansion comparable to that which began in America a decade ago. The per capita consumption of electric energy in England is only about one-third that in the United States, but the use of electricity is increasing more than 50 per cent faster than in this country. Prospects for the future appear to be better than in almost any section of the world.

The British Government is making every effort to promote and encourage electrification, and Utilities Power & Light Corporation is aiding in every way.

These British subsidiaries constitute but one of a number of public utility groups serving more than 1100 communities in the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, which receive the benefits of Utilities Power & Light Corporation management. Write for detailed information.

CHICAGO STOCKS SHOW ORDERLY PRICE DECLINES

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

La Salle street received the unfavorable news from abroad yesterday with surprising calm. Final readings from the barometer of sentiment, the stock market, showed moderate declines, but the fluctuations recorded were narrow, giving little indication of bad weather ahead.

After a flurry of selling at the opening activity in the security markets died down and quiet prevailed throughout the remainder of the trading period. The good support accorded the leading shares in New York lent confidence to the traders here and stocks on the Chicago exchange escaped with net losses of only a point or so. The day's business involved only 82,000 shares, most of which represented trading in utility issues.

See Early Settlement.

Not a few traders showed an inclination to discount the seriousness of the German situation. It was felt in some quarters that the picture was being painted blacker than conditions warrant for political reasons. The only basis for this belief lay apparently in the fact that important financial interests were supporting their stocks which indicated that an early settlement of the German problem was in sight. With the "insiders" showing plenty of confidence the little fellows were willing to put on a brave front and trail along for the time being.

The market action of the Insull stocks, which claimed most of the attention here, was fairly typical of the general list. Insull Utility backed down to 23½ on the early trades, then crept back to finish with a net loss of a fraction. Middle West recovered to within a slight fraction of its previous quotation on a heavy volume of transactions.

Earnings Reports Due Soon.

Consideration of the forthcoming earnings reports to which the financial community temporarily turned last week has been abandoned again for the more engrossing foreign question. Unless an early settlement is effected overseas it is felt that foreign developments may continue to be the dominant market influence for some time to come. This will hardly eliminate the necessity of facing the earnings statements, however.

As a market stimulant the depositors have recently neglected the pending application of the railroads for higher rates. Hope for early action by the commission has gone glimmering, and it is now felt that it will be a matter of several months before any relief is extended to the carriers.

UNITED FOUNDERS SHARES WORTH $7.21 ON JUNE 30

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Consolidated asset value of United Founders corporation common stock, based on the market value of the portfolio as of June 30 was $7.21 a share, and on May 31, was $5.80 a share according to the report for the six months ended May 31, mailed today to stockholders.

The report of its subsidiary, American Founders corporation, for the same period, shows a consolidated asset value for the common stock June 30, of $4.36 per share, and on May 31 of $3.59 per share.

The report of United Founders is on a consolidated basis with American Founders, which has five subsidiaries and investment trust associates. United Founders also controls United States Electric Power corporation, but the accounts of that company are not consolidated in United Founders report.

Net losses of $7,710,879 applicable to United Founders corporation are reported for the six months, and the surplus and undivided profits are reduced from $55,935,676 to $49,594,988. Bank loans were reduced from $12,000,000 on Nov. 30, 1930, to $9,000,000 on May 31, 1931, and the report adds that they have since been further reduced to $8,500,000.

Record Grain Loadings; Santa Fe Ry. Takes Lead

Farmers in the southwest are anxious to cash in on their record wheat crop and are selling as fast as they can find buyers. Kansas raised 200,000,000 bu of wheat this year, the largest of any state in the country. With Kansas, Texas, and Oklahoma combined the three states have 325,000,000 bu this year, a record crop, and 113,000,000 bu more than last year. These states also have good crops of other small grains and a good promise for corn. Kansas has a yield per acre of 16 bu, as compared with 12.5 bu last year. Its record was 20.5 bu. Stocks of old wheat on farms in Kansas are 1,666,000 bu, compared with 7,424,000 bu last year. The record grain movement means much to the southwestern railroads, especially to the Santa Fe and Rock Island.

The Santa Fe loaded and moved 14,407 cars of grain, mostly wheat, last week, and for the last two weeks 27,353 cars. Since June 15 the aggregate was 35,801 cars, compared with 21,802 cars last year. The Rock Island loadings for the first ten days in June were 7,419 cars, compared with 4,792 cars for the same time last year. Its loadings of other grains also were large and compared well with last year. A good part of the surplus cars of the large railroad systems have been put into active service within the last three weeks, aggregating close to 50,000 cars.

BY AL CHASE.

Sellers of bonds on the Adams-Wells building, at the northeast corner of Wells and Adams, who recently formed the Adams-Wells Building corporation, yesterday leased the property from Joseph B. Moos for thirty-one years from July 1, 1931. This was accomplished through the cancellation of a former ninety-nine year lease. A defaulted bond issue, underwritten by De Wolfe & Co., had been made on the leasehold estate and building.

E. W. Carroll, president of the Adams-Wells Building corporation, is a Bay City, Mich., banker. S. M. Sisler, secretary of the same corporation, is also from the Michigan city. The bondholders have taken stock in the new corporation. Mr. Moos and some of the bondholders who advanced money to pay back taxes, took prior preferred stock.

Sterling Morton of the Morton Salt company; Otto Sovereign, president of the Aladdin company, builders, of Bay City, Mich.; W. J. Knight, Monroe, Wis., banker, and Otto Buerki of Bay City, Wis., are members of the bondholders' protective committee.

Balance Rental for 10 Years.

In the reorganization plan Mr. Moos raised the rental for the first ten years in the new lease. The annual rental in this new lease is $16,000 for two years, $18,000 for the third year, $20,000 for the next, then $22,000 for the fifth, $24,000 for the sixth, $28,000 for the seventh, $28,000 for the eighth, and $30,000 annually for the balance of the term. The term rental is $2,981,-000. The average annual rental is $20,130. The leasing value established is $952,680, or $15,000 a front foot and $37 per square foot.

The lease agrees within twenty-two years to remove the present eight story structure, which is 40x90, and erect a building to cost not less than $200,000, and to be at least ten stories high. Sanders, Childs, Bobb & Westcott were attorneys for the bondholders and Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmas, Levinson & Morse for Mr. Moos.

La Salle-Wacker Lease.

Fort Garages, Inc., organized to operate a coast to coast chain of garages, has leased space on the twenty-fourth floor of La Salle-Wacker building at an undisclosed rental, for headquarters. Albert Hart, who originated the idea for the system bearing his name, is general manager. Harry B. Sayer is president, Kenneth Wilcox is the president, and Frank J. Czech, treasurer. The company will supply interchangeable service among the various garages of the system.

The federal government has renewed its lease on the Diversey postoffice station, at 2723 Lehman court, from John F. Vokoun, William H. Hess, and Alois J. Liepold for ten years from Aug. 1, 1931, at $4,000 rental annually.

FARMERS CO. TO BUY AND LEASE GRAIN ELEVATORS

Expansion of operations by the Farmers National Grain Cooperative association in the intermountain region and on the Pacific northwest coast is officially announced. Elevators are to be bought or leased, and where there are no storage facilities they are to be furnished to help the sales develop their business.

"Acquisition of elevator and warehouse properties in the intermountain territory, following the launching of a million dollar facilities program in the Pacific Northwest, puts the national grain cooperative in a strong position for the handling of the grain business in these two territories," said C. E. Huff, president of Farmers National Grain corporation. "The intermountain properties include 21 warehouses and elevators from the Colorado Milling and Elevator company, Denver, and 16 from the Globe Milling and Elevator company, Ogden, Utah.

Negotiations for the purchase of the Soo Line terminal elevator at Minneapolis have been practically completed, it was said. The house has a capacity of 2,300,000 bushels, is of modern construction and electrically equipped for fast operations, with sufficient ground for additional storage space should it be required later.

GERMAN UNREST LOWERS PRICES OF ALL GRAINS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Unfavorable financial developments in Germany were reflected in a break in grain futures yesterday that carried all deliveries of wheat, corn, oats and rye, except July corn, to a new low for the season and for many years.

July wheat which dropped 1⅝c to 50⅝c, came within ⅝c of the inside figure in July, 1894, while July rye at 36⅞c, was 3⅝ lower than Saturday's finish, and also in new ground since 1894. December corn, representing the new crop sold off 1⅞c and touched 44¼c, the lowest level since 1910 when it was down to 43½c, while July oats at 24½c showed 1⅝c under the previous close and equalled the inside figure of 1902.

Hedging pressure and scattered liquidation, partly on stop loss orders were responsible for the early break which carried wheat and corn and oats, off 1⅝@2c, and rye 2¾@3¾c from the final figures of Saturday, there being a noticable lack of support until prices dropped to a figure that brought in buying by holders of daily and weekly bids.

Liverpool Nears Record Low.

Economic conditions the world over have been playing a very important part in depressing the grain markets during the past two weeks and since June 29 wheat futures have declined 8¾@9¾c, and December corn 11⅝c from the high of that day. Bullish news has attracted little attention from the average trader, and while there was a strong rally from the inside figures yesterday it was due mainly to short covering, and in wheat there was some buying of Chicago futures against sales at Winnipeg, as the latter is regarded as the highest market in the world.

Wheat closed with net losses of ⅝@1⅜c with July, 51⅝@51¾c; September, 52@52⅛c, and December, 56⅜@56¾c. Winnipeg after breaking 2¾c early rallied sharply, and closed 1¼@1⅝c lower with July, 55⅝c. Liverpool July closed at 56c, the lowest figure for either futures or contract grades of cash wheat since 1654, when the low price according to available records was equal to 54½c per bu. The English market was off 1@1⅛d for the day, and based on a normal shipping difference the price of the July there suggested a figure of around 15c to the Kansas farmer or well below what he is receiving at the present time.

Foreigns appear to be in no rush to secure supplies of North American wheat despite the low level of prices, and sales of only 200,000 bu hard winter were claimed during the day to Holland, although there were intimations that Germany was in the market. No. 1 hard winter wheat at the Gulf was quoted at ⅛c under Chicago September, or the same basis that has prevailed for several days.

Over 2,000 cars of new winter wheat were received at the various markets on Monday, or slightly in excess of the arrivals of a week ago. Numerous reports were received from the southwest suggesting that farmers were holding back their grain wherever possible.

July Corn Congested.

Despite the liquidation which was in evidence in the deferred deliveries of corn early the July again acted tight and rallied 1⅝c from the inside figure, and closed at the top with a loss of ½c finishing at 56⅝@56¾c, while the distant futures were 1c lower for the day with September, 50⅜ to 50⅝@50⅝c, and December, 45@45⅛c.

Weather and crop reports on corn were favorable with soaking rains over the week end in parts of the main belt, and sentiment generally was inclined to be bearish, although many operators claimed that the price of grains was so low that they were afraid to sell short. Shipping demand for cash corn was slow and country offerings to arrive limited.

There was a lack of support in the oats market at the start, but later cash houses took the buying side and prices rallied with corn with the finish ⅝@1⅛c lower, July showing the most weakness and closed at 24¾c, while September was 25¼@25⅝c, and December, 28¼c.
